Editor's Column

STUART R. PADDOCK

We wish we could let our readers know the extent of Southern hospitality that has come our way since we left Atlanta three days ago. During this time we have crossed the state of Georgia and will cross it again before we say "goodbye" to the 150 other editors who are with us.

We have enjoyed luncheons, breakfasts, snacks and dinners, the courtesy of municipalities, business firms, governmental agencies, chambers of commerce, newspapers, and Uncle Sam's fighting forces.

The latter was host in the officer's club at Fort Benning. We had earlier attended a display that was patterned after that given two days earlier for President Eisenhower, high ranking brass and industrial leaders, scientists and engineers.

It included devastating shows of fire power and mobility gained with modern weapons and air and ground vehicles.

We never expected to see in action such armor. It included tanks, flame throwers, and companies of foot soldiers guiding the tanks through exploding mines.

It was a battle problem performed for the benefit of a graduating class of 2nd Lieutenants who saw a 'battle in action,' with a major describing the action.

As the problem advanced, reinforcements came to the front in armored vehicles. Large helicopters brought reinforcements as well as small armored tanks.

We did not need any warning to protect our ears after the first volley from the guns on five huge tanks, the colored missiles of which could be followed by the eye until they hit on a hill nearly a mile distant.

It was a great show for the editors, although it was really a training problem for the officers and men who are being brought to Fort Benning from all parts of the United States and NATO countries.

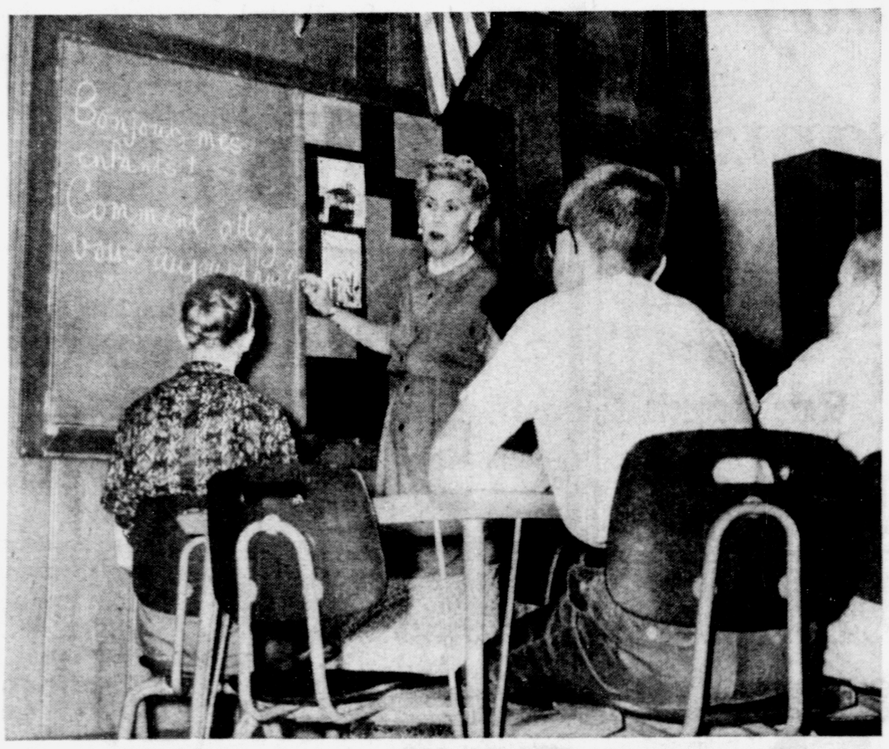
We were also initiated in war tactics by an exhibition of the training of German Shepherd dogs. They are used for scouting, mine detection (used only by Germany and Russia), messengers, who have two handlers.

Others are the casualty dogs, known as Red Cross dogs, who locate the wounded; and attack dogs used for sentry work. A force of 500 to 600 pounds a cubic inch is exerted by their jaws.

With the attack collar off and show collar on, the dogs displayed were friendly and allowed members of the editorial party to approach them.

Their possible viciousness in attack was shown when a handler ordered one of them to attack a distant man (protected) who was thrown to the ground in a matter of seconds.

The Marines use the Doberman, but the army uses the German Shepherd because of their protective coats. At Fort Benning the dogs are used to add realism in training for the dogs as well as for the men who handle them.



MRS. DORIS MOSELEY, part-time French language teacher at South junior high school in Arlington Heights, conducts one of her last sessions for eighth grade students. Two new teachers have been hired to devote their full attention to revised French course that will be compulsory starting in September. Mrs. Moseley will give all of her time to the library.

French Classes Set For Eighth Graders

All eighth grade students in Arlington Heights district 25 junior high schools will be required to take a year's French starting next September.

Offered for the first time as a fundamental course on a par with spelling, arithmetic, history, and other courses that are considered the backbone of the curriculum, the French will be taught eighth graders for four 20-minute periods a week for 40 weeks.

Primary purpose of the course is to teach the students to speak the language through the use of an oral-aural technique. The teacher speaks the word; the pupil hears it, and repeats it.

For the past five years French, German and Spanish have been offered at the eighth grade level as electives. Purpose of the courses, however, has been more to acquaint the student with the language and the history of the people who speak it rather than have the student concentrate on speaking it.

STARTING NEXT school year Spanish and German will be dropped and the French course no longer will be considered exploratory or as merely an aid to assist students in choosing a foreign language in high school.

Two full-time teachers have been hired to devote their entire time to teaching and developing the French course. One is from the University of Iowa, the other from Marquette university. They will teach six sections at Miner and eight sections at South junior high school.

In addition to teaching they will gather and prepare teaching materials and evaluate the course and the benefits derived from it.

The oral-aural technique is relatively new and teachers are rare. District 25 spent over four months hunting for its teachers. A year ago there were 15 schools in the state using the technique on an experimental basis.

IN THIS technique the pupil mimics the teacher's pronunciation. Liberal use is made of visual aid material and tape recorders.

There will be no after school assignments or text books to begin with. As the youngsters become more proficient, however, written materials will be introduced.

The course will be evaluated as to whether it should be moved downward to the lower grades or expanded in scope. It will also be studied with an eye to coordinating it with the high school foreign language program.

Arlington Blue-Coats Top Shots

Arlington Heights bluecoats won their second Northwest Municipal Pistol Shoot last week in competition with six other area police forces.

Winner of last fall's first shoot, the local police are far ahead in competition for the Manager's Traveling Trophy. The trophy will be permanently awarded to the team with the most victories after twelve shoots.

WINNERS OF individual trophies on the Arlington Heights team were Patrolman Ray Brosius and Lt. Ray Jahnke. Brosius placed first and Jahnke second in competition with 101 area police officers. Arlington Heights placed five men among the top 10, including Police Chief L. W. Calderwood.

Des Plaines was runnerup to Arlington Heights in the team match. Other teams in order of their placement were Mt. Prospect, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Park Ridge, and Barrington.

A Correction

Hasbrook Center Is Scheduled

Development of the 14-acre Hasbrook park in north Arlington Heights as a third major recreation center for the park district is scheduled to begin this summer.

At a meeting between park board members and representatives of the Hasbrook Civic association last week plans were revealed for the park that include:

—a multi-purpose building.
—softball diamonds.
—a football field.
—tennis courts.
—walks through the park and additional landscaping.
—intermediate and tot playgrounds with apparatus.

THE PLANS, drawn by McFadzean, Everly and associates, Winnetka park planners, also include a swimming and wading pool with bathhouse. There is some question, however, as to whether the swimming pool should be located in the park or at another north side site.

According to Park Director Tom Thornton, the park board realizes the need for a swimming pool for the growing area within the next few years. But, said Thornton, there is a feeling that such a pool might be better located to the west of Hasbrook park.

He noted the difficulties of grading the sloping park for a pool. He also cited the proximity of residences to the proposed pool, and the parking problems that might be created.

Without the pool, the proposed improvements would cost in the neighborhood of $100,000.

NOT ALL of the improvements would be accomplished this summer, noted Thornton. The first project will be the installment of intermediate and tot playground equipment which is on order and due to arrive next month.

Protection for Homeowner?

Trustees Consider Swim Pool Rulings

How far should a village go to protect a home owner against himself?

This is the question prompted by a proposed swimming pool ordinance for Arlington Heights that would require a "skilled swimmer" to be on hand anytime a swimming pool is in use, be it a family or apartment pool.

Up for consideration at last week's village board meeting, the ordinance caused Trustee Bill Sauer to remark that "it's possible a man would have to get his neighbor to stand-by before he could use his swimming pool."

"I think this is a case of over-legislation. I feel if the ordinance passes in this form, all we're doing is stopping construction of swimming pools in the village. It'd be easier to just ban them altogether," said Sauer.

VILLAGE Attorney Stephen Jurco noted that swimming pool construction in Chicago had slowed because of such a provision.

Trustees agreed that a "skilled swimmer" should be on duty at apartment pools. But even there, Trustee Melvin Kurtz wanted to know if a "skilled swimmer" would have to be certified as to his skill.

Trustee Bob Bukowski noted he was against deleting the "skilled swimmer" requirement from family pools and letting it remain for apartment pools. "I don't want to remove the implication for need of safety at a family pool," he said.

SAUER MOVED to eliminate the necessity of a "skilled swimmer" in reference to family pools. His motion was supported by Trustees Eugene Schlickman and Samuel Wit. It was, however, defeated when Mayor Carlisle cast a negative vote along with Trustees Bukowski and Kurtz.

Bukowski then moved that reference to "skilled swimmer" be completely deleted from the the ordinance because "it's in the area of private property and private morals."

Again this motion was defeated by a 3-3 tie. Mayor Carlisle instructed the village attorney to reword the ordinance in such a manner that it would meet with trustee approval and at the same time provide maximum safety.

Grand Charity Ball Sell-Out Predicted

The Grand Charity Ball —a "Southern Fantasy"— promises to be a sellout when it is staged this Saturday night at the Arlington Jockey club, is the optimistic verdict of N. F. (Bud) Sherman, chairman of the event's planning committee.

The ball follows the Friday night Junior Prom of Arlington high school, with prom decorations to remain for the adults' dance on Saturday. Proceeds will be donated to Northwest Family Service. The ball will run from 10 p. m. to 2 a.m.

Reenactments of famous Arlington Park horse races will be narrated by Phil Georgeff, one of America's outstanding horse race announcers, according to Sherman.

THE RACES will be projected on a theater-size screen. Eight films of famous races will be shown through the courtesy of the Arlington Park Jockey club, with female tellers strategically placed for those desiring to place "wagers" on the outcome of races.

"There will be no tickets available at the door," Sherman emphasized. For last minute tables, he added, persons should call Mrs. Sherman at CL. 3-0675 or Mrs. Stephen Jurco at CL. 3-5211.

If the weather is favorable, Sherman said, the grand concourse adjacent to the ballroom will be opened for strolling and will be strung with colored lights.

GUESTS WILL reach the ballroom by crossing a rustic bridge spanning the "bayou," and will be greeted by scenic renderings of Southland scenes, with some murals towering 15 feet high and stretching 108 feet in width.

Over 15,000 magnolia blossoms will grace the ballroom's chandeliers, and girls in southern costume will greet male arrivals with white carnations to be sold for charity's sake, Sherman noted.

Except for when races are being shown, continuous music will be provided by Les Waverly and the Edgewater Beach hotel orchestra, an 18-piece group.

Purchases will be made with "charity chips" of $1 demonination, Sherman pointed out. Dress will be formal for the occasion, but cocktail dresses for ladies and dark suits or white coats for men will be acceptable, he added. A contribution of $10 per couple is asked.

THE MURALS and other decorations are being made available for the event by the junior class board of Arlington high school. More than 75 civic and social leaders in the northwest suburban area are sponsoring the affair; sponsors will be responsible for a table which seats a party of 10.

More than 1,000 persons are expected to the benefit, Sherman anticipates. Family Service counseling agency serves the communities of Arlington Heights, Palatine, Mt. Prospect and Des Plaines.

A Herald Editorial

Need for Oakton St.

An informal public hearing is scheduled for June 2 on one of the most controversial public improvements in Arlington Heights' history—the improvement of Oakton st.

This east-west street in the northern portion of the village has engendered heated debate and angry accusations for nearly a year.

Hardly anyone, taxpayer or trustee, denies that Oakton—an interrupted, pockmarked street—needs improving. But to what extent is another question.

Some feel the street should be widened to a 40 foot major thoroughfare and extended from Wilke to Rand rd.

Others want to leave the street as it is, merely resurfacing it where needed.

The Herald feels the village's interest, which should be the primary consideration in any improvement, lies somewhere between these extremes.

There is no question but that the street needs widening and extension, both to better the flow of traffic in the northern portion of the village and to make the area more accessible to public vehicles, such as police and fire, in the interests of health and safety.

It would appear, however, that the county's plans to make Palatine rd. to the north an expressway would lessen the necessity of making Oakton a 40 foot thoroughfare as recommended by the village's master plan.

We are further advised that the village anticipates the county widening Euclid st. to the south at a future date.

On the other hand, we do not feel the widening and extension of Oakton would merely benefit the "racetrack crowd" as charged by some residents.

Police Chief Calderwood has given assurance that racetrack traffic can be rerouted off of Oakton.

We further feel that a widened Oakton would not turn the street into a drag racing strip or represent a traffic hazard to area youngsters. Edward Klamm of the Arlington Heights Safety Council has recommended that the street be widened to either 36 or 40 feet.

Next week's informal hearing will be on a proposal to improve Oakton from Yale east to State rd. Improvements to the east of State rd. will likely be considered at a later date.

Residents of the Oakton st. area have been hard at work studying the need for improvements to the street. We hope that their study will be revealed June 2 to have been based on reason and facts and what's best for their community rather than on emotion.

We further hope that village officials, both Board of Local Improvement members and village trustees, who will ultimately act upon the BOLI recommendation, will remind themselves that their obligation is to the whole community rather than to a homeowner's group or a particular neighborhood.

Police Hunt For Teenage Hitchhikers

Arlington Heights police are searching this week for two teenage hitchhikers who pulled a pistol on their benefactor at Wilke rd. and Northwest hwy. and fled with $17.

Arthur H. Flentie, 815 Vincene, Park Ridge, reported to village police Sunday night that he gave the two boys a lift at Northwest hwy. and rt. 53 in Palatine.

HE RELATED that when he halted for a stop sign at Wilke rd., one of the boys pulled a .38 cal. automatic. After robbing Flentie, the boys jumped from the car and ran south on Wilke rd.

The man identified the youths as "around 16." One had blond curly hair. The other was a red-head with a crew cut.

Announce Selections For Concerts in '60

The artists selection committee of the Arlington Heights Community Concert association chose five concerts for the coming season last Sunday following the close of the membership campaign Saturday.

Concerts will take place in October, November, January, March, and April at the Arlington high school boys' gym.

Definite dates have not been set yet.

Heading the list is the Obenkerchen Children's choir of 36.

This group has had five Ed Sullivan show appearances on CBS-TV, six standing-room-only New York Town hall recitals, and six sold-out tours.

A SECOND concert will be the appearance of soprano Beverly Bower. To TV viewers she is known for her guest shots on the Jack Paar show.

The artists selection committee then settled on "The Little Music Theatre."

Vocal artistry and theatrical savoir-faire keynote an evening of light opera and Broadway music.

Another concert will involve Pianist Ivan Davis. He is one of the superior American pianists who has won a string of musical prizes from both the United States and abroad, plus acclaimed European and American recital and orchestral appearances.

ROUNDING out the series of five concerts, the Temianka Little Symphony will be presented.

This ensemble of 15 virtuoso performers, including many soloists from the entire United States, is under the direction of the notable violinist and musical figure, Henri Temianka.

The climax of the program will be Saint-Saens' "Carnival of the Animals" featuring the duo-pianists, William Corbett Jones and Sylvia Jenkins, playing two Baldwin concert grands. (AF

Seek Rezoning On Apartments

A hearing on one of the largest apartment projects planned for the village—144 units—will be held Wednesday, June 8, at 8 p.m. in the village hall at a joint meeting of Arlington Heights zoning board of appeals and plan commission.

The Klehm family is seeking to have seven acres at Ridge and Miner sts., across from the municipal garage and adjacent to the railroad tracks, rezoned from M-1 (limited manufacturing) to R-6 (multi-family).

Plans for the $1.75 million project have been under way since last December. They have been held up, however, because of the village's adoption of a new zoning ordinance.

UNDER THE old ordinance it was possible to use a zoned plot of land for a higher use without rezoning it. The new ordinance, however, "freezes" a zoning use, in this case industrial, to just that use unless property is rezoned.

Builder William Carroll has an option on the land. If it is rezoned, plans call for 120 one-bedroom and 24 two-bedroom units.

THE KLEHM'S have had offers from industry for the site, one of which was from a building materials business.

Village trustees have expressed varying opinions as to whether the site is best suited for industry or apartments.

Rail Underpass Study Complete

Completion of an engineering study recommending the most desirable places for underpasses beneath the railroad tracks in Arlington Heights is expected by Village Manager L. A. Hanson within the next 60 days.

The study, conducted by Consoer and Townsend, will also discuss possibilities of underpass financing, said Hanson.

Tour Old Building

Village Hall Study Committee Organizes

Over 40 civic leaders and representatives of various organizations in Arlington Heights got off to a fast start Monday night in their task of determining whether the village needs a new municipal building, and if so, when to seek passage of a bond issue.

Following a tour of the building conducted by Village Manager L. A. Hanson, the Citizen's Committee, under the temporary chairmanship of Jack Keller, elected the following officers:

—Chairman, John Woods, general counsel for Universal Oil Products company.

— Vice-chairman, Edmund O'Brien, representing the local American Legion post.

—Secretary, Mrs. Orville Anderson, representing the Woman's Club.

—Chairman of building committee, William Trude, attorney and builder.

—Chairman of finance committee, Paul Collins, president of the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association.

—Chairman and co-chairman of publicity committee, Richard Dunlop, author, and Raymond Becker, representing the Hasbrook Civic association.

THIS GROUP forms the executive committee. Other members of the Citizen's Committee will be assigned to the various committees.

In their tour of the present building, committee members poked into overcrowded offices, observed jury-rigged electrical wiring, commented on inadequate toilet facilities, and peered into a manhole that leads to an abandoned reservoir over which a portion of the present hall is built.

As committee members sat over the reservoir in the main assembly room, they heard Mayor Edward Carlisle read an engineering report that predicted the "roof slab will probably start falling in a few years."

"I remind you that this report is two years old," warned the Mayor, as he no doubt visualized the board of trustees and 46 committee members plunging into the 10 feet of water that rests in the vault.

MAYOR Carlisle assured the committee that their function was not to act as a "rubber stamp group."

"If any of you wish to invite friends or neighbors to serve on the committee, it's fine with the board. We don't want anyone to think that we've selected a group of people who all think as the board does," said the Mayor.

He urged committee members to investigate thoroughly whether a new building was needed, and if so, what size it should be.

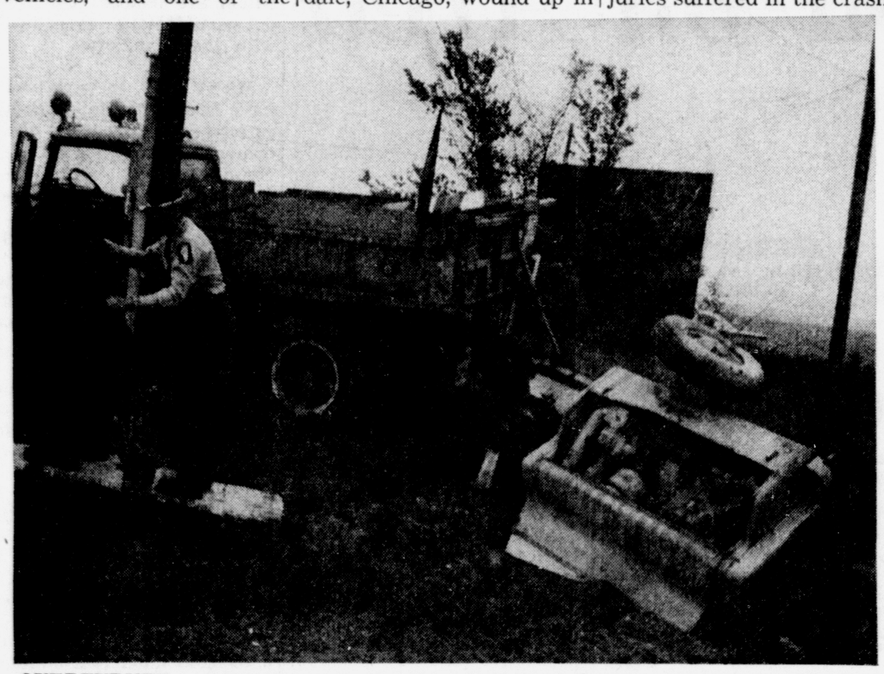
Cows and Cars Crash In Highway Accident

Two cows and two cars were participants in an accident last Saturday on Illinois 72 a quarter mile east of Illinois 53 in Elk Grove township.

The two cows had to be destroyed while there was $600 damage done to the vehicles, and one of the drivers, Allen E. Grobart, 28, of 6328 W. Bloomingdale, Chicago, wound up in Northwest Community hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in the crash.



OVERTURNED compressor was being towed by state highway truck above when it was rammed by panel pickup truck Friday at intersection of Illinois 62 and Roselle rd. Two drivers and a passenger in state truck were taken to Sherman hospital in Elgin for treatment of injuries suffered in the crash. (B8

District 3 state police, who investigated the mishap, charged the other driver, Robert B. Kaups, 24, of 185 Western, Hoffman Estates, with having no driver's license on his person.

Police said that Grobart's car ran into the cows—which were crossing the highway—while he was going west on Illinois 72. The impact spun his car around, and the car driven in the same direction by Kapus collided with it.

THE TWO cows, which had to be shot, belonged to Victor Pohlman, Rt. 1, Box 59, Palatine. Kapus, his wife, Patricia, 24, and their daughter, Kathryn, 5 weeks, who were riding in the car, all escaped injury.

In other mishaps, on Sunday James W. Stoltenberg, 29, of 338 W. St. Mary's, Buffalo Grove, was taken to Northwest Community hospital for treatment of injuries suffered when the car he was driving ran off the road while headed northeast on Illinois 53 a quarter of a mile northeast of U.S. 12 and smashed into a clump of trees.

Stoltenberg told police he fell asleep at the wheel. He as cited for traveling too fast for conditions. Damage to his car amounted to $1,000, police estimate.

On Saturday, Police cited Barry G. Hasterok, 25, of 253 Albert terr., Wheeling, for driving too fast for conditions after he fell asleep at the wheel of the car he was driving and it crashed into some steel girders stockpiled along the road for sewer construction. Hasterok was driving north on U.S. 12 when the car left the road at the intersection of Illinois 83. Damage to his car was figured at $400.

On the same date, following a two-car mishap at Illinois 21 and Palatine rd., police charged Richard M. Abbott, 37, of 210 N. Schubert, Palatine, with failure to yield the right-of-way after he attempted a left-hand turn from Illinois 21 onto Palatine rd. and collided with a car headed south on Illinois 21 driven by Robert E. Hollander, 40, of 3320 Overland Pass, Northbrook. Damage to the vehicles was set at $300.

On Friday, May 20, police cited Richard F. Fanella, 21, of 2233 74th ave., Elmwood Park, for failure to yield the right-of-way after he ran into the side of a state highway truck pulling a compressor going west on Illinois 62.

POLICE said Fanella, who was headed south on Roselle rd., stated that he stopped for the stop sign, saw no approaching traffic, and started across the intersection.

Fanella, the driver of the truck, Walter H. Gieske, 64, of R.R. 2, Box 201, Barrington, and a passenger in the truck, Daniel L. Gilly, 66, of 107 Bradwell, Barrington, were taken to Sherman hospital in Elgin for treatment of injuries.

Damage to the truck and compressor was estimated at $2,000, which matched the damage figured done to the panel truck Fanella was driving which belongs to Gorden Baking company, Chicago.

On the same date, Marvin Krooner, 27, of 227 W. Russell, Barrington, was taken to his home for treatment of bruises suffered when he swerved off the road to avoid an unknown vehicle approaching in the wrong lane as he drove west on Illinois 62. Krooner's car went into the ditch and rolled over. The mishap occurred one block west of Freeman rd. in Barrington township. Krooner's car was described as a total wreck. (B8

Realtors To Hear Rich Port

RICH PORT

Northwest Suburban board of realtors will hear Rich Port at the monthly dinner meeting Thursday, May 26, at 7 p.m. at the Elks club, 495 Lee st., Des Plaines.

He is president of Rich Port, Realtor, Inc., with three suburban offices in La Grange, Western Springs and Naperville.

Port is also president of the Rich Port Development corporation and president of Popima, Inc., publishers of the Pictorial Home magazine.

His talk, "Price Impasse," which will be heard the evening of the 26th, has been used at several district sales-education seminars in the past few months.

He has won local, state and national recognition for his residential merchandising techniques and appraisal methods.

Q. At a recent wedding I took an aisle seat, which I kept — requiring later guests to pass in front of me to the other seats in the pew. They seemed much annoyed. Was I wrong?

A. No. The advantage of being first comers is the right to keep the aisle seats, and to be expected to surrender these would be unfair.

Q. I have been invited to a wedding in which my fiance is to be best man .The maid-of-honor is an unmarried friend of the bride. Is my fiance supposed to escort her home after the reception?

A. Certainly not. His duty is toward you.

Frank Renaut At Keynote Meeting

The Keynote Studio of Barrington has been fortunate in securing Frank Renaut of York, Pa. for the next meeting of the Lowrey Organ club of Barrington to be held June 6, at 8 P.M.

Frank Renaut is a "show stopper' on the organ and is a well-known star of radio, TV, and concerts in the east.

Because of the large attendance expected for this last meeting of the '59 to '60 season and the interest in the new "Festival" full-size organ on which Renaut will perform, it has been decided to hold the meeting at Roslyn Rd. School auditorium rather than at the Keynote Studio. Roslyn Rd. school is near intersection of Rt. 14 and 59.

Another feature of the evening will be the opportunity for all to meet Mrs. F. C. Lowrey of Wauconda, widow of the man who developed the Lowrey Organ. Anyone interested in music is promised a thrilling performance and is welcome to attend. There is no admission charge.

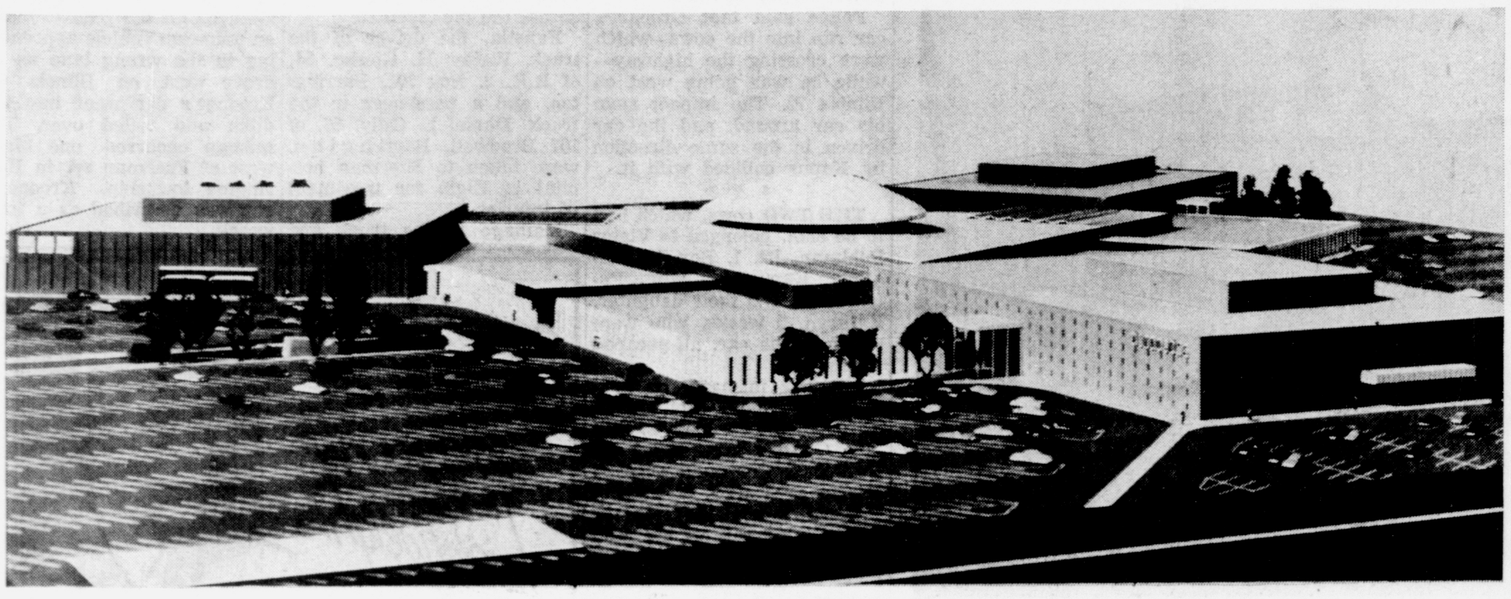
Giant Randhurst to Cast Economic Shadow on Area



A SCALE MODEL of the Randhurst shopping center, on display at the corporation's offices at 222 N. Michigan ave., Chicago, shows the triangular-shaped center with its domed center mall. The developers expect to have about 130 stores in the $23 million center when it is completed in August, 1962. The huge project will present heavy competition for local merchants and other centers in the area, but most of the businessmen feel that the tremendous growth of the northwest area will support them all. (B8

Shopping Bonanza Affects Suburbs

by TOM McSHANE

The $23 million Randhurst shopping bonanza scheduled for construction at the corner of Rand and Elmhurst rds. on the north edge of Mount Prospect, already is casting its shadow across the economic future of the northwest suburbs.

Coupled with the Mount Prospect Plaza, a 50-acre, 38-store project at Rand and Central rds., the Randhurst giant portends sweeping changes in the surrounding neighborhood, the whole village of Mount Prospect, and in the day-by-day routines of the thousands of people who will live near it.

Like many other suburbs that face the emergence of the huge shopping development as their center ring attraction, Mt. Prospect is snowballing toward bigness, and all the problems that run with it.

BEFORE Randhurst's 10,000-car parking lot and 130-plus business establishments open in August, 1962, the village, its businessmen, and its residents are going to have to make some weighty adjustments.

They are going to have to expect traffic such as they've never seen in their quiet town. Cars will be streaming into, through, and around the village on their way to the centers.

They can expect a continuing housing boom as homeseekers become impressed with the accessibility of the new market places.

Randhurst and the Plaza should hasten the development of the area north from Mt. Prospect to Wheeling. Prospect Heights should sprawl to the east as far as the Des Plaines river.

The area, in effect, will face problems similar to those confronting the close-in suburbs of Skokie, Morton Grove, and Niles today. The metropolis is moving, bringing with it congestion, people, and the clashes of people.

AS MIGHT BE expected, there is some concern among businessmen in Mt. Prospect's downtown district that the new centers will mean a loss in trade and profits.

But the view is far from pessimistic. Several leading merchants felt they had something to offer that the goliaths could not touch.

"We can give the shopper personal attention and service," Chamber of Commerce President V. Carter Bowen said. "This is something the large centers never can do."

Bowen and William Busse, president of the Mt. Prospect State bank, said they thought the centers would have a heavy initial impact on business downtown, but that it would snap back after the novelty wore off.

Victor Gruen, the internationally-famous architect and planner who designed the fantastic Randhurst center, said two weeks ago that he was convinced from past experience that most local businessmen profited from the development of large centers nearby.

GRUEN POINTED to the tremendous increase in traffic generated by the center. In Mt. Prospect's case, much of this would flow through the downtown area on the way to the centers.

Attractive storefronts and window displays will induce some of those passing through to stop, he said. And many, who have never been through the village before, will be surprised to find another business section.

Gruen did not, however, say that all of the downtown merchants would be riding the gravy train as soon as the centers opened.

"Those merchants who have an established business with a good clientele eventually will profit from Randhurst," he said. "Others, who are operating at a low margin may have difficulty."

Busse echoed the architect. "The resourceful, aggressive businessman will survive," he said. "It's hard to say how things will go, but I'm sure the downtown area won't be worse off."

The Chamber secretary, Jack Keefer, said the merchants already were working on promotion campaigns to stimulate interest in the downtown area.

PERHAPS THE best comparison Mt. Prospect's merchants could turn to to see the effect of a large center on an older business district would be Skokie. There the merchants faced the Old Orchard shopping center and survived.

Carl Schmidt, executive director of the Skokie Chamber, said last week that the Old Orchard development caused considerable friction and enmity over "problems" that really were not problems before it opened.

And, according to Schmidt, not one business establishment folded because of the center.

"Old Orchard improved our downtown business slightly," he said. "People passing through from the south had to negotiate the business district on the way."

Besides the promotions, the Mt. Prospect businessmen are aiming at other improvements that will make their district more attractive. At the top of the list are plans for more street lighting and off-street parking, along with discussions on street widening.

At the individual level, more attention probably will be paid to new merchandising techniques. Storefronts may come in for remodeling if the merchants, most of whom are tenants, can work out satisfactory agreements with their landlords.

MANY OF these plans have been in the talking stages for years. The threat of big competition may hasten their completion.

Opposite the few timorous businessmen on the ledger is a future of solid gold for the residents of the village.

The acquisition of the two centers along Mt. Prospect's northern border will mean upwards of $40,000 a year in sales taxes, according to some estimates. The monies collected from Randhurst and the Plaza could be used for several civic improvement projects.

Skokie, according to Schmidt, realized a 100 per cent increase in sales tax revenue, up to $500,000 a year, upon completion of Old Orchard. With the added funds, that village has installed new street lights, built a $600,000 municipal building, and put up a $400,000 combination police station and court facility.

And Old Orchard is about one-half the size of Randhurst and the Plaza combined.

"Certainly, Mt. Prospect is most fortunate," according to Village President Theodore Lams. "We're on top of the world from the standpoint of future income to the village."

Lams listed several things the village government could do with the monies. Among them: free garbage collection; elimination of the village property tax; and improvements in the downtown area.

(A $400,000 sales tax return would represent about a third of the village's total appropriation for the 1959-60 fiscal year. Property taxes provided about one-sixth of the appropriated funds).

TRUSTEE C. O. Schlaver backed up the president's optimistic forecasts.

"The village board will have more money to provide the services needed in this community," he said.

And Schlaver was optimistic that the board and the downtown businessmen could work out an improvement program that would be beneficial to the whole village.

In the end, Mt. Prospect probably will be tickled pink with its centers, and the village probably will be the envy of many not so fortunate. (B8 talks straight from the shoulder about wash 'n wear suits!

Theoretically, every wash 'n wear suit can be washed—then worn.

But unless the suit is specially constructed and tailored — from tested wash 'n wear fabric blends — it will not come out ready for wearing. Palm Beach Co. pioneers of washable men's suits, devised eleven new construction techniques . . . to give you these full benefits of wash 'n wear: convenience, performance, and appearance. One of their discoveries, the costly million-dollar contour-cut collar, gives custom-tailored perfection to the all-important neck and shoulder area . . . a fit that's hard to find in far more expensive regular suits . . . a fit that stays perfect no matter how many times the suit's washed or worn. There's no finer wash 'n wear suit in America — at any price. Stop in and try one on — you'll see what we mean.

Addresses Broadcasters

Editor Urges Better News from Radio-TV

Newspapers do a better job of meeting their community responsibilities than local radio and television.

So declared Charles Hayes, managing editor of Paddock Publications, in addressing Illinois broadcasters Saturday at a Radio and Television News Clinic in Urbana.

Hayes discussed radio-TV news responsibilities from a newspaperman's viewpoint.

"While all mass media, including newspapers, are open to valid criticism," he said, "I believe the newspaper is doing a better job, a more thorough job of meeting its community responsibilities than local radio and TV."

He added that stations make an effort to copy newspapers with their "headlines of the news," but they never get to the "body type" — the meat of the event.

THE discussion was part of a two-day conference sponsored by the Illinois News Broadcasters association and the University of Illinois. Other speakers on the topic of news responsibility were Jim Koch, news director of WHBF-TV in Rock Island, who was chairman of the session; Merrill Lindsay, WSOY, Decatur; Dean Theodore B. Peterson of the university's college of journalism and communications; and Chuck Harrison, news director of WMBD-TV, Peoria.

Most speakers replied in the negative to the panel question: "How Well Are Radio and Television Newsmen Fulfilling Their Responsibilities?"

Accompanying Hayes to the meeting was Bruce Ladd, a news editor of Paddock's northwest suburban newspapers.

"UNDERLYING the problems of radio-TV are lack of imagination, lack of courage, and penny-pinching economics," stated Hayes. "But it is at the community level that local broadcasting is failing most severely. Because of radio-TV's timidity and fear of controversy, as well as limited news personnel and facilities, there are almost no exposes on radio-TV, almost no programs that show up corruption, prod the inefficient, improve the community."

He urged broadcasters to devote more time and effort to better coverage of "significant" news, to develop a staff of newsmen equivalent to newspaper reporters, to raise standards of news editing, and to produce local documentaries on community issues.

Referring to the need for more interpretative news coverage, he praised two documentary programs recently produced by Chicago television stations: WBBM-TV's "Beat the Drums" report on the Illinois primary campaign, and WBKB's "Inside Argonne" report on Argonne National laboratory.

"WHILE newspapers are guilty of many of the same weaknesses as broadcasting, they are doing a far better job of meeting their community responsibilities," said Hayes. "I can cite countless examples of newspapermen who have spent weeks of digging and research, for which editors risked libel or economic reprisal, and which frequently resulted in important community reforms. I cannot say the same for Illinois radio-TV.

"Radio and television can be something more than media of entertainment," he concluded. "But they are hardly more than that now, and they are an insult to intelligence." (A-13

United States investments in Venezuela total $2,683,000,000, according to latest estimates. Canada is the only country having a greater capital outlay there.

Say Hospital Bed Total Must Triple

The nation's expanding and changing population, coupled with unending advances of medical knowledge, is bringing about unparalleled growth in the hospital and health fields, the president of the nation's health equipment said this week.

Addressing the Boston Security Analysts' society, Thomas G. Murdough, of American Hospital Supply corporation, Evanston, predicted the number of hospital beds in the United States will have tripled by 1985 if the growing health needs of the population are to be met.

Murdough said the estimate of 1985 demand for hospital care takes into account only population growth, eliminating any present shortage of beds and replacement of obsolete facilities.

"The 4,831,000 beds needed by then are almost twice as many as the past decade's record-breaking building pace would produce by 1985," he added.

HE CITED the forces influencing health care in the United States which will push this demand even higher:

—Greater numbers of persons over 65, who require three times as much hospital care as younger persons, and who have increased their use of medical services 45 per cent since 1953.

—Rising educational levels. The college graduate, for example, received a third more hospital care than the non-college graduate, according to one study.

—Continuing population moves from the farm to the city. City dwellers go to the hospital more frequently than their rural brothers, largely because of the greater availability of hospitals.

—Rising income levels, which enable more of our population to handle hospitalization financially.

—Steadily increasing numbers of persons holding prepayment hospitalization insurance. The figure now stands at 74 out of 100.

HE OUTLINED the growth of the health industry between 1946 and 1958 during which his own company's sales increased 653 per cent.

"Future expansion of the market at a comparable pace seems inevitable," he said, noting there was nothing on the horizon to stop its rapid growth.

Arlington Heights Slates Memorial Day Observances

An impressive array of community organizations and officials will take part in Memorial Day ceremonies in Arlington Heights this Monday.

Participants will march from South school, South and Highland, beginning at 9:30 a.m., to Memorial park, Chestnut and Fremont, where ceremonies will begin at 10:30 a.m.

The paraders will go north on Dunton ave. to Euclid ave., west on Euclid to Chestnut st., and south on Chestnut to Memorial park.

Dan Helt, 79, who served in the Spanish-American war with the marines, will lead the parade.

MAYOR EDWARD Carlisle, L. M. Calderwood, chief of police; H. Carothers, fire chief; Eugene Oliver, principal at Arlington high school; Rev. Robert O. Bartz, St. Peter Lutheran church; and Dwight D. Guilfoil Jr., president of Paraplegic Manufacturing co., Franklin Park.

Guilfoil will be presented with the Leading Citizen citation by Arlington Post 981, Veterans of Foreign Wars. He was recently decorated by President Eisenhower for his work with paraplegics.

Guests of honor at the ceremonies will include Brigadier General Frederick W. Ellery, commanding general of the 45th artillery brigade; and Captain Raymond J. Toner, commanding officer of the naval reserve officers training corps at Northwestern university.

Ellery will be reviewing officer and Toner will deliver the main address.

Father Adelbert Mayr, viatorian novitiate, will give the invocation and benediction at the ceremonies.

WILLIAM E. Kopplin, local VFW commander, will read the honor roll. Included on the honor roll from this area are Walter Kennicott, Aaron Miner, and Eli Skinner, all of whom served in the Revolutionray war; and Lewis Peat and Samuel Rich, both of whom fought in the War of 1812.

Also to be read are names of men who died in action in the Civil war, Spanish-American war, World Wars I and II, and the Korean war.

VFW auxiliary President Elaine Allison, Legion auxiliary President Irene Weidner, Lions club President George F. Carelly, local Jaycee President Jan Behrens, and the Elks of Arlington Heights will be in charge of placing wreaths.

Salute to the dead will be given by the VFW and American Legion firing squads. Arlington high school band will play the taps.

After the benediction participants will reassemble at Memory Gardens cemetery on the south side of Euclid ave. They will then go to Merle Guild grave ceremonies on the north side of Euclid ave.

A grave decoration committee includes Robert Koeppen, Frank Kruesch, Harold and Carl Luettschwager, and Henry Weide.

IN ADDITION to the individual guests, the following local organizations will appear in the parade from South school to Memorial park: National champion drum and bugle corps from Maywood VFW, VFW color guard and firing squad, VFW auxiliary, American Legion color guard and firing squad, 45th Artillery Brigade drum and bugle corps, 45th Artillery Brigade battery, 6th Missile battalion, 3rd artillery.

A Battery 6th Missile battalion, VFW auxiliary and Lions club floats, Junior Chamber of Commerce, B.P.O. Elks, Arlington high school band, cardettes, and color guard, Arlington Heights fire department, Arlington Heights Park district, and the village Chamber of Commerce.

Also taking part will be boy scouts, girl scouts, cub scouts, explorers, bluebird scouts, campfire girls, the Bonnie Lassie baton twirlers, and Miss Jennie's twirlettes.

All individuals and groups taking part in the parade should be at South school by 9 a.m.

Historical Society Meets

Historical Society of Arlington Heights will meet Friday, May 27, in the community room of the Federal Savings and Loan building, Evergreen and Campbell sts., at 8 p.m.

Election of officers and other business will be conducted. (AF

Parks Plan Golf Clinic

A clinic for beginning golfers will be conducted by a professional on the lawn of Recreation park, 500 E. Miner st., on Saturday, June 11, from 10 a.m. to noon.

Sponsored by the Arlington Heights park district, the clinic will be run by Sam Rauworth, who with his assistants will take golfers through a "pretend" golf game.

There will be no charge and advance registration is not necessary.

The entire Memorial Day program is co-sponsored by the American Legion and VFW posts and auxiliaries.

Which tire is BEST for you?

*plus tax and your recappable tire

Buying the right tire is as easy as B-F-G!

B-F-G "HT" Silvertown
This Extra Smileage tire is best for drivers who pile on the mileage, can take advantage of its economy. For only 10% more than a new-car tire, it delivers 22% more mileage. Extra quiet rubber, too.

B-F-G Long Miler
Best bet for 'round town drivers who don't travel the superhighways, or don't often speed it up. Same tread design as the new-car Silvertown but the body's not quite as rugged ... and we don't recommend it for constant high-speed driving.

B-F-G Silvertown
By far the best tire for Normal driving. Tough Tyrex cord body. Big tread puts lots of non-skid rubber on the road. Built to give more Smileage for drivers who take a few long trips each year, hundreds of short ones, and a lot of city-country, all-around driving.

Comedy, Fireworks At '53'

"Please Don't Eat the Daisies," starring Doris Day and David Niven plus "Ride Lonesome" with Randolph Scott and Karen Steele, will be featured attractions at the 53 Outdoor theatre, highways 53 and 12 in Palatine, beginning Friday, May 27. A special Memorial weekend treat features fireworks on Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, weather permitting.

Doris Day and David Niven portray the harassed parents of four lovable but mischief loving youngsters in "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," the MGM film version of Jean Kerr's best-seller dealing with the humor and excitement involved in the incidents of daily family life. Co-starred are Janis Paige as a musical comedy actress whose pursuits of Niven gives Miss Day a pain in the head; Spring Byington as an appealing mother-in-law; and Richard Haydn as a stage producer whose play is panned by dramatic critic Niven, an incident which marks the start of a series of problems between the critic and his wife.

Cowboy Randolph Scott stars in "Ride Lonesome" with co-star Karen Steele playing the female lead. Scott plays a bounty hunter whose only friend is his gun. A former sheriff, he had sent to prison a notorious gunman, who, breaking out, had slain Scott's beautiful young wife. Now Scott lives for the day he can wreak revenge on the gunman.

DAVE HILL of Chicago Bandstand, NBC television, signs autographs for northwest suburban youngsters at Junior Cotillion dance contest. Robert Splitberger, 823 N. Fernandez, Arlington Heights won award for conduct and cooperativeness becoming a gentleman. (B8

Square Dance Club News

Arlington Heights

The "last roundup" of the Arlington Heights club will be held May 27 in South Junior high school, Arlington Heights. This is the only dance of the year reserved exclusively for club members only and is a "thank-you note" from the committee to the members for their enthusiastic cooperation that made the season so successful.

The committee promises an evening of prizes and surprises and urges all members to attend the final fling of the season. Caller Bill Clarke and his wife, Marie, will hitch up their microphone and spin through an evening beginning at 8:30.

Prospect Heights

The father - daughter banquet was held last Tuesday, May 17, in Prospect high school with 43 in attendance. Mrs. Ralph Van Petten, neighborhood chairman, gave the welcome address and troop 243 presented the flag ceremony. Grace was sung in German, English, Norwegian and French by troops 65 and 675. After dinner, Warren Birkett directed community singing, with Mrs. Van Petten and Miss Marcia Sunders as soloists and Mrs. Alvin Kulieke as accompanist.

TEN-YEAR service pins were awarded to Mrs. Ossie McDonald and Mrs. Walter Saunders, and 5-year pins to Mrs. Alfred Roth, Mrs. James Nail, Mrs. Clyde House, Mrs. Edward Zale, Mrs. August Teborek, Mrs. Albert Haas, Mrs. E. Lockwood and Mrs. Ronald Guthrie. Mrs. Van Petten introduced the officers and Mrs. Ray Blakeman, chairman of the Juliette Low Fund.

In commemorating Girl Scout International Year, the program "Far Away Places" began with troop 376's presentation of Ireland with the "Irish Jig," followed by 470's Scottish folk dance.

TROOPS 665 and 23 did Norway's "Legend of Tornerosa" and the dance "Jeannette's Wooden Shoes" by 608 and 653 typified Holland. Italy was represented by 563 and 565 with Santa Lucia and Funiculi - Funicula, and troops 94 and 699 did Hawaii's "Little Brown Gal."

AMERICA WAS presented by troops 258 and 97's Rythm Band to "Stars and Stripes Forever." The program was concluded with Taps sung in English and Japanese by girls of troop 113.

Mrs. Robert Swanson was general chairman of the banquet committee with Mrs. Alfred Roth as program chairman, Mrs. Donald Milz heading the decorating committee, Mrs. George Harris in charge of tickets, and Mrs. William Foran as script writer for the program.

North Mt. Prospect

Brownie troop 59 held its father - daughter dinner earlier this month. The girls entertained with a puppet show using puppets they had made and enacting a story built around an international theme. They sang songs from various countries and repeated the Brownie motto in seven languages for their dads.

Highlight of the evening was the reading of a letter they received from Buckingham Palace from Princess Anne in answer to a friendship letter they had written to the little Princess.

Mrs. Robert Rebeck is the new north side Mt. Prospect neighborhood chairman. Mrs. Rebeck has been a co-leader of a troop and will serve as chairman for the next year.

Two troops enjoyed Camp Pine overnights this month. Troop 619, under the leadership of Mrs. Betty Bridges, had its overnight May 14 and 15, and troop 381, with Mrs. Roy Hardin as leader, had its overnight May 20 and 21.

South Mt. Prospect

Brownies from troop 708 entertained their mothers at a tea this month. A model meeting was conducted and the girls presented the song that they sang at the father-daughter banquet earlier in the month.

Many of the intermediate troops are enjoying overnight camping at Camp Pine this spring. Scouts from troops 464 and 511 took advantage of their overnights to complete requirements for their second class rank. Troop 227 held a flashlight hike and worked on first aid requirements and troop 42 learned to lay trails and prime a pump.

Palatine

Thursday, May 19, troop 506 presented a special program to which the girls invited their mothers and Mrs. Rodger Taggart, south neighborhood chairman.

Two girls, Kathy Funk and Deborah Belt, were invested as Girl Scouts by leaders, Mrs. Louis Kovacs and Mrs. Robert Stibgen.

The annual contribution was made to the Juliette Low World Friendship fund.

A skit titled, "The Bird Club Tea Party" was given by Barbara Larsen, Joanne Pullman, Cynthia Stibgen, Martha Kovacs, Ann McConachie, and Merry Elrich. This was a satire on a ladies' tea party.

THE LIFE OF Juliette Low was presented in tableau form by Melinda Breit, Peggy Swanson, Marsha Main, Kathy Funk and Linda Meadors, with Debby Belt narrating. Each Tableau represented an important incident in Juliette Low's life, her birth, marriage, her love for animals, her trip to England, the meeting with Lord Baden-Powell, seeing Lady Baden - Powell and the Girl Guides in England, telling friends in the United States about Girl Guiding, and the first Girl Scout meeting in Atlanta.

THE GIRLS THEN served refreshments of lemonade and brownies that they had made themselves.

Congratulations to the following ladies who completed their initial leadership training course: Mrs. Bernard Hookanson, Mrs. E. P. Rielley, Mrs. William Thompson, Mrs. M. J. Collier, Mrs. Charles Kamin, Mrs. Eugene Eccker, Mrs. Charles Stadell, Mrs. Everett Siegmeier, Mrs. Thomas Bouffard, Mrs. Edward Wenzel, Mrs. Raymond Boruchi, Mrs. William Lucas, Mrs. L. D. Karst, Mrs. D. C. Hamman and Mrs. Lee Davidson.

Readers are reminded of the bonfire Friday, May 27. There will be songs, fun and refreshments. In case of rain, it will be held the following Friday, June 3.

Rolling Meadows

Members of troop 666, under the leadership of Mrs. H. J. Cress and Mrs. A. Mitchell, made jewelry boxes and earrings for all the mothers for Mother's day.

May 13 the girls gave a tea for their mothers. A play, "Cinderella," was given by Penny Philbin, Susan Leiser, Gail Glassner, Judy Lamb, Alexis Mitchell and Ruth Trentner. Refreshments of coffee, pop, cookies, nuts and mints were served.

Church Award Honors Editor

St. James Catholic parish Friday night honored an Arlington Heights newspaperman for his "contributions to better community relations."

The Christian Family Movement of St. James church, 821 N. State rd., Arlington Heights, presented the "Instrument of Peace" award to Charles Hayes, 36 S. Highland ave. He is managing editor of the Arlington Heights Herald and 12 other suburban newspapers published by Paddock Publications, Inc.

Specifically, the church honored Hayes for his work with the Opportunity Council, Inc., and the area's Latin population as well as his recent newspaper series, "Religion in Suburbia." Referring to the religious articles, the C.F.M. said: "While certainly informative, the articles did a great deal more in furthering understanding and respect among people of various faiths."

THE AWARD was an engraved desk set and a special plaque containing a prayer of St. Francis, from which the award received its name:

"Lord, make me an instrument of Your peace. Where there is hatred, let me sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; and where there is sadness, joy. O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood as to understand; to be loved as to love; for it is in giving that we receive; it is in pardoning that we are pardoned; and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life."

PRESENTATION of the award was made at the C.F.M. general meeting by the Rev. Adelbert Mayr, C.S.V.

Hayes is a member of Our Saviour's Lutheran church, Arlington Heights, and is currently serving as president of the Opportunity Council, northwest suburban human relations group. (B8

Work-Mobile Interviews Housewives

A white and yellow Work-Mobile of Workpower will appear at the Arlington Market shopping center Thursday, June 2, to interview housewives in this area who are interested in registering for part-time work assignments with neighboring firms.

Alice Ingersoll, president of Work-Mobile of Workpower, Inc., began curbstone interviewing with a small foreign car, portable typewriter, and applications three years ago in Rolling Meadows.

SHE CONDUCTS an interview and then the housewife is eligible to be "rented out" to various business firms.

Workmobile is not an employment agency, but a work contractor according to the president.

Adult Education Classes Expand

Spring classes are concluding in the adult education program at Arlington and Prospect high schools, and plans are already under way for the fall.

A number of new courses will be included in the fall program, according to Tom Shirley, adult education director.

"We are planning some interesting and exciting things for the new season," says Shirley, "and subjects to appeal to a wide range of interests."

Louise Robinson, instructor at the "Little Shop" in Park Ridge will be an addition to the local adult school staff for a new course in knitting. Mrs. Robinson will offer instruction in both hand and machine knitting during the ten week course which will begin in September.

Garnette Green, long popular with homemakers in the area for her classes in tailoring, will also teach a course in the making of slipcovers during the fall term.

THE ART department has been busy with plans for the classes. In addition to the usual courses in ceramics and painting, which have won wide popular response, there will be classes in figure drawing with live models, and in jewelry making.

Edward Fischer, chairman of the art department, will instruct a new course in advertising art techniques which will include lay-out, show card lettering, and color work.

The course in securities and investments, absent from the schedule for a semester, will be offered again in the fall, as well as a class in salesmanship which has proved to be popular in past seasons.

The next semester of classes will begin in September at the local schools.

Report Error In Tax Lists

The Cook county delinquent tax lists, compiled by the county treasurer and recently published in Paddock Publications, listed Stanley D. Anderson, 17 Glenbrook dr., Prospect Heights, among delinquent property owners in Wheeling township. This listing was in error since Anderson has recepited tax bills for the full amount of his taxes. Ridge Park–Sherwood

FROM RIDGE PARK

Sunday, the Glen Argusts, 802 N. Kennicott, had a visit from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bindrich of Milwaukee.

Before going to the Hundred club dance Saturday night at Itasca country club, Bette and Ray Howes, 945 N. Kasper, joined six other couples for cocktails. Sunday morning the family arose early to take Chris to Libertyville, where she was in a canoe marathon on the Des Plaines river. Boy scouts, girl scouts and adults comprised the 157 canoes that paddled the 18 miles to Dam two in Des Plaines, where they all picnicked when the last canoe came in. Chris started out with another girl in her canoe but came in with something new that had been added along the line—one boy scout. Seems as though in order to get his canoe unstuck at one point along the river, he had to get out and push; but once the canoe was free, he couldn't get in in time and that's where Chris and her friend came in. They picked him up and lucky for them he was aboard, because he had to free their canoe once before they all arrived at the dam.

There was a birthday party at the Gene Mylso home, 721 N. Kaspar, Sunday. Joey was one May 16 and 30 of his family came to wish him many happy returns of the day. They had a barbecue in the back yard, affording the children plenty of room to eat and play. They took snapshots of Joey blowing out the one candle on his cake while the family sang "happy birthday."

THINGS HAVE been buzzing at the home of Joan and Jim Speil, 730 N. Harvard, since the arrival of his nephew, Ronald Spiel, and his friend from Palm Springs, Calif. The rest of Ronald's family is staying with relatives in Chicago but nothing would do for Joan and Jim but to have a big welcoming party for them Saturday when 15 arrived for dinner.

A get well note is extended to Mrs. Richard Ketza, 735 N. Princeton, who underwent surgery in Northwest Community hospital last week. She is recuperating at home this week.

Margaret Mary McNamara, infant daughter of the John McNamaras, 924 N. Kaspar, was baptized at St. James church Sunday, Father Lane officiating. Evelyn Battaglia and Charles V. Locascio, parents, and their families came back to the McNamaras' for a dinner afterward in celebration of the baptism.

The Tom McGoughs, 906 N. Illinois, aren't likely to forget the recent 10-day trip east. On the way out, they stopped in Youngstown to visit friends before going on to New York City where Mr. McGough attended a school in connection with his business. Before returning home, they visited places of interest in Philadelphia, Washington, Gettysburg, Annapolis and West Point. The children made out fine at home, too, under the care of their grandparents.

It was a busy weekend for the Lawrence Geislers, 816 N. Ridge. Saturday evening they attended a dance in Morton Grove at the Luxembourg Gardens. The following day the family went to a Cub Scout picnic. Their son, Wayne, had worked hard on a kite for the kite flying contest held that afternoon and received honorable mention for his efforts. They finished off the day by going to the Leonard Geislers to help their twin girls celebrate their 13th birthday.

A 20th class reunion of his high school meant a weekend in Detroit for Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Smith, 1014 N. Race. A dinner dance at a restaurant owned by one of his classmates brought together people from several states, some of whom he hadn't seen since graduation. It was his weekend, all right, but Mrs. Smith thoroughly enjoyed meeting many of his classmates.

FRIENDS AND neighbors of Elsie Sorensen, 943 N. Kaspar, are hoping that she will be continue her speedy recovery from a recent operation in Northwest Community hospital. Reports are that she is feeling fine.

Planning a surprise birthday party for his dad, B. J. Mockenhaupt, was almost as much fun for Ann and Jerry Mockenhaupt, 818 N. Harvard, as the party was for the guest of honor. Ann and Jerry invited his brother, Dick, and several of Mr. Mockenhaupt's friends for dinner—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Teznan and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maxwell of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. George Meese of Beverly Hills.

Doris and Cas Nastal, 701 N. Kennicott, were happy to have her brother and his family, the Karl Mackos, and her father, Frank Macko, pay them a surprise visit as they did Sunday when they came down from Fox River Grove.

When Charlotte Ronayne, 1011 N. Kennicott, went to the hospital last week to have brother for 2-year-old Noreen, she didn't know Noreen had plans of her own. Noreen decided that was the time to have mumps, but by the time baby Jimmy arrived home she was feeling fine again.

There was a party for Nancy Pray Saturday honoring her on her seventh birthday. Several of her friends from school came for ice cream, cake and games. Each girl took home a plastic fan as a memento of the party. A first grader at Ridge school, Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pray, 1015 N. Harvard.

The R. C. Rathsams, 905 N. Patton, entertained the Howard Trendles, Carol, Jack and Mrs. Feddersen for dinner last Thursday. The Trendles are busy people these days as many of their friends and neighbors want to entertain them once more before they move to Los Angeles next month.

Rosemary Saidikowski's 10th birthday party was a whopping success. The rain Saturday didn't spoil things for the following girls who came to her party: Patsy Mercer, Linda Freeman, Patty Benson, Susan Robertson, Mary Klippert, Susan Seaman, Gail Vogel, Kathy Elsner, Ellen Olson, Linda Giegel and Karen Platt. Besides playing games, the girls made dolls of pipe cleaners with wooden faces and dressed them in crepe paper. Rosemary is the daughter of Agnes and Marty Saidikowski, 828 N. Salem.

THERE IS excitement in the air at the Clarence Schuettes', 1019 N. Fernandez, now that Jean's friend, Lee Damler, is home from Ft. Leonard Wood on a 10-day furlough before reporting to Ft. Gordon, Ga. Jean and Lee are seeing a lot of their friends and are keeping pretty much on the go, making the very most of these 10 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Werner Becker, 1004 N. Ridge, have had Cliff Plumhoff as their house guest while he was here for the funeral of his brother, Floyd. The Beckers also had a steak fry Saturday afternoon for Cliff and his brother, Mike, before they returned to Fairmont, Minn. The Orville Senne family and Mrs. Elizabeth Senne joined them for the afternoon.

Everyone had a wonderful time when Marlene had a party for Charles Rush who is leaving for San Diego after a year at Great Lakes Naval Training station. Around 30 of their friends came for an evening of dancing to music of the record player, ping pong and refreshments. One of the boys entertained them with selections on the electric organ, too. To top off a wonderful evening, Mr. Becker showed the group some of Ronnie's movies from Japan. Ronnie is in Manilla and looking forward to coming back. He calls from Japan as frequently as he can, a treat for his family as well as him.

By coincidence, the Eugene Schamnes 22nd wedding anniversary last Saturday fell on the same day as the Suburban Hotshots bowling banquet at the officers' club at Glenview Naval Air Station. As guests of Chief Petty Officer Tom Grafton, they enjoyed dinner and dancing at the club. To commemorate the occasion, Mrs. Schamne was presented an orchid, compliments of her husband.

Sunday, Mrs. Fred Siemro, 929 N. Yale, and her sister, Mrs. Sam Nordmeier, went to Crystal Lake to hear Donna sing in the Concordia Junior choir. Since they were half way to Harvard and the home of another sister, Mrs. Carl Schutt, they drove to Harvard to spend the day and Donna returned to school.

There were several cocktail parties preceding the final dance of the Hundred club last Saturday night at Itasca country club. An especially nice one was given by Marie and Don Hartman, 1021 N. Princeton, which included several Ridge Park couples and other friends of the Hartmans. Leaving the Hartmans after a wonderful start to a nice evening, the group met many Ridge Park friends at the dance.

FROM SHERWOOD

Carl Palmer and Bob Fernstrom are back from a heman's vacation to Canada, where they fished to their heart's content. They drove to Minneapolis, where they dropped off Mrs. Fernstrom for a visit with former Sherwood residents, the Tom Polaceks. From there they drove to International Falls and took a plane into Canada. They camped out and apparently had wonderful luck, as they came home well stocked with fish. Mrs. Fernstrom brings news of the Polaceks. They are fine. The children are well settled in school; however, they all still miss their Sherwood friends, and of course, the feeling is mutual. Many people would like very much to see them come back.

Weekends at the Harold E. Sortors', 1405 N. Harvard, have been busy. His aunt and uncle from Kansas City, Mo., were with them on the weekend of the 13th for the express purpose of seeing the new baby. They went home reluctantly, as they fell in love with her. The senior Sortors came from Geneseo last weekend.

Get well quick wishes are extended to Bill Burfeind, who is recuperating from a knee operation. Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nat Burfeind, 1130 N. Harvard. (A learning project each year, with students selected gaining just a bit more knowledge of village affairs in the process. Students selected by their classmates will later receive certificates of participation from the Rotary club at the high school award assembly June 3.

SERVING AS village president will be Ron Barnes, with Bob Sannwald village manager. Acting as trustees will be Jean Gutru, Roy Klehm, Jane Schaefer, Carol Tock, Tom Bergstrom and Al Kruse.

Lois Perz will serve as village clerk, with Fred Walters acting police magistrate. Village attorney will be James Ruffer with Susan J. Clark acting prosecuting attorney. Finance director will be Glynn Brownell and Pat Terry treasurer.

BUILDING commissioner's job will be filled by Barbara Slazas, with Mike Stoffel serving as police chief, Bill Haberichter fire chief, and Bill Martin superintendent of public works.

Winner of Rotary's Interlochen music camp scholarship this year is Sue Parker, who will also receive her award at the June 3 assembly.

Teenagers to Run Village Tonight!

Eighteen Arlington high school social studies students will assume the reigns of the village this Thursday evening, with a special board meeting certain to attract residents to see how teenagers would handle village problems.

Keyboard Key Club First In Suburbs

With the recent establishment of the Keyboard Key Club, 968 S. Milwaukee ave., Wheeling, an air of sophistication has been introduced to the northwest suburbs.

The club, catering only to members and their guests, provides a genteel atmosphere of privacy. Accommodations of the clubhouse feature well-bred decor, polite taste.

Mrs. Jessie Kern, owner of the club, oversees the preparation of a wide assortment of foods which are served in buffet style from 4 p.m. to 4 a.m. Waitresses graciously attend to members' needs.

Nightly entertainment includes the songs of recording star Betty Laine, the guitar and banjo ensembles of Chic Johnson, the piano and vocal arrangements of Eddie Beylair, and the organ numbers of Paul Ellsworth.

Mrs. Kern supervises the scheduling of members' private parties, as well as making certain each member is supplied with a key for admission to the clubhouse.

The attractively decorated club has intrigued many area residents and executives from all types of business. The appeal of private key clubs is rapidly spreading across the nation. Wheeling is no exception.

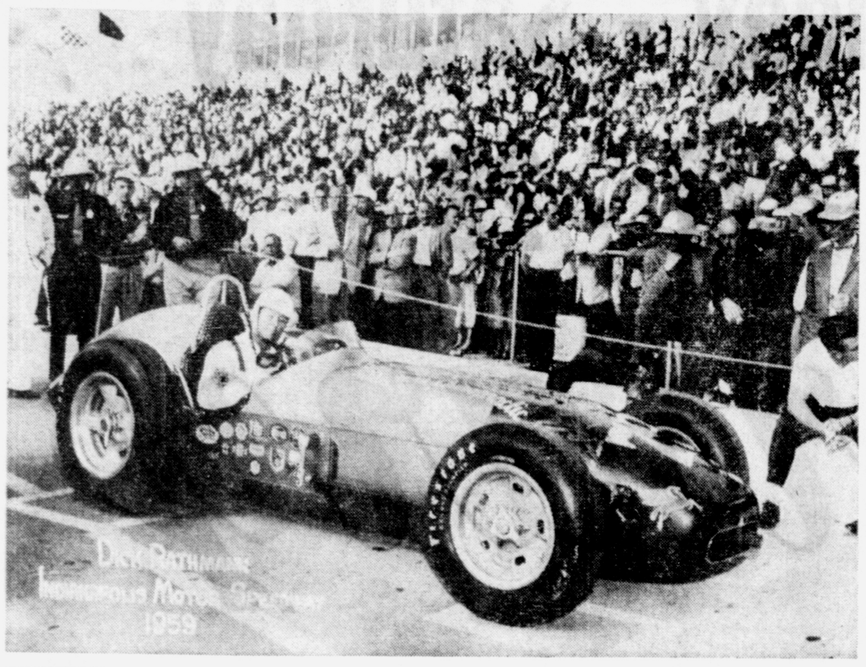
Suburbanite Will Compete On Indianapolis Speedway



HOFFMAN ESTATES resident Dick Rathman is shown in the Robbins Special 97 racer in which he will compete for top honors in the 44th annual Memorial Day Speedway classic "500" race this weekend. A ten-year veteran of auto racing, Rathman earned a second-row starting spot for the 1960 race in competition two weeks ago. (A13

If you listen to the 44th Memorial Day race from the Indianapolis Speedway this Monday, one of the powerful engines you'll hear roaring around the 2½-mile brick track will be in the car driven by Dick Rathman, 236 Bluebonnet ln., Hoffman Estates.

Against the stiffest competition, Dick won a place in the 500-miler with one of the highest qualifying speeds of the 33 cars entered—145.543 m.p.h.

Rathman is no rookie in the classic "500," having driven it for the past five years, holding, at one time, the track qualifying record. Entering his sixth year of competition in this grueling three and one-half hour test of racing skill, Dick will man a Robbins Special 97 with an Offenhauser engine, similar to the one he drove in the 1959 race.

Asked if he owned the car he just smiled and said "Hardly, building racing cars is a millionaire's hobby. This racer cost $50,000. The engine alone is worth $13,000." The car is owned by a wealthy Detroit auto parts manufacturer and was built especially for Dick to drive in this year's race.

DICK RATHMAN and his brother Jim started racing some 10 years ago, "dragging" on the streets outside of their native Los Angeles. They used to race at night "until the cops chased us away. Then we went to the race tracks." His early racing was done in stock cars which he "built" himself. He went on to drive midgets and sprint cars and finally graduated to the full-size Indianapolis-type racer.

Dick has earned, in his short career as a professional driver, 40 to 50 trophies and as many cash prizes. He is proud of his trophies but commented that after "you first make money you find it beats racing for nothing." Dick's brother Jim has maintained an active interest in professional driving and the two will be competitors for the highly coveted first place award at Indianapolis.

WHEN HE moved to Hoffman Estates from California last year with his wife Carol and daughter Nancy (then two), Dick took a job with the Lake States Engineering company as a welder. Although he works full-time at this job, he has an arrangement which allows him to take time off during the racing season. The move from California was made because there are a number of tracks in this area—Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Dayton and Springfield, to name a few, at which he races from May to October. Dick says they settled in Hoffman Estates "just because we liked it."

In winter this nerveless driver may take off for competitions in California, Daytona Beach, Fla., and other points south and warm. But most of the winter months are spent on the job, training and raising canaries. Birds—red, white, and blue, cinnamon and yellow—150 of them, fill two huge cages in the Rathman home. All his canaries sing, Rathman says proudly, but his favorites are the rollers, so named for the smooth roll of their warbling.

TRAINING FORMS a regular program in Dick's life, even in the winter months when he does little racing. He spends an hour a day working out on a dummy steering wheel device to build his hand and arm muscles. Handball, boxing and fencing help to develop coordination and timing, two of the most vital faculties in high speed racing.

As May approaches, Dick's training program goes into high gear. In preparation for the Indianapolis "500", the racing highlight of the year, where he'll take unbanked track at speeds up to 170 miles an hour, Dick works out an additional three nights a week in a gym to bring his timing to the peak of perfection.

Rathman thought for a moment when asked what qualities made for a good driver. Besides being in top notch physical condition, he noted that self-confidence and "nerve" were the racers greatest assets. But mainly "you just have to like it and get a kick out of beating someone."

TWO WEEKS ago Dick and his most enthusiastic (and most partisan) fans, Carol and little Nancy, packed up and took off for Indianapolis. Taking part in one of the first qualifying races, Dick won, with his high speed, a second row spot, one of the favored positions in the final line-up. It may well be that Dick Rathman will bring back home to Hoffman Estates the highest prize in racing, but win, place or otherwise, he has already won for himself recognition as one of the best among professional race car drivers in the country. Q. When guests are ushered into the dining room, should each one seat himself immediately at the table?

A. No. Everyone should stand quietly at the place assigned to him by the hostess and remain standing until the hostess seats herself.

Q. Is it proper for friends who live in a distant city to send a wedding gift of money to the newlyweds?

A. This is quite all right.

Q. Our son is to become officially engaged in a few weeks. Since the girl's parents are not going to give an engagement party, would it be all right for us to give it?

A. You cannot properly give an announcement party. However, after the engagement has been announced by the girl's family, you may give a party IN HONOR of the engagement.

Q. Should a man remove his hat while talking with a woman in the lobby of a hotel?

A. He certainly should.

Q. Should a man allow the woman with him to precede him through a revolving door?

A. Yes. If the door happens to be whirling rapidly, he slows it down so that she may enter and go through with ease and safety.

Animal Nips, Mishaps Keep Hospital Active

Animal bites and lawn mowers and children's accidents around the house. Add these together, and you have much of the emergency room activity at Northwest Community hospital, last week.

Culprits in the animal kingdom are a cocker spaniel, a cat, and — a donkey! A 32-year-old Northbrook resident, Ralph Holstein, was brought into the hospital, May 20, with an ugly Y-shaped gash on his nose from a cocker's bite. The cut was stitched.

THE CAT'S victim was three-year-old Terry Steacy, of Buffalo Grove. Sunday, the cat left a small puncture wound on the child's right arm, and a long scratch on the wrist.

The donkey is one that lives at Camp Reinberg, just north of Palatine. He bit through Judith Bock's coat, which worked as a protective device for her, Friday, May 20. The Chicago 11-year-old escaped with a small puncture wound in her arm.

Lawn mowers were responsible for two unfortunate accidents, this weekend. Ralph Abelt, 31, of Prospect Heights, cut his big toe off with a mower, Sunday. He was hospitalized, after the emergency staff mended the wound. A mower attacked the hand of Albert Hawkes, 43, of Arlington Heights, the same day. He lost the third, fourth, and fifth fingers of his left hand, and was admitted for treatment and observation.

CHILDREN, according to emergency hospital workers, can get themselves into the worst predicaments right around the house. Two-year-old Patricia Reid, Palatine, for example, put her right hand on top of an electric stove. The burner she touched was hot, and the little girl was treated for first degree burns on two fingers.

Jacquelyn Ambead, 3, of Arlington Heights, fell off her tricycle, Saturday, and had to have six stitches taken in a cut on her chin. The same day Richard Christopher, 7, of Mt. Prospect, ran into some cyclone fencing and got a cut that required stitches on his forehead.

Another head cut was suffered by Kathleen Pfeifer, 5, of Arlington Heights, Sunday. She was hit in the head with a rock, and cut on the forehead at her hairline.

Young Steven Kane was playing in a garage, Sunday. His father failed to see the 19-month-old child and drove the car in. Steven escaped with bruises.

In other cases, Mrs. Sina McGovern, 50, of Rolling Meadows was examined Saturday, after she took an overdose of tranquilizers. Complaining of numbness in her hands and feet and dizziness, Mrs. McGovern did not seem extremely drousy, hospital personnel noticed. Her reflexes were hyperactive. She refused to have her stomach pumped, however, and was released to the care of her daughter-in-law.

CLIFFORD MARTIN, 29, Arlington Heights, was paving a driveway Thursday, in Hoffman Estates. A truck backed up and hit his right foot. Martin was treated for bumps and bruises. There was no evidence of fracture.

Mrs. Joan Kuthe, 25, of Rolling Meadows, was putting milk in the refrigerator, recently, when a jar exploded. She was scratched by flying glass in her right eye. Mrs. Kuthe had a small piece of glass removed and stitches in her left eye.

Curiosity was responsible for an eye injury to an 11-year-old Arlington Heights boy. He broke open a golf ball and liquid inside flew into his eyes, which the emergency staff washed. Norwyn Lees suffered no other bruises.

Self-Defense Becomes Lady-Like Art

by MARIANNE SCOTT

Not in 10, but in only eight easy lessons, you, too, can learn to toss your husband around the house. You can, that is, IF he will cooperate or IF you can catch him by surprise. I can't.

Ever since I started Ju Jitsu lessons, my favorite husband scarcely comes within an arm's length of me. Neither do our friends. I shudder to think how easy, yet spectacular, it would be to toss an unsuspecting dancing partner over my shoulder.

Each Monday night as I bolt my supper, quickly stack the dishes in the sink and dash off to my 7 o'clock class, friend husband doggedly persists that he is not in favor of my taking Ju Jitsu lessons. His stratagem is that he is worried about my breaking something, my dish washing arm, for instancce.

I'M MOMENTARILY touched, but it's the next statement that gets me. "Bones don't mend as rapidly at your age, you know!" That does it and off I go to torture myself with those running flips, just to prove a dubious point. My bones will NOT break so I'm NOT old.

In lieu of broken bones to date, I hobble around wth sore and tender muscles each Tuesday and Wednesday. So sore that I can barely lift a piece of paper. But this can happen even to the really young, I keep telling myself.

And each week the class dwindles. Now there are only 12 of the original 25. By graduation, it's hard to say if there'll be anyone left. I refuse to even entertain the thought of a final exam.

Meanwhile we 12 hardy souls are learning a combination of falling correctly along with the strong arm tactics of blocks and throws.

IN FALLING, one must learn to break the fall with the arms, keeping elbows straight to prevent a broken shoulder blade, keep the body trunk straight to prevent internal injuries, keep the knees from banging together and for obvious reasons keep the head up or tucked under, whatever the case may be. And as if that weren't enough to remember in a split second, you have to bounce to your feet immedately.

In class, throws and falls are executed on a gym mat, but it's unlikely one of these mats would be handy in other circumstances. I'm certain a city sidewalk, for instance, would not afford as much comfort or safety.

Anyway, it's fun and good exercise once you lose your fear of falling. I still haven't overcome that fear and each time one of the "girls" throws me over her back, I'm secretly relieved and not a little surprised when I realize that I'm still in one piece. Truthfully, I'd rather throw than be thrown.

The 8-week course is being offered by Arlington Heights park district to instruct women in the art of self devense and is taught by Mits Shioji, Japanese Judo expert, who has been studying the art for 22 years.

MITS FIRST explained that Judo and Ju Jitsu are not at all the same, even though the terms are incorrectly used interchangeably. Both evolve around a basic knowledge of anatomy in which leverage and the strength and weight of the opponent are used against him.

Ju Jitsu, the course offered by the park district, is the art of self defense without weapons with intent to maim or kill if necessary. In Ju Jitsu, Mits continued, you may get only one chance to outwit an attacker. You dare not fail.

Coordination and timing are all-important as is the urgency of surprise. An unsuspecting attacker can be quickly thrown to the ground and then kicked with your high, skinny heels, after which, you must RUN, not walk, to the nearest "exit." Or you can simply break his arm and then run.

JUDO, ON the other hand, is a sport in which you attain higher and higher degrees, which are signified by the color belt you wear. Mits wears a black belt, denoting that he is an advanced Judoist. A beginning Judoist wears a white belt and after successfully completing requirements in white belt, he earns a brown belt and finally the coveted black belt.

This belt coordinates his strange oriental costume of loose-fitting, white, calf-length trousers and his fingertip kimono. It's also used in our class as a sort of high jump bar, only we jump on our hands.

Although the park board hadn't offered any suggestions as to an appropriate costume, all in the class turned up the first night sensibly attired in slacks. I also sported a neat, be-jeweled French twist coiffure, that promptly flew apart. I've since switched to the ever-practical pony tail, but wish I had a nice, little loose-fitting Judo ensemble like Mits' with no buttons, hooks or straps to pop loose.

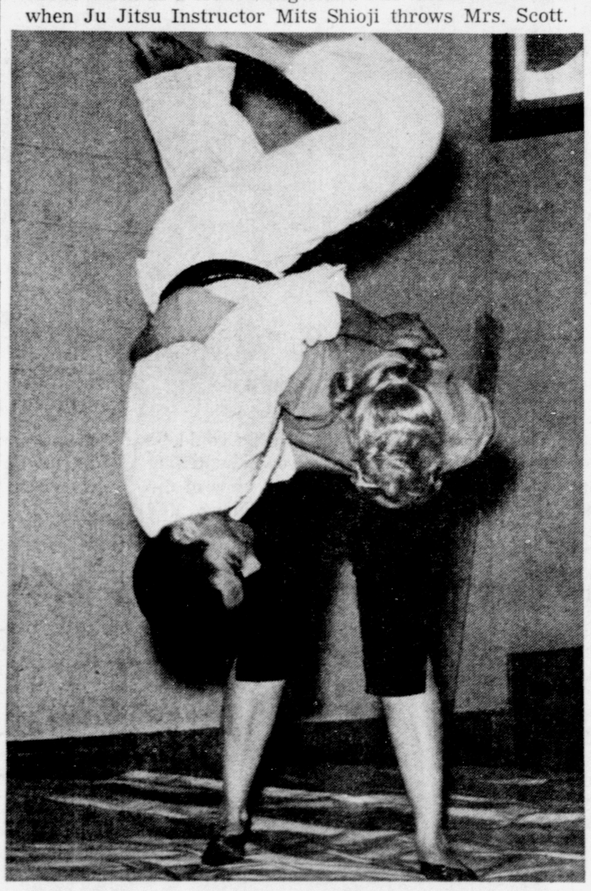
I CAN personally vouch for the importance of the surprise element. You simply cannot budge a hulky 6-foot husband who is anticipating a budge. Right after the first class, all enthused, I asked my better half if I could show him just one teeny-weeny, simple hold I had learned. Seated side by side, I asked him to put his hand on my knee. He condescended, but used the wrong hand, confusing me no end and making any Ju Jitsu impossible.

Things like that happened several times before I began to get suspicious that he was thwarting me deliberately! I should have guessed that a college PE major and ex-navy physical educational instructor would know Ju Jitsu.

O well, perhaps my day will come — when some movie-goer gets fresh!

And perhaps when all is over and forgotten, someone will again ask me to dance!

FORTUNATELY FOR Paddock Publications, the newspaper's women's editor will come out of this throw without so much as a broken fingernail. The tables are turned when Ju Jitsu Instructor Mits Shioji throws Mrs. Scott.



SHOULDER OR HIP throw is easy when you know how. Up in the air and down with a thud goes Mits Shioji, Arlington Park district's Ju Jitsu instructor. Paddock's women's editor throws 160-pound Mits in executing one of strong arm tactics taught in the 8-week course. The course proved so popular that another beginners' class is scheduled for July 11 and an advanced class for July 13.

EVEN KNIVES OR loaded guns don't frighten women studying Ju Jitsu. 215-pound Editor Bud Booth doesn't stand a chance against Paddock's 118-pound women's editor, who is studying Ju Jitsu course for women at Arlington Park district. A cross block and a quick twist of the attacker's wrist will bring gun and attacker to the ground. Booth, sent by managing editor as photo prop, didn't know how to fall correctly, so was excused by instructor from posing for the more dangerous body throws. (B9

Skunk Hollow—Area's Most Fascinating Little Village

Quaint Miniature Town Home of Model Railroad

by NATALIE MEYER McKENZIE

One of the most fascinating visits a person can make in his Northwest Suburban neighborhood is a trip to Skunk Hollow.

Skunk Hollow is a charming town with church and grave yard, picnickers and sunbathers, roadside advertising, hobos cooking over an open fire, a man repairing a telephone pole, an inhabited outhouse, and an inhabited Skunk Hollow Hilton hotel.

Skunk Hollow is in Palatine, in the basement of Charles Love's attractive tri-level home. Skunk Hollow is his model railroad town.

LOVE IS ONE of the men -- and women! -- who fall in love with trains as children and keep right on loving them, until they have practically professionalized their hobby and taken over quite a bit of space in the family home.

Love has invested thousands of dollars in his miniature village, many feet of track, 27 locomotives and approximately 110 cars. He can send a modern streamliner roaming his track. He also has an old time train that chugs round and under a hillside.

The name comes from an unfortunate tangle Love and four boyhood companions had with a skunk. Details are not given freely. Suffice to say, he grimaces with remembrance.

LOVE IS president of the Midwest region of the National Model railroad association (NMRA), and secretary of the local club, the Northwest Cannonball club that has 28 members from all communities along the Chicago North Western tracks from Mount Prospect to Crystal Lake.

Put two model railroaders together, and you're in for an afternoon of enthusiasm, and strange lingo. That's what happened last week when Love, and treasurer of the local club, Gordon Ronneberg, Palatine, got together, one rainy afternoon.

Exuberantly the two of them expounded on the oddities and rewards of model railroading. So popular a hobby has it become that the world is its territory. The NMRA which includes even some Canadian provinces, is broken into 14 regions. Love proudly reeled off the membership -- 13,654. In the midwest region there are about 1,250 members. Besides Love, the Northwest suburbs are represented among regional officers by William Angus, Arlington Heights, a director.

THE THING that Ronneberg and Love say whenever they describe a village or a car, or a scene is "Realism." "There's much more to the hobby than a bunch of kids who never grew up," Love said. His 10 by 14 foot layout at home proves this.

To the most minute detail, his cars and locomotives are perfect. Many of the buildings are things he has built from scratch. Others he made from kits. To show how perfect is his detail, Mrs. Love told of a grain elevator that graces the left front corner of his display.

"Actually it's a replica of the grain elevator in his home town, Bangor, Mich.," once when friends from there came to visit. Not knowing of his display, their first exclamation was, 'Why that's the Bangor grain elevator.' He made it from memory, too," Mrs. Love said.

Love says of his wife's interest in his hobby, "Oh, she tolerates it." Watching Mrs. Love in action however, shows a bit more interest than mere tolerance.

She pointed to different buildings commenting on a paint job here, a detail there.

"Turn on the lights," she told her husband, eager to show the tiny illuminated buildings and street lights. She was delighted when their guest chose to see the old-time train in action. "That locomotive's our favorite," she confided.

Mrs. Love is not so avid, however, as some women who drop their housework for a spin around the tracks, or combine business with pleasure at Love's home by having him demonstrate his models.

AT THEIR semi-monthly meetings Northwest Cannonballers have clinics where men can discuss and demonstrate their specialties. And the list of specialties model railroaders go in for is far greater than just trains.

Some are interested most in the electrical and automatic control angle of railroading. Others pay close attention to detailing of their locomotives or freight cars. Others just like to run the trains. Some focus their attention on scenery. Some even are bugs on sound effects, Ronneberg and Love said.

Some clubs just spend most of their time going on field trips. The Illini club is one of these. For a clubhouse members have put two retired railroad cars on a siding and fixed them up plushly.

Highlight of the year for all national model railroaders (you must be a member of the NMRA to join the Northwest club) is the 25th anniversary convention in August at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The men and ladies in their engineers caps -- worn to each meeting -- and neckerchiefs have taken over the first floor of one wing of the hotel. They have worked on displays that go all the way back to the early days of railroading.

Two silver anniversary trains will be displayed. Each region has been asked to choose its two best cars in each of two gauges for the trains. At the convention the men also look forward to manufacturers' displays, a steam engine trip on the Burlington to a small town west of Aurora, and a grand banquet feting the expected 1,200 persons present.

THE PURPOSE of the NMRA, Ronneberg and Love explained, is to determine standards for the hobby. Measurements for bridges, and cars are published in a monthly bulletin. The NMRA also publishes an annual index.

"For example, you want to build a roundhouse," Ronneberg said. "You look up roundhouse in the index, and it lists the things that have been written about roundhouses."

Railroaders have a language all their own. "Crummy" for example is caboose. As eccentric as the language are whims of the hobbyists. Ronneberg is known for his fire engine red locomotives.

Love, whose display is in apple pie order and runs like clockwork, claims a hobby within a hobby. He collects railroad passes. These are usually wallet sized cards exchanged with model railroaders all over the world. The Skunk Hollow line man has 400 such passes.

Some are ordinary, some pretty, some comical. When he gets a pass or correspondence from another railroader, Love's mail doesn't come to the usual name and address. Just "Skunk Hollow Railroad, Kenilworth st., Palatine." It gets there, too, thanks to a knowing local post office!

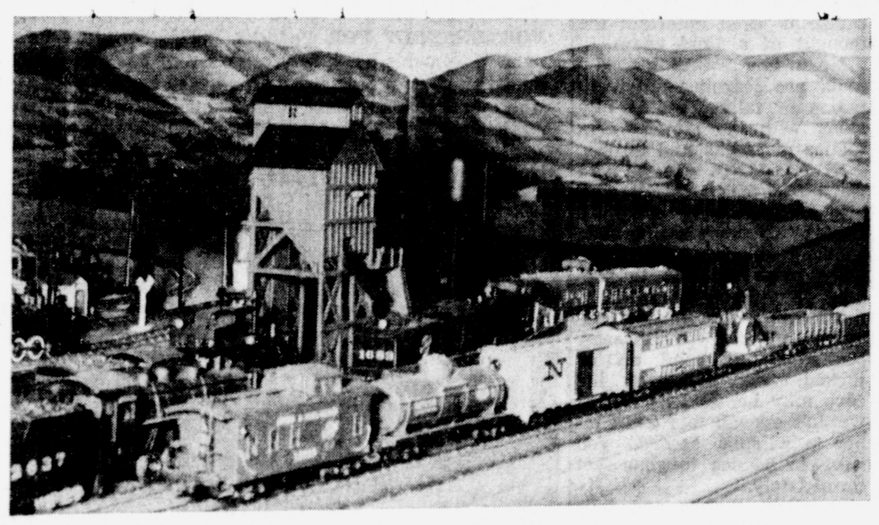
HIS LETTERS come from men in all walks of life. The president of the Fuller Brush company is a railroader who dons his engineer's cap with the rest of them. Love is a retired accountant and Ronneberg an architect. Several Cannonballers are with the telephone company.

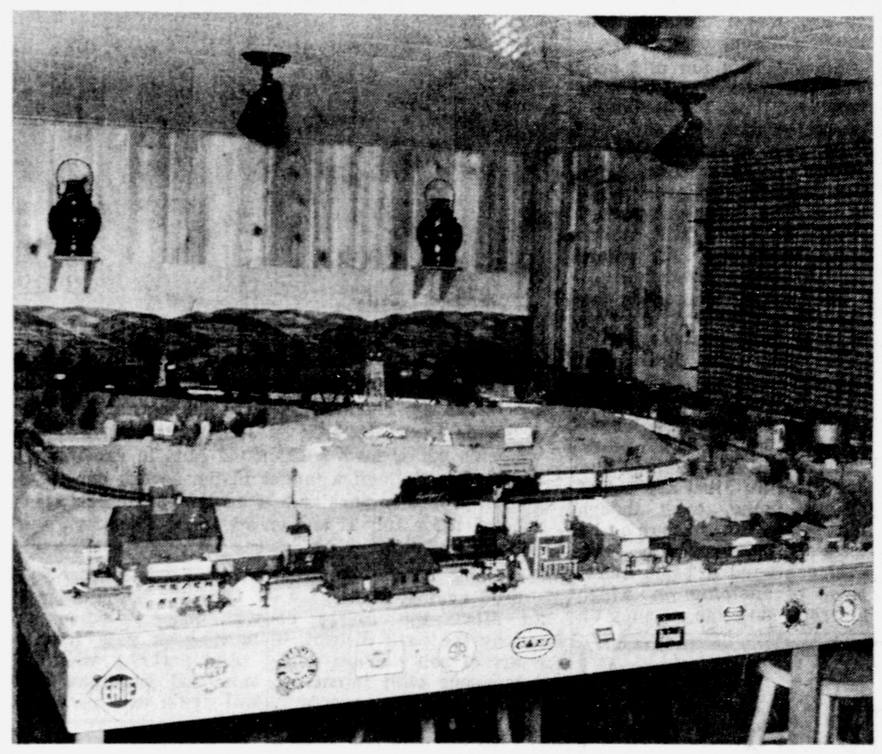
New club officers, elected last week, are Paul Jensen, Palatine, president; Ed Schampel, Prospect Heights, vice president; Ronneberg, Palatine, secretary; Love, Palatine, treasurer; Victor Patskowski, Palatine, engineer; Dick Faitz, Arlington Heights, master mechanic; Will Elmlund, Mount Prospect, past president and member at large.

Ronneberg mentioned that he knew there were many model railroad lovers in the area who are "lone wolves. We wish these men would join the cannonballers and the NMRA. The bigger the group gets, the more good it can do and the more the NMRA can serve us."

(B8



EVERY DETAIL complete, this could be a view of Chicago railroad switching yards and roundhouse. It is a view of the Skunk Hollow railroad roundhouse and freight cars. Skunk Hollow is the town Charles Love, avid model railroader, has created in the basement of his Palatine home. (B8



AUTHENTIC RAILROAD lanterns lit with tiny lights on the streets and in the homes of Skunk Hollow give the town a beautiful moonlight appearance at night. Charles Love, Kenilworth ave., Palatine, also has bright spots pinpointing activity in his railroad scene. Hidden below the hill is an old windmill farm, houses with washing on the line, and tiny people. The Valley Lumber company (left foreground) has tiny stacks of wood. People sit casually on the porches of homes in the Western town replica here. (B8

Saintpaulias Study Canadian Violet Slides

The Suburban Saintpaulia society, which includes members from Palatine, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows and Prospect Heights, will meet Wednesday morning, June 1, at 9:30 in the home of Mrs. Harold Klopp, route 53 near Kirchhoff rd., Palatine. Co-hostess will be Mrs. Reginald Helgesen.

The program is entitled "Canadiah Visit," which will include slides of violets grown and photographed in Canada.

THE SOCIETY, an affiliate of the African Violet Society of America, Inc., entered four violet arrangements in the Arlington Heights Garden club show held at Pioneer Park Saturday. The Suburban Saintpaulia entry won an honorable mention ribbon.

The local society was organized in 1954 with nine charter members, and since then has added 12 women interested in African violet lore. Each member receives a helpful quarterly magazine and takes part in special yearly projects on African violets as well as attending monthly meetings of the group.

OBITUARIES

Anna C. Asien

Mass at 10 a.m. May 25 was said in St. Alphonsus church, Prospect Heights, for Mrs. Anna C. Asien, 11 Mandel lane, Prospect Heights. Interment was in All Saints cemetery. She was born June 2, 1897 in Austria, Hungary and died in her home May 22.

She leaves her husband, Joseph; and the following children: Joseph Jr. of Niles, Theresa Loveless of Zion, Anna Fish of Wheeling, Delores Wilson of Indianola, Iowa and Shirley Appel of Rolling Meadows; and 11 grandchildren. (B9

Floyd D. Plumhoff

Services for Mr. Floyd D. Plumhoff, 59, 114 S. Greenwood, Palatine, were held in First Methodist church, Palatine, May 20, with Rev. H. E. Olson and Rev. William Fetz officiating. Entombment was in Memory Gardens. Mr. Plumhoff was a member of First Methodist church, Palatine, and superintendent of maintenance at Arlington Park Jockey club for the past 32 years. He died suddenly in his home May 18.

He leaves his wife, Heloise; four children: Leo Plumhoff of Barrington, and Mrs. Allen Sommerfield, Mrs. Joseph Stockton and Dianne Plumhoff, all of Palatine; four grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Adin Austin of Fairmont, Minn.; two brothers, Stanley Plumhoff and Clifford Plumhoff, both of Northrop, Minn.

WE REGRET

Paddock Publications expresses its regret that last week's story of the death of Floyd Plumhoff mentioned the funeral to be held Saturday, when it should have read Friday.

Henry W. Schroeder

Services were held May 20 in the Oehler Funeral home, Des Plaines, for Henry W. Schroeder, 223 Graylynn dr., Mt. Prospect. Rev. Albert Weidlich of Prospect Heights, officiated and interment was in Ridgewood cemetery. He was born June 13, 1887 in North Dakota and died in his home May 17.

He leaves his wife, Minnie; five children: Frieda Condie, Ralph Schroeder, both of Mt. Prospect, Evelyn Meredith of California, Lila Funk of Des Plaines and Raymond Schroder of Rolling Meadows; 12 grandchildren; one great grandchild; two sisters, Bertha Hein of Minnesota and Mathilda Schultz of Washington. (B9

Darlene Ann George

Services were held May 23 in the Lauterburg and Oehler chapel, Arlington Heights, for the infant daughter of James and Margaret M. George, 1037 N. Gibbons, Arlington Heights, with interment in All Saints cemetery. Darlene was born May 19, 1960 in Northwest Community hospital and died there May 21.

Besides her parents, she leaves a sister, Mari Joan, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard George. (B9

August Gatto

May 24, mass at 10 a.m. was said for August Gatto, 1200 W. Central rd., Mt. Prospect, in St. Raymond church, Mt. Prospect, with interment in All Saints cemetery. He was born January 7, 1895 in Sicily and died May 20 in Northwest Community hospital.

He leaves the following: a son, James P. of Niles; a daughter, Dorothy Sedewarft of Mt. Prospect; a daughter-in-law, Mary Ann Gatto; five grandchildren; and one great-grandchild. He was the brother of Mary Dattilo of Chicago and Anthony Gatto. He was preceded in death by his wife, Pauline; also five brothers and sisters and a son-in-law, Louis Sedewarft.

Cecile M. Stiggleman

Mrs. Cecile M. Stiggleman, 313 N. Westgate rd. Mt. Prospect, died suddenly in her home May 17. She was born October 4, 1900 in Wabash, Ind. Services were held May 20 in the Oehler funeral home, Des Plaines, with Reader Kenneth Arnold officiating.

She was preceded in death by her husband, John R., in 1955 and leaves one daughter, Mrs. Betty Bradley, an employee of Illinois Bell Telephone Co., and two grandchildren. (B9

A Day to Remember
Monday we pause to honor those whose devotion and sacrifice won and defended our freedom. Let us continue to guard this precious liberty against enemies without and within.

SORROW
cannot be obliterated, but it can be made easier to bear through retaining the services of a sympathetic, friendly funeral home. Our facilities are complete . . . when you need sympathetic guidance the most, we are able to provide it.

Witnesses Return From 3-Day Training

Members of Palatine congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses have returned f r o m their recent 3-day training program held at the La k e County Fair Grounds, Grayslake. Mr. Narve, presiding minister of the local group, said, "The event has given us advanced training to be better equipped to carry out our missionary work h e r e at home."

Mr. Narve said the program included talks, discussion groups and pract i c a l demonstrations. Saturday afternoon a baptism of 46 new ministers was held. "It is a voluntary act of creatures possessed by free choice. It is therefore an act of intelligent decision to serve God," Mr. W a g n e r explained. "Christian baptism is a symbol of dedication to God," c o n t i n u e d Mr. Wagner, "based on faith in the shed blood of Christ, which ransoms for sin."

PALATINE AND Arlington Heights Witnesses and interested persons heard Andre w K. Wagner, district supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses, deliver the principal t a l k Sunday afternoon, "Finding Peace in This T r o u b l e d World."

Wagner stated, "The critical need of mankind in this 20th century is reflected i n his constant search for peace. Christians are counseled t o 'Seek peace and pursue it.' Peace with whom? There can be no real peace toward man if one is not right toward God."

The Witnesses look forward to contacting their neighbors with the information learned, commented Mr. Narve. (B9

Along the Camp Fire Trail

by Dorothy Schomburg — CLearbrook 3-7017

Powder Puff Weekend

There will be a decided feminine look at Camp Tiyalaka June 10-11-12. Mothers and daughters are planning to be at camp for a weekend of work and fun. Many things must be accomplished before camp will be ready for the arrival of campers June 25.

Weekenders will plan to arrive at camp Friday evening with bedrolls, flashlights, camping clothes, and a potluck dish. Remainder of the food for the weekend will be purchased locally and the cost divided among those attending. Sleeping arrangements, in buildings, will be assigned.

This is a real opportunity for the girls to give service to their camp and to enjoy a holiday with their moms. Those planning to attend should contact the district camping chairman or Polly Meier, Tiyalaka camp director at ANdover 3-6218.

Leader Counselors

There will be a meeting for those who will be attending Camp Tiyalaka in a leader counselor capacity this summer on Tuesday, June 7, at 10 a.m. at the Camp Fire office.

Bus Chaperones

Leaders, assistant leaders, sponsors and (or) interested mothers are needed to chaperone busses to and from Camp Tiyalaka again this summer. Anyone interested in helping in this way should call Polly Meier at the council office.

Riverview Day

Tickets have been distributed to all Blue Birds, Camp Fire Girls, and Horizon clubbers for Camp Fire Girl day at Riverview Park Saturday, June 4. Tickets may be used by the girls, their families, friends and neighbors and entitles the bearer and party of four to free entrance and a discount on many of the rides.

Palatine

Mrs. Fred Rosenmeier's group, the Daisy Blue Birds, inspected the United airlines facilities at O'Hare field recently. Mrs. Richard Willer and Mrs. Thomas Blaine accompanied the group. The girls are making puppets and working on a show to be given in the near future.

The Four O'Clocks Blue Birds, under the leadership of Mrs. Edmund Marzec and Mrs. Walter Cutler, gave a mother-daughter tea May 10 at the home of Mrs. Marzec, 2111 S. Linden lane. Besides their mothers, special guests of the group were Mrs. Joseph Clark and Mrs. William Moberg.

The indoor training session for the Palatine district day camp program was held Tuesday, May 24, from 9:15 to 11:15 a.m. in St. Paul church. Two outdoor training sessions will be held at the camp site, Deer Grove, shelter 5, June 1 and 8. Time for both days is 10 a.m. to 2:15 p.m. Those attending should bring a sack lunch for the June 1 session. The final session is an all-day cook-out.

Mt. Prospect

Mt. Prospect's grand council fire was held Sunday, May 15, in the Lincoln school gymnasium at 3 p.m.

Presentation of the Torch Bearer Craftsman was awarded to 12 Camp Fire Girls by Mrs. Ralph Sandeen, a past district chairman and Torch Bearer consultant in Gardening. Nine of the girls are from the Eluohtamiki Camp Fire group. The girls and their craftsman rank are as follows:

Betty Bartley and Linda Kidd, hand craft; Carolyn Bartz, nature; Carol Donis, home; Susan Knecktel, music; Lynn Martin, folk lore; Sandra Phelan, business; Martha Schiller, acquatics; and Alice Mae Schroeder, dramatics. Linda, Lynn, Sandra and Carol were also presented with the national Torch Bearer award. The girls' guardians are Mrs. Charles Phelan and Mrs. Richard Martin.

FROM MRS. R. A. Seidel's Towelego Camp Fire group, Lael Cropper was awarded her Torch Bearer Craftsman in folk lore and also received the national Torch Bearer award. Tina Geweckе received her Torch Bearer rank in aviation and Madeline Seidel was presented with her second Torch Bearer rank, that of citizenship.

Madeline had received her Home Torch Bearer rank at last year's grand council fire. A national memory book honor for her Trail Seeker and Wood Gatherer memory book was presented to Judy Weigt of Mrs. Harold Busse's Nahweecha Camp Fire group.

TWENTY-ONE girls took the rank of Trail Seeker at the May 15 ceremonial, 23 became Wood Gatherers and 20 advanced to Fire Maker rank.

To 93 Blue Bird "fly-ups" the grand council fire symbolized their coming of age. A three year junior program of fun and making new friends was now to be expanded and their new journey along the Camp Fire trail would lead them to more grown-up activities and the acquisition of the four Camp Fire ranks. Hurt Wife Turns to Family Service Agency for Help

(This is the second in a series of three articles to acquaint readers with the work of Northwest Family Service, the social counseling agency which serves Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine and Des Plaines.)

The young mother and housewife twisted a handkerchief freshly dampened with tears.

Sometimes haltingly — sometimes in a gush of words to match her tears — she told her story.

To Mrs. Mary Nicklaus, Northwest Family Service director and counselor, the story was far from unique, but it was a situation which demanded a sensible solution.

The young wife, hurt and indignant, had a drastic solution of her own. Her husband was having an affair with another woman.

Mrs. A. told Mrs. Nicklaus she wanted to place her five children, one of whom had just been born, in an orphanage. She would just "leave."

THIS SORT OF escapism is something Family Service can stem if the matter is brought to its attention in time.

In Mrs. A's case, Mrs. Nicklaus said: "It has taken many interviews to help her to understand herself and to build on her own strengths."

The woman was in her twenties, as was her husband. He also visited the Family Service offices at 214 S. Emerson st., Mt. Prospect, but was apparently not as motivated for help as his wife.

Through counseling sessions, however, it was learned that the couple's marriage had been a forced one; both had been in their late teens at the time of their marriage. Further, both partners to the marriage had suffered emotional deprivations as children, Mrs. Nicklaus discovered.

But by talking out her problems and gaining insight into them through professional guidance, Mrs. A. found renewed strength and understanding of herself.

"She has been able to encourage the strengths that were also evident in her husband but not brought forth," Mrs. Nicklaus said.

The results might have seemed nebulous to any but the experienced eye. But the husband began to stay at home more, to undertake repairs around the house, and display more of an interest in things around his home which went unrecognized before.

HE TOOK A more active interest in his children, playing with them and bringing home little gifts.

"It may seem that these little changes are no different than what many of your husbands do automatically for your family, and this is very true," Mrs. Nicklaus conceded. "For this couple, however, it is a great deal. Their early training did not provide them with appropriate experiences and examples to help them be good parents."

Mrs. Nicklaus sees compatible marriages as something that the partners to it have to work at.

Perhaps one pressure particular to the suburbs as opposed to city living is one which is largely a matter of geography. In the city, Mrs. Nicklaus said, housewives can congregate on the apartment house steps to talk out their problems, thereby alleviating some of their anxieties.

This cathartic outlet is not always available to the suburban housewife who is often isolated with her children. And isolated anxieties pyramid to a crisis.

"Keeping up with the Joneses" also takes its toll in suburban residence. "We'll sometimes recommend a change to couples living out here who cannot live within their means," Mrs. Nicklaus said.

Added a high school counselor who has worked on a number of cases with Family Service: "Many families have few financial resources to meet emotional crises; there is little left in reserve when a crisis arises."

But Mrs. Nicklaus will point out that a floundering state of finances in which a family finds itself is "a symptom but not a basic cause of marital problems." Instead, it can usually be traced to basic insecurities on the part of one or both of the members of the marriage.

IN WHAT HAS been termed the "Age of Permissiveness," one encounters the social phenomenon of Depression generation parents trying to make up to their children what they were deprived of, so that teens are pushed into social situations with the opposite sex with which they cannot cope.

This sometimes results in the cases which become statistics in the Family Service files of unwed mothers and forced marriages.

Said the high school counselor: "The chief problem is a breakdown in communications between child and parents, the lack of a meeting ground.

"The biggest thing kids need is time, something parents are unable or unwilling to give them. I've seen several cases of freshmen and sophomore students who will seize upon a career idea which the parents can't accept. Rather than waiting until the student's attitudes crystalize, the parents begin to take an opposite, inflexible stand."

Counselors at Arlington and Prospect high schools will often refer cases to Family Service, although they are sometimes reluctant to do so because of the backlog of cases which have built up on the agency's waiting list.

Often Mrs. Nicklaus will work with the student's parents while he is receiving guidance at the school. A two-way avenue, Family Service has had occasion to refer cases to the high school, often when an adolescent applies directly to Mrs. Nicklaus for assistance.

ONE UNFORTUNATE fact is that school counseling services are only available nine months out of the year, while the student needs aid on a year around basis. If and when Family Service gets on firm financial footing, one consideration has been to add a social worker to the staff who could concentrate efforts in this field.

Mrs. Nicklaus related that 64 per cent of the agency's requests are in the area of family relationship problems. And these emotional problems have the devastating effect of being passed on through the whole family structure, much as hereditary traits are transferred by genes and chromosomes.

"Parents' earlier conflicts about school, authority, and society often influence the student negative the parents really being aware of it," said a school counselor.

Sometimes the effects are of more lasting consequence. Mr. and Mrs. A., whose case is sketched here, must face such a condition of chain reaction. One of their five children is severely disturbed.

"How disturbed we do not know as, up to now," Mrs. Nicklaus confides, "the parents were not able to consider any problems other than their own.

"We know that this child will be entering our schools in the future. Because we were able to get into this situation as early as we did, we will know how disturbed he is and how he can best be helped to make a good school adjustment."

The high school counselor had this footnote to add. Both Family Service and school counseling have preventive goals. "Sometimes you see your progress in what didn't happen rather than what did. You see that the student didn't run away or that the family remains together."

Art Center Displays First One-Man Show

On Sunday, May 22, the Northwest Art Center presented its first one-man showing, a collection of 30 paintings by Will Gallagher, Arlington Heights artist.

Set against the white interior walls of the redecorated farm house on Palatine rd. were a variety of paintings in a fairly even distribution of oil, ink and watercolor done by Gallagher over the last 10 years.

An interested gathering of viewers roamed the four-room gallery which serves as exhibition space for the Art Center.

"VARITY" is here not a loosely-ehosen word, for the paintings encompassed the sombre realism of Gaughin-like portraits and the delicacy of small flower representations. One found in each room a diversity of styles and subject matter, ranging from the flaring swirls of waterbirds to angry reddish blotches in abstract expressionism, although representational natural scenes from blowy skyscapes to huddling pines predominated.

The movement of the artist in the past 10 years has evidently been from preoccupation with images (in human figures, mainly) to non-representational expressionism and back to images with a decided emphasis on technique.

AS AN EXAMPLE of the latter I found technical aspects very evident (and different) in two of Gallagher's most recent works — a concern with line manifest in three fine lithographs involving bones and a horse's skull and in Paterson's Landing, a sun-suffused watercolor of ships at harbor which fairly bursts with light.

It may have been that I was dizzied by the first sunlit day of a dark spring week, but I think that Paterson's Landing is my favorite because of its essentially lyric spirit represented in light tints.

Not far behind in my preference is another recent work, Waterbird in Motion, a large painting, which in circuitous lines gives its subject fanciful flight against a gossamer background. In both cases there is delicacy without a loss of vibrancy.

A SPECIFIC subject, a clarinet, reflecting the artist's evident affinity for modern music, is treated in a number of different ways; the subject first set against an impressionistic haze, then integrated with a player in a more forceful composition, and also anatomized in a sketch.

On the whole, it seems to me that Gallagher has been more successful, although not necessarily more sensitive, with the work he has done in light-tone watercolor, particularly that of landscapes, than in the paintings that are bolder, Pieta for example, or the work in fluorescent dark oranges and reds for another.

The main point, however, is that there is a remarkable diversity of style and subject matter among the relatively few paintings. This in itself, makes the first one-man show of the Art Center interesting. The exhibition continues until June 12.

THE PALATINE triangle looked like a corner of Paris on May 14. It was gay and shining with color and excitement when the Palatine Women's club presented their Arts and Craft Fair.

The exhibits were varied and well balanced. There were handcrafted jewelry by Bob and Claudia Goudschaal, woodcarvings by Penny Boeing, and Mosaics by Louise Bachewicz. This was the perfect place to buy that special present.

I felt a real thrill of discovery when I saw Richard O'Brien's paintings. They are powerful and possess tremendous vitality. Also attracting much attention were the still life exhibited by Dorothy Druse and Frances Shillington.

IF YOU ARE looking for an afternoon that is a little different and at the same time informative, an afternoon which will get you and your family away from the ordinary suburban routine, remember Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows are both planning their Art Fairs for the very near future.

List Suburb Dime Giving At $213,500

Contributions to the 1960 March of Dimes from all suburban Cook county communities totalled $213,500, John William Carroll, Park Ridge, chairman of the county communities division of the January 1960 fund drive, announced at the annual meeting of the Cook County chapter of the National Foundation on May 19.

The grand total contributed by residents of all Cook County including Chicago and its suburbs, was $726,367, Robert B. Crane general campaign chairman, reported.

FUNDS RAISED in the 1960 March of Dimes will enable the Cook County chapter to carry on its own program of medical aid to the local polio patients, and to support the National Foundation's research and professional education progress in the fields of polio, crippling birth defects, and arthritis, Carroll stated.

The Cook chapter hopes to launch a patient aid program to help care for child victims of crippling birth defects and arthritis if funds are available this year, Clyde E. Shorey, Jr., chapter chairman, said in the annual report on chapter activities.

In 1959, the chapter spent $277,254 in direct medical care of 849 polio patients.

The Ray Epskys, 913 E. Olive, met and welcomed home the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Sandor of Chicago, at O'Hare airport last Sunday morning. The Sandors had completed a 2-week air tour of South America, which included visits to Lima, Peru; Santiago, Chile and Buenos Aires, Argentina. The Epskys enjoyed seeing the interesting mementos of the trip and stories of their sightseeing jaunts.

Mrs. George Marshall, 1160 N. Hickory, was hostess to the following members of her bridge club last Monday evening: Lois Brask and Adele Ireland of Arlington Heights, Betty Fink of Hoffman Estates, Bert Mattka and Mary Ann Lorance of Glenview, Yvonne Ryden of Morton Grove and Carol Crouch of Park Ridge.

Mrs. Seymour Recht entertained members of her card club for luncheon and bridge in her home at 683 E. Clarendon ave. May 2. Present were Harriet Hoole, Ginnie Weisman, Juliette Cowan and Jane Bisson of Chicago, Vernia Ortman and Marie Reichert of Glenview and Mrs. Nellie Unger, Mrs. Recht's mother. Prize for high score went to Mrs. Ortman.

Five-year-old Roberta Finch celebrated her birthday Saturday afternoon with a party in her home at 820 E. Oakton. Guests included Pam and Neal Hall, Mickey Ellis, Colleen Zitzer, Susie LeKander, Judy Kramer, Paul Kitto, Tommy Testa, Susie Morrisett and Paulette Traina. A "doll" cake graced the birthday table.

ANOTHER birthday celebrant last Saturday afternoon was 7-year-old Bonnie Brown of 608 E. Oakton. Attending her pink and white party were Linda Mensch, Linda Buscher, Wendy Sage, Lynne Holst, Karen Gildemeister, Karen Corts, Susan Williamson, Nancy Crumm and Jeannie Brochardt.

The square dance group held the last get-together until fall last Saturday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Epsky. The calling of Floyd Birt brought out the John Davises, John Funks, Ken Jenningses Robert Lantzes, William Millers, Ed Korens and the John Parkins. Guest couples for the evening were the Amos Kalkhoffs, neighbors, and the Lee Straubs of Mt. Prospect.

Former residents of the Greens, the Al Loos family of Milwaukee visited a number of their friends on Sunday and were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walt Brown, 1146 N. Dryden.

Mrs. Marshall McEuen Is Newscomers Club President

Mrs. Marshall McEuen was elected new president of Arlington Heights Newcomers' club at its monthly business meeting held May 18 at Pioneer Park field house.

Other officers elected to serve for the next 6-month term were Mrs. LeRoy Peterson, vice president; Mrs. Thomas Mallow, recording secretary; Mrs. John Scanlon, treasurer; Mrs. James Glynn, corresponding secretary. Past president, Mrs. Thomas Stewart, will serve on the executive board in an advisory capacity.

NEW OFFICERS will be installed at the June 8 luncheon meeting at Old Orchard country club, at which time Mrs. McEuen will announce new board chairmanships.

During the business meeting the revised constitution was read and the club voted that the revised by-laws be accepted.

Mrs. Thomas Stewart, president, thanked her committees for the cooperation and help they have given her during the past six months term.

MRS. ROBERT Staebler, vice-president, presented outgoing president, Mrs. Thomas Stewart, with a gift of appreciation from the club for a successful term as president.

The bridge and pinochle couple's round robin groups will meet for the last time this season at the community room of the Rolling Meadows bank at 8:30 p.m., June 11. Further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Don Gongol, pinochle chairman, CL 3-4468.

Remainder of the evening was spent playing cards, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Anatole Lucas, evening hostess, and her committee.

EARLY bird prize, a floral centerpiece, went to Mrs. Arnid Rudder and Mrs. Sam Riggs. Winners at pinochle were Mrs. Lyle Mulvain and Mrs. Chester Gawlik. Canasta prizes were awarded Mrs. Lawrence Stevens and Mrs. Gordon Knudson.

Newcomers wishing to make reservations for the June 8 luncheon may call Mrs. William Shannahan, CL 0-3676 or Mrs. Q. R. Sharp, CL 3-5399.

Further Information concerning the New comers club may be obtained by calling Mrs. Irving Rohr, membership chairman, CL 3-8916.

Hasbrook Happenings

The advent of summer with its accompanying gardening has not stopped the social life of Hasbrook. There were a number of cocktail parties to usher in the Hasbrook Civic association spring dance May 7.

Carol and Herb Abrahamson of Ridge ave. had as their guests for cocktails the O'Haras of Glenview and the O'Haras of Hasbrook (no relation), along with Jim and Jean Constantine also of Ridge ave. The George Cokers, 1611 N. Ridge, and the Dick Carletons were co-hosts at the Ridge avenue address at a cocktail party, which included the Marion Bartkowiaks, the Jack Turnquists, the Joe O'Neils, the John Fullertons, the Richard Blasseys and the Rolf Mollers.

Mary Brennan, daughter of the Tom Brennans of 504 West Maude, made her first communion May 7 at St. James Catholic church, Arlington Heights. Breakfast for immediate relatives followed.

There were quite a number of birthdays celebrated recently.

Bruce Ziegler of 1721 Walnut had a party to celebrate his second birthday May 8. Among the guests were the grandparents of Chicago and great grandfather, C. J. Berg of Oak Lawn.

Dicky Lynn, daughter of the Richard Triests, 1531 N. Walnut, had her fourth birthday May 9 and had as her special guest her grandmother, Mrs. Erwin Gullette of Tulsa, Okla.

Patty O'Hara of 1539 N. Ridge ave. was 5 May 12. Her birthday party included sister, Teresa, brother, Jimmie, and friends, Jackie Constantine, Regina, Robin, Scotty and Spencer Heiser.

ON MOTHER'S day, Leslie Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Peterson of 1528 Fernandez, was baptized at Our Savior Lutheran church, Arlington Heights. Leslie Lynn has a sister, Cheryl Ann, 3.

By the time this goes to press Mrs. Marion Bartkowiak of 710 W. Maude will be convalescing from her siege in the hospital.

Last Wednesday, Mrs. A. Foerster of 1541 N. Ridge gave a dinner party for some of her co-workers at National Dairy Research laboratories in Glenview. Her guests were Mrs. H. Hitzelberger of Morton Grove, Miss Myrtle Maina of Chicago and Mrs. L. Hasenzahl of Arlington Heights.

Hobart Harris, son of the Charles Harrises, 1509 N. Ridge, has been chosen as representative from his group for the Scoutorama in Colorado. The Harrises are combining a business and vacation trip to Miami Beach, Fla. Mr. Harris is a representative of Hamlin, Inc. (A

Hasbrook Report

People Create Village Flavor

What gives a community character — that certain something that sets it apart and gives it a personality all its own?

In some cases, it may be nearby natural endowments, such as a stream, a mountain, or a forest. In other cases, it may be history or tradition which imparts a lasting flavor long after the original events have passed.

But more often than not, it's the kind of people living in a community that gives it distinction. Pick out any Chicago suburb — if you know its general reputation, you can tell almost every time what kind of people you'll find there.

RILEY

A community's character is a precious asset, for this character largely determines what kind of new residents will be attracted. Usually, new people are attracted to a community whose residents seem most like themselves. This assures the community of stability, and a further enhancement of its character.

The problem of building community character is particularly important to a home builder. In effect, he is building a new community within an existing community. To succeed, he must match the character of his community with that of the area around it.

We think we've been particularly successful in this at Hasbrook. The people our homes have attracted are a credit to any town. These are young families "on the way up," who can be expected to add substantially to the richness of Arlington Heights' community life.

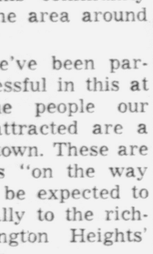
IN THIS AND subsequent Hasbrook Report columns, I'd like to introduce you to a few of the outstanding people who are creating Hasbrook and moving into its homes. This glimpse of some of our personalities should help foster a better understanding of the role we are seeking to play in the growth of Arlington Heights, and also of the attractiveness of our subdivision as a place to live.

Jim Welch makes a good starting point. Four years ago, Jim was an agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Today, he is still after suspects — suspects who can be turned into prospects and then into customers for our homes. As sales manager for Hasbrook, he has the job of bringing the Arlington Heights kind of home-buyer out to see us.



WELCH

In a little more than a year, Jim has sold more than a hundred homes. This kind of accomplishment isn't unusual for him. At age 22, he was one of the two youngest chief petty officers in the Navy winning eight battle stars during World War II. He won a marketing degree at DePaul University in just three years with an A minus average.

During his FBI days, his round-the-clock work for four straight months on the Greenlease kidnapping case earned him a commendation from J. Edgar Hoover.

THE 38-YEAR-OLD Hasbrook sales manager is a native of Chicago and a graduate of Lane Tech. His first job was as an appliance salesman with Commonwealth Edison, a post he held until the war came along.

University training followed the war, and then he became a space salesman and advertising manager for Food Retailing magazine. This was followed by an appointment as district manager for the brewery of the Peter Fox Sons Co., and then came the FBI.

Jim liked doing government investigative work, but being moved to Washington, St. Louis, Phoenix, Los Angeles, and Chicago in five years didn't sit well with his family. So he returned to selling, this time with Charlotte Charles, Inc., specialty foods company in Evanston, where Hasbrook heard about him.

Jim met his wife Marie in the course of doing church social work. Marie, by the way, with her twin sisters, Irene and Inez, formed the Bennett Sisters who for ten years entertained as singers on radio, television, and in supper clubs. The Welchs now have two children, Thomas, 7, and Kathleen, 5.

When he's not selling homes, Jim is most apt to be found working with one of the organizations he belongs to, including the Knights of Columbus, Holy Name Society, Elks, American Marketing Association, and the Ex-FBI Agents Association. He's also active in Little League work, and when he can find the time, he relaxes by golfing, bowling, or reading.

TALK WITH JIM awhile, and you're impressed with his insight into the motivations of the home-buying prospect. He is a man who believes firmly that a home must be more than a collection of bricks, wood, mortar, and nails.

"What really stands out," he will tell you, "is the tremendously strong desire of women to own a home. I'd say that 95 per cent of home sales are made because the woman wants it."

The man is apt to view the home as long-term debt, but his better half sees a house as a form of security; a means to raise her standing in life, a place to bring up her children decently, and an area in which she can try out her never-ending stream of home-making ideas.

These are the needs Jim Welch tries to meet, and his record of contented buyers speaks well for his approach. Jim is playing a major role in building Hasbrook, and his work will have a lasting effect on the greater community of Arlington Heights as well.

Cordially,
Albert E. Riley

Coiffures, Lawns, Parties Washed Out over Soggy Week

Coiffures, newly-seeded lawns and outdoor parties were among the washouts Saturday as a soggy week sloshed to an unpleasant end. Although the hair-dos and seedlings were almost completely nullified by the rain it merely turned parties outside-in so that birthdays and first communions were celebrated on schedule.

Among the children in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic parish receiving first communion at special services Saturday was Martin Gabrielsen who commemorated the day at a family party in his home, 705 S. Chestnut. Martin's 9-year-old sister, Carol Ann, attired in a miniature nun's habit, led the first communion and shared later in the family's congratulations.

Here to celebrate the special occasion were the children's grandparents, the senior Gabrielsens and senior Edward Martins of Chicago, and Martin's godparents, Edward Martin Jr. and his family of Rolling Meadows and Mrs. Thomas Hamilton and family of Elk Grove.

COMMUNICANT Christopher Csar shared a family party for 20 Sunday with his brother, Michael, who is 10 today. Among guests at the double celebration in the Csar home, 201 W. Orchard, were the boys' grandmothers, Mrs. Michael Motto and Mrs. Frank Csar, both of Chicago.

Suzy Taylor and her cousin, Bobby Spoerlein, were co-guests of honor Saturday at a family party commemorating their first communion in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church. Twenty-one family members gathered in the Taylor home, 439 S. Evergreen, for the occasion. Mrs. Taylor and George Spoerlein extended their blessings as godparents of Bobby, son of the LeRoy Spoerleins, 734 S. Highland, and Suzy's godparents, John Taylor of Arlington Heights and Mrs. George Spoerlein expressed their special congratulations.

MR. AND MRS. Howard Jack Jr., 642 S. Evergreen, hosted 20 family members at a party Saturday to commemorate the first communion of their daughter, Marilee. Proudly celebrating the occasion with Marilee were her grandparents, Mrs. H. L. Hill of Arlington Heights and the senior Jacks, and her godparents with their families, James Jack and Mrs. Joseph Hill, all of Chicago.

A seven o'clock supper for 33 friends and relatives celebrated Clifford Peeke's first communion Saturday evening, at the same time honoring his Grandmother Peeke who observed her birthday the day before.

Among the guests at the 2-way happy occasion in Clifford's home, 13 S. Ridge, were his godparents, Mrs. Stanley Poznan of Arlington Heights and Richard Strauss of Chicago and his maternal grandparents, the M. E. Hunhnkes and Grandfather Peeke, all of Chicago. All of the senior Mrs. Peeke's children were with her here Saturday to celebrate her birthday and she and Mr. Peeke were overnight guests at their son's home here.

JIMMY DALTON'S first communion celebration was one of the almost-outdoor parties scheduled for Saturday that rain re-arranged. Aunts, uncles and cousins joined Jimmy's grandmother and godparents inside Dalton home, 522 S. Dunton, and dinner for 38 happily survived the transplanting. Jimmy's godparents, Rudy Hoffman of Palatine and Mrs. R. S. Davis of Arlington Heights added their blessings to those of his grandmother, Mrs. Ella Hoffman of Chicago.

Kathy Wegner was 12 May 21 and celebrated last Thursday evening at a family party in the Wegner home, 726 N. Belmont. Well-wishers included her grandparents, the John Eugsters of Arlington Heights and Adolph Wegners of Chicago, and the Lyle Ely and Joseph Hoube families, also of Chicago.

Kimberly Knott celebrated her third birthday last Thursday with six young friends at an afternoon party in the Knott home, 1717 N. Chestnut, where a dog-y motif in decorations and table setting delighted the guests. Although many a 3-year-old has been known to munch happily on their pet's dog biscuits the hostess halted the motif at the refreshment line and Kimberly's "dog biscuits" were brightly frosted cupcakes decorated with candy canines.

TWENTY-FIVE friends and relatives of Cheryl William and her parents were guests Sunday at a sweet 16 birthday dinner party in Cheryl's honor. Here from Sheboygan for the fun occasion were Cheryl's aunt and cousin, Mrs. Oscar Langner and Mrs. Carl Jung. Mrs. Langner was a guest for the week in the William home, 750 N. Pine, and Mrs. Jung was a weekend visitor.

Another local sweet 16 is Nancy Westfall whose school friends congratulated her during a lunch-hour cake fest at school Friday. Family friends and former Arlington Heighters, the Ralph Carlson family of Clarendon Hills were guests Saturday in the Westfall home, 843 S. Highland, and added their best wishes to current collection.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Swilley of Meridan, Miss. arrived here last Friday for a visit with their daughter and family, the Arthur Nyquists, 714 S. Mitchell. Despite the wet and chilly weather reception of the weekend, the guests from the deep south plan a week's stay here.

Mr. and Mrs. David Gleckler 1212 N. Dunton, enjoyed a reunion Sunday and Monday with a former California business associate, William Humason of Corona del Mar. They were joined in Chicago for the Sunday get-together by the Gerry Petersens of Mt. Prospect and the David Crafts of Evanston, all former Californians, co-workers and friends of Mr. Humason.

THE GERALD Smiths, 812 N. Mitchell, recently returned from a month's vacation in Ft. Myers Beach and Miami Beach, Fla. They made a leisurely return trip that permitted a brief stopover in Indiana where they visited relatives.

The John Kitch family, 1032 S. Dunton, is currently engrossed in the selection of just the right wall on which to properly display a 15½-pound, 39-inch northern pike Mr. Kitch caught on a fishing trip last week. A group of neighborhood men drove to Cable, Wis. recently, some returning a week ago Tuesday night and some over the past weekend, but none returning with a bigger fish than the Kitch catch. John Dralle, Mr. Kitch and son, John, Charles Mallon and Joseph Vonckx, all of S. Dunton, were joined by Mr. Dralle's brother, Ed, of Chicago, and a former neighbor, W. L. Vinberg, 825 S. Chestnut, for the 400-mile drive and camping-out.

Mrs. George Black of Menlo Park, Cal. jetted here for her first visit in eight years with her sister and brother-in-law, the George Tidemans, 307 N. Belmont. A busy time is planned to include a luncheon tomorrow in the Tideman home with friends from Aurora, and a visit in Aurora for a Memorial day family reunion.

MRS. H. D. Youngberg, 500 S. Dunton, spent the weekend in Ottawa, where her husband has established his headquarters to facilitate a recent change in business.

Mr. and Mrs. Youngberg were guests of honor Sunday at a tea in the home of a company executive to introduce them to Mr. Youngberg's new business associates. Mr. Youngberg expects to join his wife here for the coming weekend when their daughters and families, the R. H. Kringles of Oshkosh and the A. H. Groths of Flint, Mich., will make a holiday visit. Completing the family circle will be Mrs. Youngberg's mother, Mrs. William Mees of Oshkosh, who has enjoyed a 3-week visit here with her daughter. She will return to her home in Oshkosh with the Kringles.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bleile, 33 S. Mitchell, and Mrs. Frank Meyer, 103 E. Hawthorne, returned Monday after a weekend in Dayton, where they attended the golden wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. Bleile's and Mrs. Meyer's uncle and aunt, the August Bleiles.

MRS. PAUL BARNES, 702 S. Dunton, was the surprised guest of honor Tuesday evening at a baby shower given in the Hugh Hoym home, 721 S. Dunton. She was lured to the scene with an invitation to see the Hoyms' new granddaughter, and arrived to find 30 neighborhood friends plus the lure and her mother waiting to greet her.

The Hoyms' daughter is Mrs. Richard Miller of Palos Park who was visiting here with the baby, Marceia Rosemary. Other neighbors, Mrs. E. M. Mommsen and Mrs. Robert Martin, and a former neighbor, Mrs. Phil Johnson of Mt. Prospect, were co-plotters-hostesses. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes are the adoptive parents of Timothy Paul, born April 28, who came to live and love at 702 S. Dunton May 3.

OUT-OF-TOWN houseguests of the Lester Schreibers, 123 S. Brighton, were her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Shafland of Superior, Wis., who stopped on their way home from a Florida vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Jurco, 217 Windsor, welcomed for a weekend visit, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Ellner of Decatur. Mrs. Ellner, a former Ziegfield Follies star, who was known by her stage name, Miss Helen Laverne, regaled her hosts with tales of Mr. Ziegfield and many well known personalities of the theatre during that era.

Lt. Kaye Shelffo, currently stationed at Harmon air base in Newfoundland, spent the past week in Arlington Heights visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Shelffo, 433 Windsor. He plans to visit here again for the Memorial holiday and then leave for Panama City, Fla., for a brief stay before going to this next assignment in Syracuse.

While stationed up north, Lt. Shelffo and men at the base, when not pressed with duty, enjoyed hunting and fishing which is especially good in Newfoundland and neighboring Nova Scotia.

MR. AND MRS. Clarence Jensen of Escanaba, Mich., recently spent a week in Arlington Heights visiting their daughter and son-in-law, the A. Basils, 421 S. Windsor.

Frank Winters, 315 Windsor, currently on a fishing trip in Canada, sent home word that the fish are biting. Joining Mr. Winters at Black Bear Camp in Kenora, Ontario, are his fishing companions, Walter Nielsen of Palatine and Richard Malstrom of Crystal Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. August Burner, 516 E. Fairview, were in Denver during the past two weeks attending the National Women's International Bowling Congress. Mrs. Burnier bowled May 13 on the May Ebert Chicago team and did very well, coming in with a score of 520-541-530.

After the bowling event, the Burniers toured the mountain area around Denver and rode the ski lift at Glenwood Springs which they found more nerve shaking than any tournament competition.

MISS SUE PETERS, 729 S. Chestnut, was young hostess to 20 members of the Arlington Heights Cardettes and their escorts at a buffet supper party and dance, Saturday. Guest of honor was Frederick Schmoyer, the Cardettes director. After supper, and before the dancing began, Mr. Schmoyer and Miss Nancy Anderson, captain of the Cardettes, were presented with a gift.

After the dancing ended, the girls were escorted to Miss Julie Strathearn's home where they had a slumber party lasting to the wee hours of the morning. A hearty breakfast at the Strathearn home ended the graduating Cardettes' gala party.

MRS. DOROTHY Taggart, 840 S. Beverly, participated in the Parent's day activities at Beloit college, May 14. She attended meetings at Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity house of which her son, Bob, is a member, and later, at the chapel, heard Bob as soloist in a concert given by the Beloit choir.

Sunday's fair weather was ideal for Miss Swenette Forsberg's 14th birthday party. To celebrate the occasion, Swenette and seven guests, accompanied by her father, Swen Forsberg, 929 S. Beverly, and Hugh Robinson, spent the afternoon cruising on the Fox River in the Forsbergs' new cabin cruiser.

In the evening they anchored at Snug Harbor, McHenry, for a birthday supper including a birthday cake. Sharing this especially pleasant day with Swenette were the Misses Jean Robinson, Sharon Lister, Sandra Prather, Carol Janis, Pat Michaels and Sherry Forsberg.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM Spilman, 641 S. Belmont, returned Saturday from a 3-week vacation in the west and southwest. They drove to Denver where Mr. Spilman attended an engineering conference, after which they went on to New Mexico and Arizona, visiting Mesa Verde, the Painted Desert and the Grand Canyon.

William Ball, 454 Banbury, has returned from a business trip which took him to Caracas, Venezuela.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Conley, 417 S. Lincoln, took an 8-day flying trip to the west coast. Piloting their own plane, the Conleys stopped at Colorado Springs, and then went on to California, visiting friends in Burbank, Long Beach and Santa Barbara. Leaving California, the Conleys spent several days at the Tropicana hotel in Las Vegas, touring the city's night spots and its gambling tables, after which they left for home.

MRS. M. C. BUTTENOB will receive birthday congratulations at a dinner party Sunday in her home, 310 Bristol lane. Among those who will attend will be her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Vette of Evanston, her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Vette of Aurora and their daughter, Judy, and another brother, Walter E. Vette Jr. of Chicago, and the Buttenobs' daughter, Pam, who will be home for the weekend from Evanston hospital, where she is in nurse's training.

Katherine Sue Seetch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Seetch, 353 Burton, made her first communion Saturday at Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church, Arlington Heights. Her sister, 9-year-old Mary Beth, took the part of an angel in the procession during the ceremony.

Here for the solemn event were the children's grandparents, the senior Henry Seetches of Ellwood, Pa. and their godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wessel of Glen Ellyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Squire, 543 S. Pine, welcomed long-time friends, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Nesemann of Plymouth, Wis. for a weekend visit.

MR. AND MRS. Stewart Hough, former Scarsdale residents who moved to East Orange, N.J. four years ago, are back in Arlington Heights for a visit, dividing their stay with Mr. and Mrs. Gale Blocki Jr., 428 S. Belmont, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Goldthwaite, 426 E. Park.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank A. Schroeder, 402 S. Belmont, welcomed their fourth daughter, and seventh child, April 8, in Northwest Community hospital. The baby was christened Monica Jane at Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church of Arlington Heights April 30.

Miss Marlene Smeed was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Maurice Klotz, 543 S. Evergreen. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Ralph Clarbour and Mrs. Daniel Musser. Twelve guests were present. Miss Smeed will be married June 4 to Mr. Philip Miesenhelder.

Krakora, Berwyn, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Prochaska, aunt, Miss L. Prochaska, were on hand for a party in his honor later in the day.

Scott, son of Jane and Sam Fiduccia, 1615 Johanna terr., was also a first communicant at Our Lady of the Wayside church last Saturday.

A DOUBLE celebration was held at the home of Rose and Joe Conroy, 32 N. Reuter, last Saturday in honor of their son, Joey, 8 a week ago Wednesday, and also for his first communion. Among the 30 guests were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kiley, Des Plaines, and aunts, uncles and cousins.

Mrs. Lillian Krueger, 14 N. Yale, is recuperating at home after spending a week in Northwest Community hospital, where she had surgery.

Steven, son of Florence and Arnie Lorch, 34 N. Reuter, celebrated his seventh birthday last Sunday with a supper party. Wishing him happy birthday were his sister, Carlotta, grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lorch, Chicago, and aunts, uncles and cousins.

Ellen and Eileen, twin daughters of Ella and Charles McCall, 1415 St. James, made their first communion last Saturday. Attending the party in their honor were their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McCall, and Joe Connelly, Chicago. The Joe M. Connellys of Oak Park, the John Leons of Chicago and their godparents, the John R. McCalls of Westgate II and Mr. and Mrs. McHugh of Chicago and their families.

Bernice and Barney Callahan's daughter, Maureen, was honored at a party Saturday at home, 1510 Fremont, Saturday after making her first communion. It was attended by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Callahan Sr. and Mrs. Barbara Fick, all of Chicago, and aunts, uncles and cousins.

Amy, daughter of Henrietta and Dan Love, 23 N. Reuter, made her first communion Saturday.

BETTY AND BOB Frank, 116 N. Reuter, held a dinner and family get-together last Sunday at their home in honor of Betty's cousin, Whitney Sculley, an army flyer. He and his wife, Helen, and their children, Whitney, Judy and Bradley, returned from Munich, Germany a month ago after being there for three years. They left yesterday for Virginia, where he will now be stationed. Also present for the dinner were Mrs. Clara Sculley, with whom they have been staying, and an aunt Mrs. M. Carlson from Elkhart, Ind.

Forty relatives and friends gathered at the home of Lois and John Madden, 1501 Euclid, last Saturday, to congratulate their daughter Barbara, who made her first communion. Among the well wishers were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Madden and Mrs. Elizabeth Cunningham of Chicago, godparents Lois and Bill Henn, Arlington Heights, and aunts, uncles and cousins.

Dot and John Venning, 1607 Johanna terr., and their children, Lisa and Johnnie, left last Friday night for Ft. Atkinson, Wis., where they spent the weekend visiting John's parents, Dr. and Mrs. John R. Venning. Saturday they made a side trip to Muscoda, Wis., where they spent the day with John's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mitchell.

Friends and neighbors were shocked at the sudden death of John Zavison, 1416 W. Fremont, early Tuesday. Condolences are extended to his wife, Lil, and their children, Judy (Mrs. J. Wehner) and Mike. (A

Civil Rights Bill Is Inadequate: Douglas

Illinois' Sen. Paul Douglas, in a report to the people this week, explained his feelings on the struggle, the final result, and the reasons behind the 1960 voting rights bill recently passed by Congress.

"An ancient fable tells," Sen. Douglas begins, "of a mountain that labored and brought forth a mouse.

"This seems to me an apt description of what happened in Congress on the so-called civil rights bill just passed after eight weeks of Senate debate and weeks of House debate."

The Democratic statesman terms the bill a "relative failure," saying the people and the lawmakers must "move ahead more certainly in the future - to end those denials of equal justice that consign millions to second-class citizenship."

Sen. Douglas sets down four factors he feels contributed in taking the teeth out of the Congressional action. They are (1) the complex court-referee system adopted; (2) the defeat of stronger provisions; (3) the defeat of strengthening measures by an Administration - Southern coalition, and (4) the blocking of action by filibuster.

In regard to the court-referee system, Sen. Douglas remarks, "In brief, Congress has enacted a law which purports primarily to protect the voting rights of those now denied them because of race or color.

"FOR this purpose, it authorizes the use of a system of court orders and court-appointed referees to register the qualified but barred Negro and Mexican-American voters and permit them to vote.

"But on close examination, the procedure turns out to be a complex obstacle course which only the most hardy, if any, can successfully run... Sen. Ellender of Lousiana has hailed the bill as a Southern victory."

In discussing stronger provisions which were eliminated after debate, Sen. Douglas pointed out that "provisions concerning bombing, obstruction of court orders, preservation of voting records and education of military personnel's children are so narrow in scope or so ineffective as to be trivial in comparison with our needs."

He rapped the Republican Administration, accusing GOP forces of failing to actively support the civil rights bill. once again," Sen. Douglas said, "the reigning coalition of conservative Republicans and Democrats that has frustrated constructive action on many fronts."

FINALLY, HE cited the filibuster as an effective block to civil rights action. "Human rights languish under the reign of King Filibuster," he jibed.

Sen. Douglas issued a plea for public interest, saying the conscience of that nation has not been very vocal on this great moral issue. "I did not receive much mail nor did my colleagues in the fight," he said.

"Despite our temporary defeat, we cannot yield to cynicism or despair...Congres can and must aid this great advance to assure the people and the rest of the world that we mean to make this representative democracy carry out its promises of equal justice to all." (A13

Legal Hurdles Bar Fast Flood Action

The Metropolitan Sanitary District is jumping with both feet into the fight against flooding conditions from Weller Creek in Des Plaines. The long awaited first step also will benefit Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights.

"Our engineers are on the scene preparing a survey for dredging the creek from its mouth at the Des Plaines river to River road in Des Plaines," Col. Frank W. Chesrow, president of the district, announced Thursday.

BUT—HE pointed out in a warning against hope for fast action — a major legal hurdle must be leaped first before the district is able to carry out any improvement.

The creek is controlled by the Weller Creek Drainage district and jurisdiction must be transferred to the sanitary district.

"We can't do anything until they turn the creek over to us," Chesrow said. "We can't go in there and bail them out now, for we have no authority."

Transferring jurisdiction is not as simple as it may seem.

THE LOCAL drainage district has a bonded indebtedness of about $90,000 and the bonds are in default, according to Walter S. Baltis, a sanitary district trustee. The sanitary district is in no position to take over this debt, it was said.

Special legislation most likely must be passed first by the state and the sanitary district's law department has launched a study of this problem.

John A. Cullerton, vice president of the sanitary district, said: "We're looking to see how we can help the area. The outlet at the Des Plaines river is too small. It must be dredged, cleaned, and widened."

Baltis estimated the cost at $30,000.

"We'll be happy to take over the creek and the jobs of improvements and maintenance once all of the legal problems are straighted out," Baltis said.

A SECTION of the creek between Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect was widened and cleared of debris when the sanitary district took over the Arlington Heights sewage treatment plant about two years ago.

Improving the creek in Des Plaines would further help Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights by speeding the runoff of storm water.

Virginia Terrace News

Family of the week...is that of Joan and Richard Larson, 1245 N. Illinois, and their sons, Tommy, 5, and Doug, one. Although Dick was born in the Chicago area, Joan comes from Boston, and thus, it took the attendance of both at classes at the Art Institute to bring about a meeting between the east and midwest. Their marriage some nine years ago took place while Dick was in the service, but they were able to enjoy a year together in Louisville, Ky., before he had to report for overseas duty in Korea. While he was gone, Joan kept busy in Chicago modeling for Marshall Field's.

In the interim years they purchased their first house, Joan gave up her career and they welcomed Tommy into the fold. Dick is now well established as a commercial artist with an art studio in Chicago and Joan is busy in her role as a homemaker. Nevertheless, Dick finds time to enjoy his hobbies, mainly golf and flying the latter accomplished in his own plane. Joan retains her interest in art, too, and enjoys gardening and sewing as well.

This family attends St. Simon Episcopal church, Arlington Heights. Dick is also active in the Artist Guild club, Chicago, and the Palwaukee Flying club, while Joan devotes time to being a member of the Garden club, Arlington Heights, and belongs to a college alumnae group, of which she was president last year.

Tommy's world is opening up, as he now attends kindergarten at Wilson school. Joan and Dick are fortunate in that their respective families live in nearby Chicago, and they are able to see them frequently. Relaxation to the Larsons can mean one of several things, dinner and dancing, which they try to do bi-monthly, getting together with friends, visiting the theatre, or just seeing a good movie.

ENJOYING the recent luncheon and fashion show at Villa d'Este, Cary, sponsored by the Catholic Women's guild of St. James church were Charlene Bang, 1315 N. Illinois, and her guest, Mrs. Grove Hess, Westgate. Terrace neighbors Jackie Koenig and Adele Yore were at the same table, and all agreed it was a most pleasant afternoon.

A barbecue dinner party, complete with birthday cake and ice cream, was the order of the day last Sunday as the second birthday of David, son of Jerri and Bill Rix, 1244 N. Chicago, was celebrated. In on the festivities were his sister, Jill, grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rix, Chicago, and Mr. N. Ellingsen, Niles, Miss Esther Binfield, Glencoe, and uncle, Mr. Al Hadland, Chicago.

Although a children's party is in the offing, the 10th birthday of Charley, son of Phyllis and Charles Marshall, 1114 N. Race, was celebrated last Sunday, too, at a family dinner party. Assistance in blowing out the candles on his birthday cake was given by his sister, Jennifer, and brothers, Jimmy and John.

A welcome is extended to Rose Marie and James Amann, 1409 N. Wilke, who moved to Arlington Heights 10 days ago from a home they had been renting in Rolling Meadows. This family, which includes Bobby, 5, Cathy, 3, Dawn, 2, and Jimmy, 8 months, will attend St. James Catholic church here. While four pre-school youngsters keep Rose Marie busy at home, Jim is kept active in his role as an insurance agent.

A luncheon party last Thursday, highlighted by spaceman invitations and rocket missile favors, was as per the request of Richard, son of Betty and Jack Sorensen, 1406 N. Chicago, who was celebrating his fifth birthday. His guests, among whom were Danny Healy, Jimmy Kohler, Larry Visk, Michael and Judy Lindholm, Alan Cech, Kathy Zaucha and Marilyn Donath, also received water pistol hand grenades and ample portions of birthday cake and ice cream. They had a fine time playing several games as well.

CONGRATULATIONS are due Virginia Arnold, 1410 N. Race, who was elected PTA president of Wilson school in a recent election for the 1960-61 season. Installation ceremonies took place a week ago.

Friends of Janae and Greg, children of Lois and Ken Schafer, 1231 N. Chicago, enjoyed a birthday party last Saturday afternoon in their honor. Wishing them a happy fifth and fourth birthday, respectively, were their brother, Dean, Laurie and Wendy Miller, Michael and Nicky Caprara, John Patrick and Jamie Noon and Joanne and Bobby Ninneman. Illness prevented Mark and Jeff Drews from being in on the festivities.

The second birthday of Peggy, daughter of Eileen and Raymond Brown, 1504 W. Oakton, was celebrated at a dinner party last Sunday, and not only were her sisters, Marianne, Kathleen and Barbara, and brothers, Jimmy and Ray, present, but godparents, Marge and Dick Frisbie, 1512 W. Oakton, and their six children.

Mary Lou Crouch, 1228 N. Chicago, and her daughter, Marianne, 8, were models last Friday evening in the fashion show presented at St. John church, Arlington Heights, by the American Legion auviliary. Following same, Mary Lou and some of her Terrace neighbors, among whom were Pauline Noerenberg, Pat Lechelt, Maisie Sikorske, her mother, Mrs. Marion Douglas, Pat Hoover, Arlington Heights, Marilyn Crouch, Barrington, and Marilyn Hockey, Elk Grove Village, enjoyed the card playing segment of the evening.

AT THE ANNUAL banquet of the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club held recently at Old Orchard country club, Terrace women present were Pat Davis, Joyce Anderson, Pat Lechelt, Mary Lou Crouch, Pat Kiefer and Pauline Noerenberg.

Although the presence of chicken pox prevented a children's party this year at the home of Carol and Burton Glatz, 117 N. Chicago, for their son, Peter, who was 7, a barbecue dinner party, complete with birthday cake and ice cream was held May 15. Wishing him many happy returns of the day were his sister, Kristen, the pox victim, and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Ellis, Wilmette.

Sunday, Peter shared a birthday dinner with his dad, Burton, and also on hand for the festive occason was his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Arthur Glatz, Park Ridge.

A party at the home of her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Gaffney, Rockford, was enjoyed last Saturday afternoon by Patricia, daughter of Jeanette and William Gaffney, 1450 N. Illinois. Helping her to blow out the two candles on her birthday cake were her sisters, Cynthia and Kelly, and cousin, Michael Gaffney, also of Rockford. The youngsters received sprinkling cans and balls to help complete the happy time. Aunts and uncles of Patty came later for a birthday dinner party.

May 25 is the natal day of both Lenny and Timmy, sons of Helen and Virgil Marienau, 1334 N. Illinois, so the center of attraction at the buffet dinner party last night was the presence of two birthday cakes, complete with 11 and two candles, respectively. Wishing them happy returns of the day were their brother, Danny, maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Nagorny, Arlington Heights, Lenny's godmother, Miss Jessie Reichert, Chicago, and Timmy's godparents, Mrs. Henry J. Nagorny and Henry E. Nagorny, Arlington Heights, and several aunts, uncles and cousins.

CAROLYN AND Bob Parkin, 1511 Clarendon, joined her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ingebrigtsen, Rolling Meadows, last Saturday night, and all attended the dance held in celebration of said town's fifth anniversary at the Arlington Jockey club.

It was a busy day Monday at the home of Nancy and Clifton Grassly, 1414 N. Yale, as a celebration was held for their daughter, Janet. Wishing her a happy sixth birthday were her sister, Beth, Valerie, Mickey and Michael Moser, Joyce Randle, Stephen Balow, Janet Fluhrer and Susan Lee Reese.

Dessert and coffee were served that evening to Janet's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Grassly, Park Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. Roy S. Anderson, Arlington Heights, aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Grassly, Streamwood, and cousins, Ann and Karen.

Guest of honor at a dinner party May 15 was Kris Ann, daughter of Joyce and Robert Anderson, 1234 N. Yale, who was celebrating her fifth birthday. Sharing the happy occasion were her brother, Mark, sister, Karen, grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Streich, Mt. Prospect, and Mrs. Ebba Anderson, Schiller Park, and close friends, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nilssen, also of Schiller Park.

The following Thursday an Hawaiian party, complete with leis and palm tree favors, was held for Kris Ann and her friends, among whom were Janet Pendleton, Kay and Reid Lowell, Gary Gabel, Jane Geuliani, Wayne Heise, Tommy Ostler, Paula Twilling, Susan Reese and brother, Mark. Playmate Tommy Larson couldn't be with them due to illness.

LEAVING THEIR children, Debra, Michael and Kathleen in good hands, namely those of Mary's mother, Mrs. R. F. Kreuscher, Kenosha, Mary and George Maybee, 1251 N. Wilke, left recently on a combination business and pleasure trip to Memphis, where George attended a convention of the Association of American Railroads. Mary says they received a wonderful reception from the warm hearted southerners, but that they claim we have an accent, while they have only a drawl. George took care of the business, while Mary enjoyed a tour of the city, remarking particularly on their tremendous medical center, which they believe will be the largest in the United States within the next five years, and, of course, Elvis Presley's home was a point of interest. The Maybees were entertained royally, including a luncheon, card party and style show, all climaxed by a dinner-dance.

Another Terrace couple to benefit from the hospitality of the husband's business employer recently were Sandy and Dave Yates, 1522 Oakton. The annual cocktail party given by RCA was held last Thursday night at the Glass Hat, Congress hotel, Chicago, after which the Yates' enjoyed dinner with another couple at the Empire Room, Palmer House hotel, where they viewed the floor show starring Dorothy Loudon and the Guy Mitchell trio. The night was concluded when Sandy and Dave went on to the Chez Paree, where the show spot-lighted comic Joey Bishop and songstress, Gloria DeHaven.

Although poor weather put a damper on this year's garden club show, Nancy Grassly, 1414 N. Yale, chairman of the event, properly captioned "Invitation to Spring," was pleased with the number of people who were able to appreciate the hard work of the club's members. She and Diane Moser, 1418 N. Illinois, judge's chairman, both agreed that the homes and gardens on display were something to behold. (A

LYNNE SCHOMBURG and Nancy Staadt, far right, first two Camp Fire Girls in Arlington Heights to earn the coveted rank of Torch Bearer Craftsman, hold high the torch as they repeat the desire at the district's grand council fire held Sunday, May 15, at Arlington high school. Inspired by the ritualistic ceremony in awarding this highest rank, Okiciyapi Camp Fire Girl Paula Schomburg, far left, and Merry Blue Bird Bonnie Pedersen look on in the hopes of attaining this goal in the not too distant future. The recent council fire, conducted by Mrs. Gerald C. Beckman, district chairman, brought nearly 100 Blue Bird "fly-ups" into the Camp Fire circle and brought recognition to 94 Camp Fire Girls who had completed Trail Seeker and Wood Gatherer ranks during the year.

This Week with PTA

Seeing Ourselves

Dr. Fred McKinney, professor of psychology, University of Missouri, spoke at the final program of the PTA year on the timely topic, "Seeing Ourselves from Abroad." The meeting was held at the South Junior High school May 17. Dr. McKinney told of his personal experience in Turkey, comparing their customs and traditions with our own.

Seeing ourselves as others see us is difficult. We tend to resist changes in our thinking, which hampers our comprehension of other cultures.

FAMILY MEMBERS were discussed in this land of Moslems, with special attention being given to the youth whom Dr. McKinney taught at the University of Ankara for the past year. He found that the Turkish students were respectful, responsible and responsive to authority, with no delinquency existing.

Interesting were his descriptions of the strong ties among students as "friends," while "academic honesty" was almost unheard of. Of extreme interest was his observation that the Turks hate the Russians. Although they are located strategically in the East they are pro-Western. Our military bases exist there because the Turks like us.

DR. MCKINNEY drew an excellent contrast between our own tendency to over evaluate the material substance in life and the Turk's utter disregard for status. While Turkish culture needs to be stimulated to encourage more initiative, it still surpasses Western culture in preventing the role of the family unit and is strong spiritually.

In the business meeting a report of the year's PTA activities was given. Following the installation of officers for the coming year, Superintendent Ralph E. Clabaugh, on behalf of the local unit, presented life memberships to Mrs. Ethel Henning, first grade teacher at North school; Mrs. Doris Sauve, first grade teacher at Park school; Mrs. Wesley Kasl, parent member; and Lambert W. Bredehoft, president of the board of education.

Rev. George W. Kincheloe, First Presbyterian church, gave the invocation and girl Scouts of troop 189 presented the colors.

Thank You

This is the last This Week with PTA column until next fall. Your news editor would like to thank Paddock Publications, the school publicity representatives and chairman for their cooperation.

In the fall Mrs. C. W. Swaby will write this column. (A SHOVELS WERE RAISED high by Sunday school children at Christ Evangelical Lutheran church, Palatine, recently for ground breaking on the church's new addition. Capacity of the new church will be 475 including room for the overflow. An educational wing, that can also be turned into a large auditorium, will have 17 class rooms. (PF

Modern Etiquette

Q. When a number of girls are playing bridge at a friend's home, and the mother of the hostess enters the room for the first time, are all the girls supposed to rise when greeting her?

A. By all means, they must rise!

Q. Would it be proper for me to give a bathrobe to my fiance for his birthday?

A. Since you are engaged to be married, this is quite all right.

THE "VOCAL CHORDS," outstanding women's barbershop quartet from West Suburban chapter of Sweet Adelines, will be featured at the forthcoming production, "Showcase 60," to be held at Arlington high school girls' gym June 4 at 8 p. m. The show is sponsored by the Mount Prospect chapter of Sweet Adelines, which includes women members from the entire northwest suburban areas. Above left to right are Ruth Geils, lead; Ann Rose Vitous, tenor; Phyllis Haeger, baritone; Joan Hecht, bass. Miss Haeger is also the director of the Mount Prospect chapter.

A HAPPY ARLINGTON Heights couple at Junior Cotillion dance contest are Bill Smoltz, 807 E. Olive, and Marilyn Born, 1007 E. Olive. Contest for area seventh and eighth grade students was held at Arlington high school.

THERE IS NO doubt that this float in Rolling Meadows fifth anniversary parade was entered by the Lions club. A realistic lion topped the huge birthday cake, although wind and rain spoiled the "icing." The beast riding in the convertible rolled his eyes and waved to youngsters lining the parade route. (B8

THE "VERSATONES," who will be appearing on the "Showcase 60" program June 4 at Arlington high school girls' gym, are members of the Skokie Valley SPEBSQSA (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America). Left to right are Chuck Oliva, Ed Daugird, Bill Fick and Harry Klepsteen. "Showcase 60" will be presented by the Mount Prospect chapter of Sweet Adelines as its first annual production. Tickets are available from Sweet Adelines members, from Keefer's drug store in Mount Prospect or by calling CL 3-0383. (B-9

Jurco Appointed As Road Attorney

Stephen Jurco, 217 Windsor, Arlington Heights, has been appointed attorney for the road and bridge department of Wheeling township.

Announcement of his appointment was made Tuesday by Barnie Runge, 406 N. Pine, Arlington Heights, township road and bridge commissioner. Jurco succeeds the late Hugo J. Thal of Arlington Heights, who had served for many years as the department's attorney.

Wheeling township includes the villages of Arlington Hts. and Wheeling, a portion of Mount Prospect, and the unincorporated community of Prospect Heights.

In addition to his new duties for the township, Jurco is village attorney and prosecutor for Arlington Heights.

HIS LAW FIRM of Jurco, Damisch and Sinson, 11 S. LaSalle st., Chicago, has opened additional offices at 11 S. State rd., Arlington Heights, in order to properly service clients in the northwest suburban area.

Three of Jurco's law partners, John W. Damisch, Junie L. Simpson, and Dennis O'Brien, were recently named by the Arlington Heights board of trustees as assistant prosecutors for the village. Fifth member of the law firm is John A. Sullivan.

Hours for the new Arlington Heights office are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday to Friday and 7 to 9 p.m. Friday evenings. Saturday hours will be 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Active in community affairs, Jurco is also a director of the Bank of Arlington Heights and affiliated with several civic and service organizations. (ACM

Where Personalized Service Means Savings To You

NEW WORLDS UNFOLD . . .

Probably you think you take conscientious care of your baby. But watch a teenage boy with his own car. By comparison, your child is practically neglected. He washes and polishes that car 'til the finish rivals the latest model in a showroom. He listens with a musician's concentration to the slightest sound of the motor. He tinkers and tunes and tightens . . . and then begins all over again. It's his pride and joy, and he willingly sacrifices every nickel and most of his time to it. Be glad he does. He's learning a sense of responsibility that no amount of parental advice could instill. He's learning to respect hard work and to enjoy the justified pride of a job well done. A car of his own opens a whole new world to a boy and it's a wonderful world. If your boy is ready to enter this world, the best thing you can do for him is tell him about the wide choice of fine, worthwhile used car buys to be found every day in the Want Ads. That's where he'll find the car worthy of his devotion.

Future Nurses Receive Charter

Future Nurses club of Prospect high school is one of the first clubs exploring careers in nursing in Illinois to receive a Future Nurses club charter.

The charter has been granted by the National League for Nursing, New York.

AS A CHARTERED club, the future nurses club is participating in a national youth program to help the nation meet future nursing needs.

Club officers are Sandy Schult, president; Terry First, vice-president; Connie Meyer, secretary; and Sylvia Michaels, treasurer.

Mrs. Iva Hufnagel is faculty advisor to the club, which has 40 members.

Prospect high future nurses club is one of over 3,000 such clubs located across the country. Total membership is more than 80,000. (ACM

THREE MEMBERS of the Prospect high Future Nurses club, Sandy Schult, Donna Timm, and Connie Meyer look over some nursing school text books during a meeting at the school last week. A charter for the local group was presented during the meeting. Forty girls are participating. (ACM

Eastwood Events

A variety of entertainment for their mothers and dads was planned by the students of the University of Denver for their annual parents' week festivities. Mr. and Mrs. William Richter of 626 N. Dryden, parents of freshman Bill Richter, arrived for the fun in Denver on Friday. That evening they dined on a dinner prepared by the boys who are studying catering. Saturday morning breakfast was served by the mothers of Bill's fraternity, Phi Kappa Sigma. A steak fry in the mountains in the afternoon and a dance at the fraternity house at night ended the jam-packed day. On Sunday they attended ground-breaking ceremonies for a new fraternity house, after which they jetted home in just two hours.

Bill, who has been named historian of Phi Kappa Sigma, is studying accounting.

At a luncheon Wednesday, Mrs. Richter entertained six friends who got together to talk over all their family's activities. Two ofthe ladies, Mrs. Milla Schowalter from Port Washington and Mrs. George Pollen from Cedarsburg, spent the night with the Richters before returning to their homes in Wisconsin.

ALSO LAST Wednesday a number of Eastwood ladies enjoyed the perfect May day and the scenic countryside setting for the St. James Womens' Guild luncheon at the Villa D'Este in Cary. A fashion show featuring the newest in summer styles was presented during the luncheon.

At the ceremonies after lunch, Mrs. Jack Mutti, 314 N. Beverley, was installed as vice president of the guild for the coming year. Getting right down to business, Mrs. Mutti had a meeting for the new board in her home Friday night.

From Thursday to Sunday, May 12-15, Bob Inman visited Cambridge, Mass. where he enrolled and was accepted at Harvard university. While in Cambridge Bob played basketball and tennis and visited several classes.

On Sunday in Glenview, Greg Inman swam for the Chicago Swim club in the Playdium Invitational and came in fifth in the backstroke. Greg and Bob are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Inman, 513 N. Douglas.

FOR A WEEK and a half, Mrs. Mary Schulze and her daughter, Holly, of N. Hickory ave., vacationed with Mrs. Schulzes mother, Mrs. Eva Kimball, in North Miami Beach, Fla. Swimming, a visit to the seaquarium and just loafing made for a pleasant pre-summer holiday.

June 11 has been set aside for the annual Eastwood bridge tournament awards dinner at Old Orchard country club. The week previous to this date members will be called for their final reservations. Any other interested parties, not members, who might like to attend, should call either Dorothy Raasch, CLearbrook 3-7312, or Louise Luedeking, Clearbrook 3-4135.

This evening, Thursday, there will be a meeting at the Village Hall to discuss the details for the paving of Miner st. All interested persons should plan to attend this important meeting. (A

LEST WE FORGET
ON THIS MEMORIAL DAY

Mount Prospect next Monday observes another Memorial Day. It is fitting that we pause in private and civic affairs on May 30 to remember those who have marched away from this community—many never to return—to engage in the nation's wars and the Korean conflict.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, Prospect Post 1137, has arranged a suitable program for this occasion with line of march forming at Busse and Elm Streets at 9:30 a.m.

Paying homage to yesterday we look ahead to tomorrow hopeful that peace may reign and our young men may be spared another war.

Area's Trackmen Register 14 Points in State Meet

Moline Tops Test; Cards Capture 4th

by BOB FRISK

Bloom's track reign came to an end in the rain Saturday afternoon!

Moline high school dethroned the Trojans as king of schoolboy track in Illinois with an impressive victory in the 66th annul state meet.

Coach Ralph Steben's Trojans, slight premeet favorites for their fifth straight state title, could do no better than fifth as the 25-year Chicago area domination was shattered in the University of Illinois' rain - handicapped, wind-swept Memorial Stadium.

ALTON'S Redbirds, sparked by their 17-year-old soph B. B. Gater, finished second behind Moline with Phillips of Chicago in third. Coach Russ Attis' Arlington Cardinals edged Bloom and Proviso East for fourth place.

Area trackmen brought home 14 points from the cinder classic with Arlington contributing nine. Mike Dundy and Chuck Phelan gave the Cards eight points with seconds in the 440 and 880, and the duo teamed with Tony Stavros and Steve Van Deren for a fifth in the strong mile relay event.

Palatine gained three surprise points thanks to an impressive discus effort by junior Bill Smith. Smith tossed the platter 13-5½ for a third place finish in a field generally regarded as the strongest in the meet's history.

WILLOWBROOK'S Fred Falkner gave the Warriors two markers on fifths in the 100 and 220.

Whereas several marks were in danger before the meet preliminaries began Friday afternoon, only two new standards found their way into the record books. The winds which reached 35-mph and intermittent showers held down the performances by the crack field.

Hinsdale's southpaw Pete Martin, the honor roll leader all season, eclipsed the shot put mark Friday afternoon with a 58-5¼ toss. Martin's effort broke the state mark held by Mike Pyle of New Trier at 58-3½.

THE UNUSUAL weather conditions forced the finals of the pole vault and high jump into the Armory Saturday afternoon, and Centralia's Gary Wolff found the new location to his liking. Wolff's jump of 13-½ snapped the old mark of ville's Jim Wright since 1950.

Two individual champions in 1959 had their titles taken away Saturday. Bloom's Elzie Higgenbottom lost his 440 crown to Tommy Thomas, junior from Rock Island, and Proviso East's Larry Howard saw his high hurdle title taken by Wendell Grant of Johnston City. Higgenbottom finished a distant fifth, and Howard placed third in a close finish.

The meet's outstanding performer was Gater, the fleet sprinter who won both the 100 and 220 and anchored the winning 880 yard relay team. The Alton sophomore had to bore through high winds to win both dashes in times of :10.4 and :23.4.

BUT MOLIN had the means to offset Gater as it won the mile relay to clinch the victory, copped the discus throw, picked up seven points in the sprints, gained a second in the half mile relay, and a tie for fifth in the high jump.

Two events were decided Friday afternoon. Sophomore Tom Atkinson of LaGrange copped the broad jump with a 22-10 jump, topping East Aurora's Tom Hayden on his final effort. Moline's John Anders captured the discus throw with a 162-10 mark, almost three feet ahead of runnerup Bogie Redmon of Collinsville, the 6-4 basketball all-stater.

Palatine's Smith was well settled in third place in the discus as such honor roll performers as Frank Kupka of Morton (Cicero). Dan Pollack of Highland Park, Jim Robinson of Alton and Dave Miller of Sherrard failed to finish in the top five.

THE VERY FIRST face Saturday gave warning anything might happen as Grant, a Johnston City athlete who had been beaten on numerous occasions this spring, edged Proviso's Howard and Oak Park's Ken Buttars in the 120 yard highs.

Gater fought a strong wind in the 100 and topped Sycamore's Bill Smith. The Alton speedster got away to another fine start in the 220 and won easily with Mo-

KICKIN' IT AROUND

By BOB FRISK

THE ILLINOIS Interscholastic track championship has been wrested away from the Chicago area for the first time in 25 years, and it appears that it won't return for a few seasons—at least not in 1961.

Moline and Alton, the top two finishers in the 1960 edition of the cinder spectacular, were loaded with talented underclassmen and that spells trouble for Chicago area units hopeful of returning the coveted prep prize back to its "home" of so many years.

Only one of five Moline high track graduates, sprinter Dick Schluter, scored points in individual events. The Maroons' Gene Shipley will have discus champ John Anders three-fourths of the state champion mile relay unit, and one-half of the second place 880 yard quartet returning in 1961.

B. B. GATER

The outlook is even more optimistic at Alton where only one boy—the anchorman on the Redbirds' mile relay unit—will be missing from among the point-getters last weekend. Heading the returnees is B. B. Gater, the sprint phenom who copped both the 100 and 220 yard dashes Saturday and anchored the victorious 880 yard relay unit.

Gater silenced the critics with his brilliant performances under adverse weather conditions in the state meet. There had been some skepticism about his actual speed but that skepticism vanished Saturday afternoon in the wind and rain.

Gater credited good starts in both races for his sprint victories. Talking with sideline observers after his double victory, he asserted that he had lost the Oak Park Relays 50 yard dash title to Sycamore's Bill Smith because of a poor start. "I felt I could beat him when we met again," Gater added, "because I was gaining on him even in 50 yards."

The Alton soph, who has one more season of high school competition remaining, laughed at a report that he was married. "I know how that started," he smiled. "I wore a coat and tie to school one day and everyone wanted to know what happened. So I told them I got married."

One of the 1960 track champions, Centralia's Gary Wolff, is married and has a child.

We look for Gater to enjoy a brilliant campaign next spring and we wouldn't be surprised if he equals the :09.6 state mark in the 100. Given good conditions and considering he was running against a crack field, the Alton soph could have approached that standard last Saturday.

Four underclassmen will be back to defend titles in 1961. In addition to Gater, Moline's Anders, Rock Island's Tommy Thomas, and LaGrange's Tom Atkinson will return next spring.

Rock Island's Thomas, the only boy to beat Arlington's Mike Dundy in the 440 this spring, commented about the strong wind. "When you turned that corner and went into the backstretch where the wind hit you head-on, it was like running into a wall"

Atkinson, a sophomore, was probably the most surprised state track champion after his 22-10 leap won the broad jump. "I came down here just hoping I could get a medal of some kind," Tom reflected to reporters. "Fifth place would have been fine. I never dreamed of first."

The biggest worrier and one of the happiest victors in the state test was Morton township's Al Carius, the 5-9, 135-pound miler. "This is like being let out of a cage," Al said as he received congratulations in a driving rain after his mile victory. "I've done nothing but worry about this race for a week. And then I was still worried during the race because I didn't know if I was doing the right thing by hanging back until the finish."

Carius stayed back the first two laps with the other runners serving as wind and rain blockers. With the finish line in sight he raced home in a manner reminiscent of Alton's Gater winning the dashes. Runnerup to Carius was Weymouth Kirkland of New Trier, a junior who should cop the title next spring.

Most exciting race Saturday was the 120 yard high hurdles finale when three boys hit the finish line almost simultaneously. A comparative unknown, Wendell Grant of Johnston City, edged such favorites as Proviso East's Larry Howard and Oak Park's Ken Buttars.

"I've been beaten by everyone this spring," Grant laughed after the race. "This was the time to win, though, wasn't it?"

Hinsdale Captures Two Titles

Arlington's Al Kruse captured medalist honors in the West Suburban golf test for the second straight year Monday afternoon as he toured Acacia country club in 72.

Kruse, who lost out on the fourth hole in a playoff for the individual state title last weekend, registered nines of 36-36 for a four stroke victory over runners-up Carl Rydin of LaGrange and Fred Lauerman of Hinsdale.

Kruse copped the '59 test with a 74 over the same course as Arlington's Cards won their second straight WSC golf crown.

ALTHOUGH Kruse did a repeat in the individual play, Arlington wasn't as fortunate in team competition. Coach Ralph Meyer's outfit had to settle for a fourth place finish in the varsity division, and Sid Brown's frosh-sophs placed third in the younger class.

Hinsdale's Red Devils won both divisions with a 311 total in varsity competition and a 332 in frosh-soph. Arlington's victory score in 1959 was 360, twenty strokes better than York.

Kruse gained some revenge for his loss to Downers Grove's Ray Barnhart in the state playoff with his victory Monday. Barnhart came in with a 77 to tie Hinsdale's Bill Shean for fourth place. It marked the first time that Kruse had beaten Barnhart when the pair was playing together.

OTHER Arlington scores were a 78 turned in by Ralph Ibbotson, 84s by Al Grotefend and Dick LeMay, 86 by Dale Rask, 88 by Grant Wallhoff, and a 92 by Roger Haenggi.

In the frosh-soph division an 80 won medalist honors as Hinsdale rolled to a 10-stroke victory.

Davis' 84 earned him a fifth place tie as the leading Cardinal. Mike Heyl and Bob Sielken both came in with 86s for Brown's frosh-sophs and Gerald Peterson recorded an 89. Rusty Blix had a 92 and Ken Seeger registered a 95.

Announce Honor Team Next Week

Paddock Publications will announce its fifth annual All-State track team in next week's sports section.

Prep athletes will be honored in the 12 individual events with certificates going out to the selections.

An All-State board, headed by Bill Beckman of Prospect high school, will select the 1960 All-Staters!

WINNING HIS HEAT under adverse weather conditions, Arlington's Chuck Phelan placed second in the 880 yard run in the 1960 state track finals in Champaign. Here Phelan breaks the tape in 2:02.5, seven-tenths of a second off the pace set by another heat winner and eventual champion, Jimmy Simmons of Chicago Phillips.

Cards Top LaGrange; Wait for Maine Now!

Arlington's amazing baseball Cardinals, experiencing one of the hottest streaks ever recorded in West Suburban diamond annals, registered their eleventh straight league victory Tuesday afternoon with a 10-9 conquest of LaGrange.

The triumph, made possible by a clutch seventh inning single by Dick Goeltz, gave Bob Baker's unit an 11-2 record in the conference with only one game remaining — and that's the big one against Maine's Blue Demons, currently leading the pack at 9-1.

It's still questionable when that crucial contest will be played as Maine has some games to make up. The Demons were involved in regional baseball play and even after Tuesday's 2-0 victory over Hinsdale, they still had four contests remaining — two against Downers Grove and one against both Glenbard and Arlington.

THE SCHEDULE tentatively calls for the Blue Demons to make a visit to Recreation Park next Tuesday afternoon, but it's doubtful if the game will be able to be played then.

Whenever the contest does find its way into the schedule, a lot will be riding on the outcome. Arlington has completed its league season with the exception of the Maine encounter, and the Cards can sit back and hope the Blue Demons stumble along the way.

Maine can't afford to lose any games before the Arlington tilt if it hopes to gain at least a share of the WSC championship.

Arlington had to struggle for its latest victory and it took a run in the seventh inning to decide the battle. A LaGrange rally had knotted the count in the top of the seventh but an error opened the door for Baker's Cards in their half of the frame.

GREG BECKWAY got on via a miscue by the second baseman and he rode to third on Skipp Witt's two-bagger. Goeltz then delivered his key blast, a left field single that sent Beckway in from third with the decisive marker.

The Cardinals held a 6-1 lead in the second inning but their prosperity was short-lived. LaGrange pecked away with single runs in the third and fourth and moved ahead with a four-spot in the top of the fifth.

Two hits, two walks, a wild pitch, and passed ball figured in Arlington's uprising in its effort in the fifth and the Cardinals regained the lead at 9-7 with three runs. The Lions added single counters in both the sixth and seventh to set the stage for Goeltz' clutch blow.

RIGHT HANDERS Gene Dahlquist and George Bork handled the pitching chores for Arlington and Jim Blake, Johnny Lind, and Dahlquist paved the way offensively.

Lind continued his amazing hitting streak and upped his season mark to .469 with three hits. The senior shortstop has eight hits in his last three games and has driven in 14 runs, 23 for the season.

Blake recorded three safeties to boost his plate standard to .373, and Dahlquist contributed two and now stands at .369.

Maine West Unit Cinder Favorite

Prospect's varsity and frosh-soph trackmen will compete in the Interim association cinder meet today (Thursday) with the prelims and field events slated to get under way at 4:30 p.m.

Glenbrook high school will host the affair with the meet finals at 7 p.m. on the Spartans' track, 2300 Shermer rd., Northbrook.

Division championships will be determined in both varsity and frosh-soph levels will all meet marks standing as Interim records as the loop is in its initial year of operation.

Maine West's Warriors are rated the favorite for the varsity championships with the frosh-soph division a toss-up.

TWO BOYS who placed in their specialties in the state cinder finals head the field of varsity competitors. Willowbrook's Fred Falkner finished fifth in both the 100 and 220 downstate, and East Leyden's Hal Palishen gained a tie for third in the pole vault.

Falkner and Wheaton's Sonny Kee are expected to rule the dashes although Maine West's Ron Albertson could surprise. Falkner has a season best of 10 flat in the century and :22.2 in the 220. Kee boasted a :22.1 furlong in the district.

The 440-yard dash is a toss-up but Prospect's Jim Glidden, Willowbrook's Rich Janssen, and Wheaton's Bill Fron could battle it out in the 880. Janssen's 2:02.1 is the best time of the trio.

WHEATON'S Rich Taylor is the definite mile favorite off his 4:28.4 district clocking, and the two hurdle titles could go to the Tigers' Albie Harris. Maine West's Luzietti, fifth place finisher in the district highs, and Prospect's Mike Field could threaten Harris in both hurdle events.

Maine West rates as the favorite for both the 880 yard and mile relays with a 1:32.8 effort this spring in the half mile event and a 3:31.7 in the mile. Willowbrook's mile relay quartet qualified for the state and could surprise.

Maine West has two of the top broad jumpers in Leonard Lundgren and Leonardson with Lundgren boasting a 21-2 mark this spring. Prospect's hopes in this event rest with Keith Grams and Glidden with both boys capable of threatening for the crown.

MAINE WEST'S Art Steele, East Leyden's Jim Rogers, the basketball standout last winter, and Proviso West's Gerald Beatty appear to rank as the class of the high jump with Prospect's Daryl Boyd a title possibility in the discus. Boyd qualified for the state with a 141-5 toss in the Evanston district.

It's anybody's guess as to what boy will claim the shot put crown although either of the Knights' entries, Boyd and Darryl Phillips, could triumph.

Leyden's Hal Palishen, who has a 12-6 effort in the pole vault, should have little trouble winning that event. Maine West's Steele and Wheaton's Dan Kuhn are expected to give Palishen his stiffest competition.

Dundy Signs Illini Tender

Arlington's Mike Dundy, one of the most sought-after high school athletes in the state, signed a tender for the University of Illinois last weekend.

Dundy, who finished second in the 440 and anchored the Cards' mile relay unit to a fifth place finish in the state track meet, was also an all-state football halfback last fall.

Thursday, May 26, 1960

FOR THE FIRST time in 25 years the state track championship leaves the Chicago area. Indoor track training and stiffer competition have given the Chicago suburbs a virtual monopoly on cinder honors. This year the suburban strength was so spread out that no one team could match the strength of Moline and Alton. It took only 21 points to win the title. Bloom had won the championship the past four years with a much higher total every time. Arlington's nine points edged Bloom out of fourth place.

We would like to comment that one of the reasons Illinois records look so poor in track compared with the west coast states is that the state meet records are the only ones counted and we are notorious for having bad weather conditions for our state meet. Saturday a 40 mile wind and some rain came directly against all runners coming down the straightaway in the dashes and hurdles and at the finish of longer races. Al Carius of Morton who had run the mile in 4:18 two weeks ago, to exceed the state record, could do no better than 4:38.2 as winner at Champaign. Elzie Higgenbottom, slightly built 125-pound Bloom 440 champ of last year, got only 5th as he did not have enough power to battle the gale which whipped through Memorial Stadium. All marks were way off the usual standard except the pole vault which was shifted indoors and the shot held on Friday. These events produced new records of 13' ½" and 58' 5¼" respectively. The state meet ought to be held a week later for better weather but so many down state schools close this coming week that the meet would interfere with graduations.

Arlington can be mighty proud of Mike Dundy's second in the 440 and the second in the 880 by Chuck Phelan. Dundy beat Higgenbottom and Phelan shaded last year's second place record breaker Bill Rawson of Lake Forest. Palatine got a surprise three points when junior Bill Smith scored a third in the discus with the best throw of his career at 153' 5½". Smith did not win the conference discus and was 4th in the Evanston district but certainly did come through at Champaign. Paddock Publications carried a story two weeks ago by Bill Beckman pointing out that 11 boys in the state had bettered 152' in the discus. Smith was not one of them but 9 of the 11 failed to throw the disc that far when it really counted.

A PSYCHIATRIST speaking to an athletic injury conference recently, pointed out that certain attitudes cause injuries in sports. The boy who lacks ability but wants very badly to play and the boy with much ability who does not want to play are especially good candidates for injuries. The athletic father who pushes his not too capable son into sports creates a real hazard. The overly aggressive and the overly timid are most prone to have accidents.

Little League baseball is about to get under way. This sports program can be a great thing for the youngsters who are interested in baseball or it can discourage a boy from baseball or other sports competition. It depends on how it is handled. First of all it should be organized on the basis of the boys having fun playing ball. Then, from the parental side there should be an effort made to keep from putting pressure on the beginning athlete to the point that he must always excel. Just attending the games and showing an interest in what your boy is doing is sufficient pressure for him to do his best. Encourage at all times. Never be critical and discouraging. Baseball is not a sport in which more than a few will really excel.

20 YEARS AGO (May 24, 1940)

Palatine High will sponsor the first grammar school track meet to be held in the township. In conference meets coming up this week Crystal Lake is favored to win the Northeast followed by Arlington Heights and Bensenville appears to have the edge in the Northwest with Palatine a close second . . . Palatine shut out Northbrook 5-0 in tennis with DeBerge, Hollinger, and Schwolow singles winners and Hahnfeldt, Snyder, Gage and Fink winners at doubles . . . Arlington slugged out a 13-2 win over Woodstock for their 10th straight win of the season . . . Bell of Libertyville and Cipri of Palatine got into the final of the 440 in the state meet but drew lanes 10 and 11 and were not allowed to cut to the pole until after 240 yards of the race. They got 5th and 6th but the boys in the first 4 lanes took the first 4 places due to lane advantage.

10 YEARS AGO (May 26, 1950)

Palatine ran away with the Northwest Conference meet scoring 79 points to 48½ for Barrington, the nearest competitor. Twenty-two Pirates got into the scoring and seniors Paul Loeber, John Trenchard, and Howard Kagay each won a first and a second to lead Palatine to their third straight title and 6 in the last 10 years . . . Gordon Busse took third in the broad jump and 4th in the 220 to score 5 points in the state track meet for Arlington Heights. Wendell Phillips won the state meet with 19 points. Barrington beat Bensenville 11-7 to throw the Northwest baseball race into three way tie including Ela-Vernon. Tom Rowader shot a 68 to lead Arlington to a record score for their school in a golf victory over Bensenville . . . Palatine is favored to end Northbrook's three year golf monopoly in the Northwest meet at Bensenville's Mohawk course.

B.B. GATER (third from left) edges Sycamore's Bill Smith at finish of 100 yard dash in Saturday's state track meet in Champaign. Gater, an Alton high sophomore, won in :10.4 as the sprinters had to buck a 35-mph wind. Gater went on to cop the 220 in :23.4 and anchor the Redbirds' victorious 880-yard relay team. Sprinters in the century here are (left to right), Willowbrook's Fred Falkner, 5th; Dunbar's Alfred Hunter, out of the money; Gater; Smith; Moline's Dick Schluter, 3rd; and Peoria Manual's L. C. Pannell, 4th.

THE SECOND LEG of Arlington's mile relay is about to begin in Friday afternoon's preliminaries in the University of Illinois' Memorial Stadium. Chuck Phelan (left) hands baton to Tony Stavros as Cards finished third in their qualifying heat. Arlington's time of 3:27.7 was the third fastest qualifying mark in Friday's session of the state track meet, and the AHS quartet went on to place fifth in the finals.

line's Dick Schulter in second. Schulter was a key individual in the Marooms' team victory as he added a third in the 100 to his second in the furlong.

The 440 wasn't decided until the final sprint as Rock Island's Thomas edged Arlington's Dundy. Dundy, who won his qualifying heat Friday in :50.7, was near the back of the field coming into the home stretch Saturday, but he delivered an impressive kick for his second place.

THE ANTICIPATED duel to the wire in the 880 didn't materialize as Phillips' Jimmy Simmons stepped away from Bill Rawson of Lake Forest and Glenn Cothern of Gibson City, winning in the creditable time of 2:01.8 considering the conditions.

Arlington's Phelan won his heat in 2:02.5 and his time topped Rawson by one-tenth of a second for second place. Chuck ran an outstanding race in capturing his heat, pulling away on the last lap and coming home with a strong finish.

Little Al Carius of Morton township couldn't run a paced race as planned in the mile, but the 5-9, 135 pound senior, who twice this year bettered the state record of 4:20.7, demonstrated an amazing kick in gaining a 4:38.2 victory.

CARIUS RAN back of the pack until the final lap, then he and Weymouth Kirkland of New Trier moved by Ken Spitzer of Decatur MacArthur. As the pair rounded the final turn, Carius turned it on and raced to a five-yard victory.

The relays were clear-cut decisions. Gater made the half mile look easy for Alton as he turned a close race into an easy victory for the Redbirds. In the mile event Moline worked up a good lead over Bloom and Alton and its best 440 man, Hank Ritchie, protected it well over the final leg.

Arlington's quartet qualified for the finals with a 3:27.7 clocking in running third behind Alton and Phillips Friday afternoon, and the Cards came in fifth in Saturday's finale, topping New Trier for the one team point.

A THREE-WAY the or first place resulted in the high jump which was held in the Armory Saturday. Atwood's Dave Schmidt, East Moline's Orbie Giles, and Maine township's Chuck Mohr all cleared 6-2.

Among the area athletes who failed to make the cinder finals after qualifying in district tests were Arlington's Dan Striegel in the shot put, Willowbrook's Rich Janssen in the 880, Palatine's Don Smith in the shot put, and Prospect's Daryl Boyd in the discus. Willowbrook's mile relay unit also missed qualifying for the "elite six" in Friday's prelims.

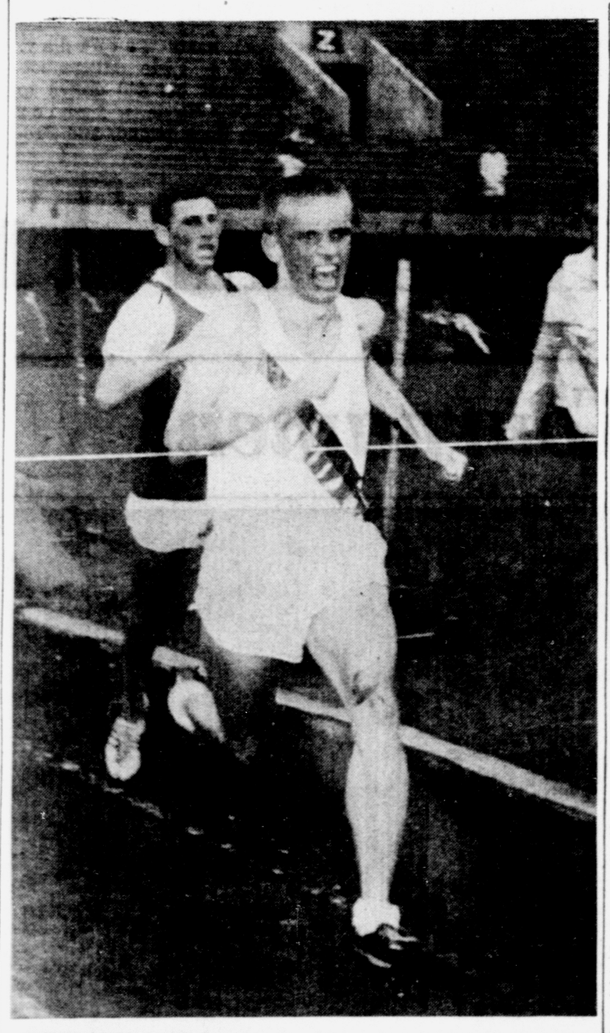
Arlington's Net Club Plans 1960 Campaign

The Arlington Tennis Club held its spring meeting May 18th and made plans for this year's season. The league has been expanded to six teams with the entry of Wheaton to last year's teams from Arlington, Berwyn, Des Plaines, Elmhurst, and Elmwood Park.

Winner of last year's Senior Men and Open dvisions, Arlington hopes to maintain this record and improve in the Junior Boys, Senior Women, and Junior Girls divisions. The club would like to encourage anyone interested in tennis or interested in participating in this to contact one of the following newly-elected officers: President - David Bone, Cl 3-0290; Vice President - Don Walsh, TW 4-3339; Treasurer - Robert Fink.



DISPLAYING AN impressive kick after he hit the home stretch, Morton township's Al Carius topped New Trier's Weymouth Kirkland for the mile title in the state meet last Saturday. Although his bid for a record was hindered by unfortunate weather conditions, Carius won in creditable 4:38.2. The little Morton runner had turned in a 4:18.4 earlier in the season.

Kruse 2nd In State Golf Test

Arlington high school's Al Kruse, eighth in the state test as a junior, battled the wind, rain, and strong field last weekend and came home with a second place in the 1960 edition of the prep links spectacular.

Kruse had tied Downers Grove's Ray Barnhart at the end of the regulation 36 holes, but the Trojans' standout won the fourth hole of a sudden death playoff for the individual crown.

Both West Suburban athletes had registered 154s for their efforts prior to the sudden death. Kruse showed more consistency with rounds of 78-76 while Barnhart jumped off to an impressive start Friday with an excellent 73, then tapered off to an 81 Saturday morning.

KRUSE RECORDED a 159 as a junior for his eighth place finish, and Barnhart had fired 160. Elgin's Dave Huske, 1959 individual champion, finished fourth in the '60 test with a 157. Huske won a playoff for fourth on the first hole against Bobby Moreland of Peoria Richwoods.

Fred Schultz of Wheaton high was the top individual from the Interim association with a 163 on rounds of 77-86.

Peoria Richwoods won the team championship with a 663 total, three strokes ahead of Urbana and seven on top of Joliet Catholic. The West Suburban's Downers Grove finished in a tie for fourth with Elgin, Arlington Heights district champ. Both schools had 677 efforts.

DEFENDING team champion Highland Park didn't qualify for the 1960 finals. Joliet Catholic finished second in that '59 meet with Arlington third.

Team scores last weekend included Richwoods, 663; Urbana, 666; Joliet Catholic, 670; Downers Grove, 677; Elgin, 677; Wheaton, 684; Galesburg, 685; Evanston, 689; Crystal Lake, 693; Alton, 694; Crete-Monee, 715; Decatur MacArthur, 723; Jacksonville, 723; Lane Tech, 737; Vernon and West Frankfort withdrew.

Williams Hurls 1-0 Soph Win

A brilliant mound performance by "Buzz" Williams enabled Arlington's frosh-soph baseball nine to record its seventh victory of the season Monday afternoon.

Williams fanned 12 and walked only two in blanking LaGrange 1-0. The triumph gave "Bus" Ormsbee's aggregation a 7-5-1 season mark with one tilt remaining.

In a previous meeting with LaGrange May 18 Arlington pulled out a ten-inning, 5-4 decision.

The young Lions tied the count in the seventh inning last Wednesday after trailing 4-2. In the tenth Arlington's Ross Retterer led off with a single and Mike McDonald advanced him to third.

John Lane's sacrifice bunt drove in Retterer with the deciding tally. Lane yielded six hits in gaining the mound triumph.

Club Record

The White Sox feat of winning their first ten home games this season was the best mark in this particular department in the club's history.

Weekend Action Slated For Mount Prospect Loops

Three of Mount Prospect's seven baseball leagues open action Saturday and Sunday when the two Minor League Divisions of the Little Leagues play doubleheaders both days, and the Pony League opens the season at 1:00 p.m. Sunday at Lyons Park. The Minor League Clubs will play at Owen's Park, Fairview School, Sunset School and Prospect School at 1:00 p.m. and 3:00 p.m. both days.

Monday (Memorial Day), the two Major League Divisions of the Little Leagues will play double headers at Owens Park and Fairview School. Time: 1:00 p.m. and 3:00 p.m.

Over 800 boys are registered this season and they will play baseball ranging from the "Minors" to the Colt League and the American Legion team. Tryouts for these two Leagues are to be held Saturday morning (9:30 a.m.) at Prospect high school. All boys 15, 16 or 17 years old are encouraged to "try-out" for these teams. Opening games for "Colts" and American Legion players are slated the first week after school is out.

Schedules for all games, in all leagues, are completed and will be given to each player this week.

Speaking of schedules...the Annual Mount Prospect Baseball Association Dance is scheduled for the evening of June third from nine till one at the Mount Prospect Country Club. Al Ford's orchestra will play. The donation is $3.50 per couple. The organization needs your support at the dance and at the field...see you there.

JC Golf Tourney Set for July 9

On Saturday, July 9, a potential USJCC champion will be teeing off at Rob Roy golf club.

This year, the Arlington Heights Junior Chamber of Commerce is reinstituting the Junior Golf Tournament for the young amateurs of this area.

Eligibility rules require the applicants to be young men who will not have reached 18 years of age by midnight, August 15, 1960. The rules further state that first, second or third place winners of other area Jaycee golf tournaments this year are ineligible.

An entry fee of two dollars by each contestant is required in order to maintain the player's amateur ranking. All play will be governed by USGA rules.

COMMITTEE co-chairman Rick Farris and Frank Precilio are anticipating a large turnout for this local segment of the international contest which experts term "The Nation's Number One Junior Golf Event." Chick Evans, the popular local pro, will be on hand to offer advice and helpful tips to the young contestants.

Entries will be accepted by phone, until June 30, by the committee: Rick Farris, FL 8-1632; Frank Precilio, CL 3-8465; Jim Backoff, CL 9-3828; Dick Riley, CL 5-5925.

Ladies Day

The next Ladies Day at Chicago's Comiskey Park is scheduled for Saturday, June 4th, when the Kansas City Athletics face the White Sox. Ladies will be admitted free of charge that day. The special Ladies Day gates will be Gates 1 and 2 on the Wentworth Avenue side of the park.

Softball Loop Opens 1960 Slate

The Rolling Meadows softball league opened its season May 15 with two clubs getting off to a winning start.

Mell and Paul's Bluebirds dumped Hawk Lane 18-17 in a game sparked by homers by both teams. The winners pushed over the decisive run in the last inning.

Newcomers to the league, a team from Hoffman Estates under the sponsorship of Bender Rieger of Mt. Prospect, defeated the American Legion 19-5.

Games of May 22 were postponed due to wet grounds.

Riessen Gains Fourth Straight Singles Crown

Marty Riessen did it again. But Hinsdale didn't.

That about sums up the 1960 Illinois high school tennis championships held in Champaign-Urbana last weekend.

Riessen swept to an unprecedented fourth straight individual singles title with a victory over southpaw Dave Moss of Granite City.

Coach Jay Kramer's Red Devils had to settle for a tie for second behind the new state champion Evanston Wildkits. Evanston compiled nine points in gaining the title away from a Hinsdale unit which had rolled to four straight state crowns.

DANVILLE TIED the Red Devils for second with eight points and Flora finished fourth with seven. Blue Island and Oak Park both registered six with Ottawa gaining five.

Riessen dropped his first game in four years of singles domination when Moss took his measure in the first game of the first set.

The set went to 2-2 but Riessen bounced back and didn't give up another game to the challenger. He finished the first set 6-2 and won the second 6-0.

Wilson Burge and Frank Noble of Danville staged a mild surprise in winning the doubles title, topping Don Fogle and Don Stahly of Ottawa, 6-1, 6-4.

Summaries:

Wheaton Decisions Prospect

Wheaton's Tigers avenged a previous defeat to Prospect with a 3-2 decision Tuesday afternoon in an Interim association encounter.

Johnny Pfund bested the Knights' Tom Polzin for the mound triumph as the Tigers scored two runs in the fifth and one in the sixth in a come-from-behind decision.

Prospect scored single runs in the first and fourth anl registered three hits off the slants of Pfund.

In a previous meeting between the two squads Chuck Aldrich's Knights had recorded a 4-3 victory, one of two Prospect decisions in league play.

DICK NICKELSEN, 11 Stonegate E, Prospect Heights, is a member of the varsity baseball squad at Illinois State Normal University. A sophomore at the school, Nickelsen is a reserve catcher who is hitting at a .277 clip for the ten games in which he has appeared. An Arlington high school graduate, Nickelsen is being counted on by Coach Hal Frye for the future. ISNU has an 11-11 season mark and is fifth in the IIAC conference.

Arlington Netmen Clinch 2nd Slot

Arlington's varsity netmen clinched second place in the West Suburban conference with an impressive showing in Tuesday's qualifying rounds of the loop net meet.

Coach Ken Schaller's Cardinals placed all three singles players and one doubles combination in the finals slated to be held at Riverside-Brookfield yesterday (Wednesday).

Hinsdale has captured the West Suburban varsity championship and it was just a matter of playing the matches at R-B Wednesday.

ARLINGTON'S entries in the loop finals were Bob Inman in No. 1 singles, Bill Thompson in No. 2 singles, Tom Benson in No. 3 singles, and the doubles team of Jay Wheelock and Bruce Law.

Inman was slated to meet four-time state champion Marty Riessen of Hinsdale for the No. 1 singles championship with Thompson testing Bill Lipsey of Maine township. Benson was scheduled to play Kappy Pielet of Hinsdale and the doubles team was to face Bill Leary and Phil Keel of Hinsdale.

Arlington didn't fare as well in frosh-soph ranks with only the doubles unit of Jim Tindall and Chuck Vlcek reaching Wednesday's finals. Dave Wollerman won his first round match in No. 1 singles but bowed out in the second round.

Chuck Close and Jeff Corbin and the doubles team of Rusty Walters and Gary Elledge bowed out in first round matches.

Prospect Sophs Win Two Tilts

Prospect's frosh - soph baseball unit handled Willowbrook and Proviso West in two recent Interim association encounters.

Coach Dick Kinneman's Knights edged the Warriors 4-3 but had an easier time of it in dumping Proviso's Panthers 7-4.

A walk, single, and wild pitch brought home the deciding run in the fifth inning of Prospect's win over Willowbrook last Wednesday. Steve Fossler and Chuck Cosman shared the mound duties for the Knights, and Chuck Andrews had two hits.

Collecting nine hits and scoring in four of the six innings, the frosh - soph Knights rolled over the Panthers Monday afternoon. Bob Hanson worked the decision with Bob Geller, Tommy Thomas, Fossler, and Gary Jernberg recording two hits each.

Tuesday Night Loop—Rob Roy

Match played May 17 (The previous week, May 10 was rained out).

Area Entries Capture Slots In Swim Test

Four area swimmers captured spots in the finals of the invitational meet held in the Playdium of Glenview Sunday.

Doug Rice finished second in the 50 yard free style for the 15 and 16 year-old group, and Bobby Brown, 14, gained two seconds in the 50 yard free style and 100 yard free style.

Greg Inman, 13, finished fourth in the 50 yard backstroke, and Marquerite Dalton, 14, gained a third in the 50 yard free style and third in the 100 yard free style.

Fight Fans May Witness Ring History

Chicago area fight fans, watching via TelePrompTer closed circuit television in six theatres the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight championship bout direct from New York's Polo Grounds June 20, may see ring history being made. The theatres are the State-Lake, Uptown, Marbro, Tivoli, Capitol and Twins Outdoor.

Realtors Move Into Loop Lead

Annen & Busse Realtors took full advantage of their opportunity last week and moved from second place to first place in the Tuesday division of the Mt. Prospect Twilight League with a 7½-2½ victory over Carl's Food Shop. Carl's have now lost successive matches to Golden's Food Shop, Wille Lbr. & Fuel and Annen & Busse, and have been in last place since the start of the season.

Mt. Prospect Bowling Lanes moved into a tie for second place by defeating former league leaders Morton's Pontiac in a close match, 6-4. One point behind these two was Vern's Pure Oil who gained a 6½-3½ victory over Kersting's Garden Center.

Licht's Paint Store took high point honors for the evening by registering an 8-2 victory over Keefer's Pharmacy. Individual low gross honors went to Bob Louthain with a 37 and "Long Ball" Ed Stofft who scrambled home with a 39. However, some sort of honors should go to Art Hammerstrom of Golden's Food Shop, a class "C" player who turned in a beautiful 40 for his team.

Birdies were reported by E. Stofft, number 4; K. Lemay, number 9; and J. Bannister, numbers 10 and 17.

Fenton Handles Prospect's Nine In Non-Loop Tilt

Prospect out-hit Fenton but couldn't deliver in the important column Monday afternoon.

Coach Lee Monahan's Bisons, co-leader in the Tri-County conference, blasted the Knights 7-2 in a non-loop affair on the Fenton diamond.

Prospect collected four hits to the Bisons' three but Fenton received ten free passes from the loser's hurlers. The victors pushed over their first three runs of the game without the aid of a base hit.

Bill Kortum worked on the hill for Fenton and fanned, nine, walking three. George Pomey and Tom Polzin handled the mound chores for Prospect with Pomey absorbing the loss.

FENTON countered its first three runs on two hit batsmen, a wild pitch, two walks, and an error. The Bisons' next trio was the result of a single by Ron Moser, walk to Jack Spence, and double by Ken Spiroff with Spiroff counting on a pair of wild pitches.

The Bisons received another gift run in the third thanks to walks and wild pitches.

Prospect didn't need any hits to push over its first run in the sixth, and Chuck Aldrich's Knights added another marker in the seventh on a triple by George McRae and single by Ken Anders

Wheaton, Glenbrook Rule Interim Golf

Wheaton and Glenbrook walked off with the two team championships Monday afternoon in the Interim association's first golf meet.

The Tigers captured the varsity test with a 315 total, one stroke ahead of runnerup East Leyden. Glenbrook's 324 was 24 strokes on top of Maine West in the frosh-soph division.

Frank Wright's Prospect varsity registered a 335, twenty strokes behind the leader and nine strokes out of third place. The Knights' frosh-sophs recorded a 357, thirty-three strokes off the winner's pace in the meet at Glenbrook.

SCHULTZ OF Wheaton won the medalist honors in the varsity division with a 72 and Prospect's Jim Palmer fired a 79 for fifth.

NINE SCHOOLS competed in the frosh-soph division of the Interim meet. In addition to the schools which have been competing in regular conference play this season, Glenbard East, Maine West, and West Leyden also fielded teams for the loop affair.

Maine West competed in the varsity meet and its 364 total was good for sixth place.

Niles Frosh Rally to Top Prospect, 6-5

An aroused Niles frosh nine erupted for three runs in the last inning Monday afternoon in a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over Larry Wyllie's Prospect Knights.

The young Trojans pushed over the decisive run with two outs on a single by Eddie Bendel off Hank LaRocco.

Prospect punched across four runs in the third and one in the fourth and held a 5-3 margin going into that deciding final inning.

Dave Leekley had a pair of hits for the Knights' unit which suffered its third loss in 12 decisions this spring.

Play Opens

Forty members were present for the first day of play in the Lady of the Wayside Women's golf league. Prizes for low putts were given.

The league is looking forward to a successful, fun-packed season and is hoping the weather man will be a little kinder this year.

Soph Netmen Capture Two Loop Tests

Arlington's frosh-soph tennis squad breezed past two recent West Suburban opponents with impressive victories over LaGrange and Downers Grove.

Coach Rog Steingraber's Cardinals toppled both schools by identical 4-1 margins.

Arlington swept the three singles matches against LaGrange and lost its only decision in No. 2 doubles. Downers won No. 2 singles for its only triumph in that test.

Arlington Decisions R-B, 8-1

Gene Dahlquist hurled five-hit baseball, fanning eight and walking only two, as Arlington's varsity baseball team blasted Riverside-Brookfield, 8-1.

Dahlquist was in complete command as the R-B nine could counter its only run in the sixth inning on back-to-back doubles by Ron Cappitella and Ed Hrkel.

Arlington's ninth victory of the West Suburban campaign was featured by a 12-hit attack, including a grand slam homer by shortstop John Lind.

LIND RAPPED out three hits for Bob Baker's Cards and sent Jim Blake, Gary Erwin, and Bill McMillan home with his sacks-loaded smash in the fifth inning.

Dahlquist also collected three safeties and Blake and McMillan registered a pair as Arlington scored its second victory of the season over R-B. The Cards had won a previous encounter 8-7.

Moving Up

When Early Wynn scored his 273rd victory May 20 as the Chicago White Sox whipped the New York Yankees, 5-3, it moved Wynn into a 14th place tie with "Red" Ruffing on the list of all-time major league winners. Wynn is now 32-15 lifetime against the Yankees, holding more decisions over them than any other active pitcher.

BOB POMRENKE (in front), 309 N. Stratford, Arlington Heights, teamed up with Howie LaBrant of Whiting, Ind., for a first place finish in the Open Division of the third annual River Marathon last weekend. One hundred and fifty-four canoes competed in the test.

Arlington Man on Winning Canoe Team in Open Class

The stillness and serenity of the No. Des Plaines River was broken last Sunday by 154 canoes competing in the third annual River Marathon sponsored by Indian Boundary District Boy Scouts of America.

The course begins in Libertyville and winds through some of the area's most virgin territory for 20 miles ending at Dam No. 2 just south of Euclid ave. bridge.

Winners of the Open Division were Bob Pomrenke, 309 N. Stratford, Arlington Heights, and Howie LaBrant of Whiting, Ind. They have paddled as a team for 25 years and won the 500 mile Paul Bunyan Marathon down the Mississippi in 1941. Their time of three hours, five minutes beat the second place winners by two minutes.

DAVE ROBERTSON of the second place team was the winner of last year's race and is the swimming coach at New Trier high school. He holds a Canadian Professional canoe guide license.

Each year has brought more competition into the Open Class and each year the running time has been shortened.

In addition to Pomrenke and LaBrant, other division winners were Landman and Hirshinon (Explorer); McElroy and Frances (Scouts over 18); Sylvia Wright and Anne Johnson of Park Ridge (Girl Scouts); and Morse and Krusack (Boy Scouts).

The credit for this event goes to Ralph Frese of Chicago. Through his efforts the annual race has grown from 38 entries to 154 in three years.

Next year's race will again be held on the Sunday in May preceding Memorial weekend.

Near Tragedy

This is the time of the year when many a dog owner forgets himself and starts out on the weekend with a long list of things that he has to do. It includes everything from working in the yard to doing some shopping and this last venture usually takes the form of piling everyone into the car, including the family hound — "let's take Slugger, the fresh air will do him good" — is what someone will chime in with at the last minute.

Arriving at the stores, the family gets out of the car and says goodbye to "Slugger," telling him they will be back soon. Off everybody goes forgetting to check one important detail. Did they leave the car windows open a little so that some fresh air can circulate inside the car. Let's hope so, otherwise "Slugger" can become a very dead dog.

This time of year the sun can pull some rather fast tricks and what appears to be a rather cool spring day can turn quickly into a hot one and the inside of a car can become a furnace.

This past weekend, for example, was a good one. On Saturday the weather was rather wet and then came Sunday with the sun which appeared to be rather normal. It proved to be almost the end of the road for a Boxer dog which one individual had locked in a car with the windows closed tight. Your editor was at an affair where, if some quick work by a veterinarian, who was attending only as a spectator, had not taken place in giving the dog proper first aid, there would have been a dead Boxer. As the veterinarian put it — "that dog's tongue and gums were such a dark blue from lack of oxygen, I've never seen a dog so close to being dead. He missed it by just a whisker."

Perhaps this will help those who read it to remember that "Slugger" breathes air just as we do and he sure needs plenty of it.

Modern Miracle

From a talk at a recent forum on dog nutrition, Hovey M. Burgess, director of research for Gaines, stated that dog foods represent a unique conception as far as dog food manufacturers are concerned. There is nothing approximating this in human nutrition because the dog food which is prepared is done so with the idea that it will be the only diet the dog will receive and that nothing else is required.

When you stop to think of it, dog food manufacturers have come a long way from the "scraps off the table" days. Now a dog can have just about any type of food that his owner wishes to feed and the diet can be complete with variations as to taste and content. Many a dog today is a healthy example of what commercial dog food can do and even at that manufacturers are still striving for better combinations which will give health and long life to our family hounds.

Top Dog

At the North Shore Dog Training clubs 20th annual obedience trial held in Highland Park last weekend, Larry Sebastian of Arlington Heights, with his black Labrador "Zorro," did quite well. So well, in fact, that they came home with first place in the Novice B class with a score of 198½ out of a possible 200.

When you condider the number of dogs that compete in these events, it is no small accomplishment to be able to walk off with one of the first place trophies.

Barks & Bays

With the subject of final exams at school coming up, it is of interest to note that the old Indo-European name for dog, "kun," came into English as hound, into Latin as canis and back to English as canine.

Prospect Nine Tops Warriors

Prospect erupted for five runs in the fourth inning and coasted home with an impressive 8-3 victory over Willowbrook's Warriors.

Coach Chuck Aldrich's Knights tallied single runs in the first and second frames but only held a 2-1 margin going into the fourth.

Tom Polzin bested Willowbrook's Dick Castner on the mound with Prospect backing its hurler with a nine-hit attack. Fred Lussow, Fred Empkie, and Polzin contributed two each to the winner's offense.

The Knights tallied their first run of the game in the first on two walks, a fielder's choice, sacrifice, and single. A single and error figured in the second inning counter. Add 6 Pt.

Bailey Falls In 2nd Round

Steve Bailey was the only Prospect varsity tennis player to get past the first round Tuesday afternoon in the opening stages of the Interim association net meet.

Bailey won his first test in No. 3 singles for Rick Farris' Knights but bowed out of further competition with a defeat in the second round. (Sp

Rathmanns to Race In 100 Mile Test

The cream of the national auto racing crop has been assured for the 11th annual 100 mile national championship speedway big car Rex Mays Classic on the one mile paved track at the Wisconsin state fair park has been assured for Sunday, June 5.

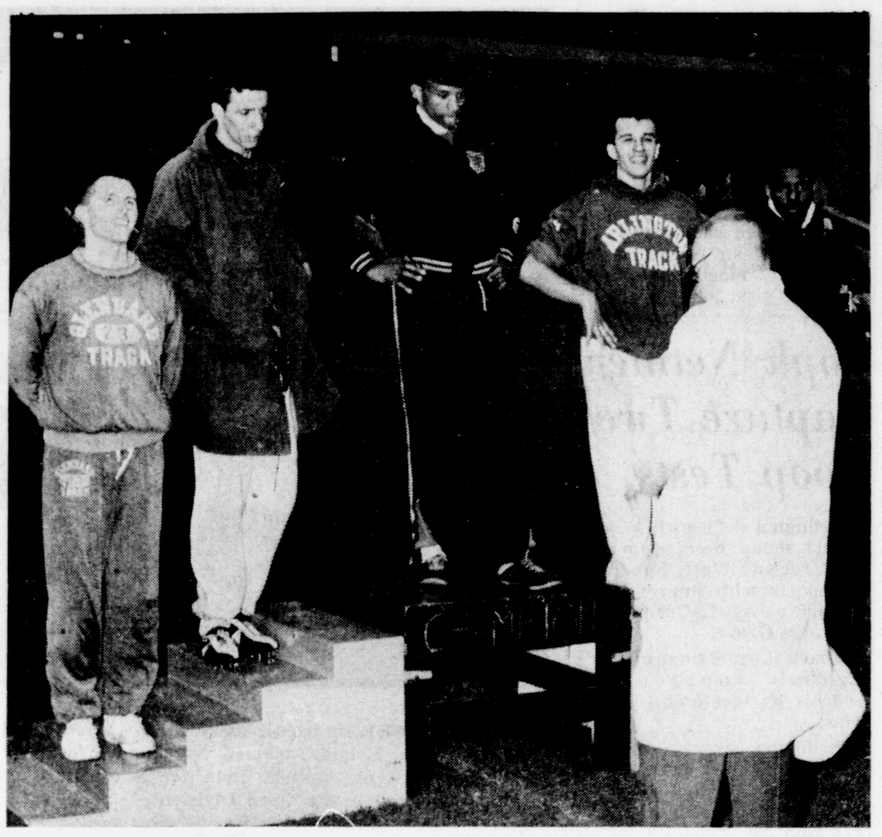
Race director Tom Marchase received 11 new entries, pushing the total to 3 who will compete for starting positions here in the 20 mile added event and 100 mile main race.

Topflight new entries are Dick and Jim Rathmann of Roselle, Ill., and Miami, Fla. Dick will probably drive the same new Jim Robbins Special he handled in the 500 mile race. Jim will be in a brand new car entered by Texas millionaires Ken Rich and Paul Lacy.

A brand new car entered by Kelso Auto Dynamics to be driven here by Jack Turner, Seattle, Wash. is the most revolutionary in design seen this year. Weighing only 1,500 pounds, the car has been called by many auto racing experts as being far ahead in design and engineering of other cars.

The car that won the 1957 and 1958 500 mile races will be driven here by Richard "Red" Amick, Muncie, Ind. It was purchased from George Salih last winter by west coast industrialist Leonard Fass, Sr. and will be known as the King-O-Lawn Special.

Marchese feels he'll have close to 50 entries by deadline time. Warmups on race day will start at 12 noon, time trials at 12:30 p.m. The 20 mile added event gets under way at 2:30 p.m. (central daylight saving time). Tickets at Wisconsin Auto Racing, Inc., 1200 S. First st., Milwaukee 4, Wis.



THE CLASS OF the 880 field in the 1960 Illinois Interscholastic track and field meet wait to receive their medals from Bert Dancey, one of the custodians of awards. Frost Captures Speedway Event

Before another large crowd of some 2,500 enthusiastic fans, little Jack Frost, of Zion captured the 25 lap feature for modified stocks at the Waukegan Speedway fast Saturday.

Frost won the thriller after taking the lead on sixth lap from Gordon Gorman of Libertyville, and then refusing to give it up. He fought two hot competitors throughout the distance, the first being ace Racine driver, "Uncle" Milt Curcio who provided the thrills during the eighth to the eightteenth lap.

Curcio gained the lead on the 12th and 13th, but lost it again a lap later when Frost poured the coals to his machine and ended the neck and neck battle.

BAY DARNELL, Deerfield, making his first appearance of the season, roared from behind to take over the second spot from Curcio on the 19th and then tried his challenge of the lead position, but by the time the checkered dropped, Frost managed a car length's win over Darnell as he took the win with an average speed of 49.15 m.p.h.

The first six places in the event were run close with Darnell taking second, Greg Krieger of Milwaukee beating out Curcio at the line for the third place, and last Sunday's winner, Erik Johnson, Highland Park, placing fifth followed by Eddie Stillman, Milwaukee, current champion for the year and second place finisher last week.

DICK RENEHAN, Round Lake pilot who was spun out of a semi feature win last week, came back to show fans he could take the win if he isn't tapped out of the way by a fellow driver. Renehan averaged 47.35 m.p.h. to win over Art Reeves of Libertyville and Roger Otto of Burlington.

Jim Nottingham, Waukegan won the amateur event of the evening when he averaged a cool 40 m.p.h. in taking the accident marred event which again was stopped by the red flag. Jim Severo rolled over several times when he miscalculated the south turn. A small fire developed while the car was on its side, but was quickly extinguished. Nottingham was not hurt.

The crowd contributed towards another $1,300 purse which was paid to drivers.

The third program of modified stock car racing at the Waukegan Speedway is set to roll next Sunday night, May 29, on the big Memorial Day weekend. Action should be swift as the powerful cars battle for position on the fast trials get under way at 7:15, races at 8:30. Track manager Mike Kaishian has promised fans another action packed Amateur event. The speedway is located on West Washington St. between the Green Bay rd and the Skokie hwy.

Kruse's Schlitz Holds Top Slot In Monday Golf

Monday, May 16, produced another rain-soaked evening of wild golf in the Mt. Prospect Monday night twilight golf league. Kruse's Schlitz team managed to stay in first place by winning five points from The Toy Shop. Busse Motor Sales stayed in second place, winning five points from the Mt. Prospect State Bank. Moler's Barber Shop won five from Van Driel's Drugs and held or to third place so the position of the first three leaders remained unchanged.

Very few matches were completed because the rains really came and the committee decided that all matches would be on an 8-point basis. This eliminated the point for low individual net and low team net inasmuch as it would be difficult to figure all the scores on a 9-hole basis.

Best showing of the evening was made by the Pickett Paint team which won six out of a possible eight points. The sad part of the situation was the fact that Pickett Paint only advanced from seventh to sixth place despite all their good efforts. The biggest change in the standings was Winkelmann's Shell Service team which won six points and moved from the twelfth spot up to the eighth position.

DESPITE THE inclement weather, the Monday nighters are getting better. Birdies were scored by Stan Deming on number 3, Carl Dilsaver on number 1, Tom Cox on number 16, Dick Fox on number 18 (give that man Fox an orchid, because he's an alternate), Chuck Sobol on number 16, Mike Bergo on number 3, and Ray Krewson managed birdies on both the 7th and 8th holes.

Your correspondent got the secretary in trouble by remarking that on the May 2nd outing no birdies could be publicized because the secretary forgot to bring the cards home. Pressure must have been brought to bear because the secretary has now informed us that on Monday night, May 2nd - one player scored four birdes for his nine-hold round. This player is Mike Bergo and nobody on the Monday night group is going to argue that Mike is one of the real "hot-shots" in this group.

Opening LL Tilts Postponed

The opening games for the Arlington Heights Little League were rained out last Saturday.

The home team managers will have to reschedule the games as soon as weather permits. Teams located on the southside of the village are to contact Paul Splittorff, Cl 5-6467 and teams located north of the North Western tracks are to contact Frank DeRosa, CL 5-3977.

The Varsity league is still short one team manager. In order for the Falcons to play ball this season we must have a volunteer as soon as possible. This league plays boys aged 13, 14 and 15.

It is not necessary for a manager to have a son playing in the league to qualify as a manager or coach. Any man interested in baseball and the training of boys is asked to phone Tom Hamilton Cl 5-9182.

Frosh-Soph Net Finale Held Today

Two Prospect high school singles players and two doubles teams advanced into the semi-finals of the Interim association frosh-soph tennis tournament with victories Monday afternoon in the meet preliminaries.

Tom Gewecke, playing in No. 1 singles, and Paul Shaw, competing in No. 2 singles, both won their first two rounds and the doubles combos of Scott Campbell and Newell Krogmann and Gordon Hunt and Jerry Prahl also advanced into the semis.

Glenbrook and Wheaton held the early team lead with the finals slated for today (Thursday).

VFW Golf

Weather was no factor to Stu Sage who again took low gross for the evening with 37 (in the sunshine), topping last Monday's 38 (in the rain) in the VFW golf league.

Ray Herr took low net with 49-17-32.

Spring Sports Banquet Honors Dons' Athletes

by DAVE SCHLAVER

The cafeteria of Notre Dame high school for Boys was the scene of the spring sports banquet Monday night. Athletes participating in baseball, golf, and track were honored.

Seven games were called on the varsity baseball schedule because of rain or weather conditions. In the games played the Dons were able to accumulate a 10-5-1 record, including a 4-2 league standing. Two league games remain to be played, along with three non-conference tilts.

In the district tournament the Dons were able to down Niles 1-0 on a no-hit game by Bob Calamari. The following day they lost 14-3 to Evanston.

THUS FAR Notre Dame has scored an average of seven runs per game to their opponents three. As a team they are batting .328 and have led the Chicago Suburban area for several weeks.

The most valuable player as chosen by the team was Calamari. He was their leading pitcher with a record of 4-2 and he struck out 74 in 54 1/3 innings, walking 21 and giving up 83 hits.

Dave Brodnan of Arlington Heights had a 2-0 record, pitching 14 1/3 innings, striking out 19, walking 10 and giving up seven hits.

Those receiving varsity letters from this area were Brodnan and Larry Pakyz, Arlington, John Neirinckx, Prospect Heights, and Bob Starshak, Mt. Prospect, trainer. Tom Neirinckx, Prospect Heights, received a JV letter.

The Sophomore team had a short season, being able to play only nine games while eleven were called. They have a record of 5-4. Gerry Broderick, Rolling Meadows, and Jim Tiedge, Palatine both received sophomore letters.

THE VARSITY golf squad picked up an 8-2 record, with one of its losses at the hands of the former state champions, Joliet Catholic. Mike Miske received the most valuable player award and Frank Battle the most improved. The sophomore squad has a record of 6-1. Gary Weber, Mt. Prospect, received a sophomore letter.

Notre Dame's varsity track and field team finished with five firsts and one second. Members of the team from Arlington Heights receiving letters were Pat Bradley and Bob Williams. Miles Patterson, Palatine, received a varsity letter and Randy Wilkin, Mt. Prospect, a JV letter. Bob Hoover was chosen most valuable trackman while Don Waddell received the most improved award. The team is participating in the Catholic Suburban conference meet Saturday.

Dan Murray and Jim Starshak, both of Mt. Prospect, were letter winners on the sophomore squad which built up a 7-0 record.

The athletes were congratulated by Jim Moran, "The Courtesy Man" who was master of ceremonies. Speakers were Dizzy Trout, of the Chicago White Sox, and Jesse Owens, former Olympic track star and now with the Illinois Youth Commission. Owens reminded the athletes that the letters and trophies they get cannot last as long as what they learn from competitive sports.

Lindstrom To Speak At Fenton

Fred Lindstrom, all time baseball great, will be the principal speaker at the Bensenville Lions 20th Annual Athletic Award Banquet, Fenton high school May 31. Beginning at 7 p.m.

In addition to the monogram awards, Fenton Baseball Coach James Monahan will present the Sportsmanship Trophy to, as yet unnamed, the Fenton athlete selection.

Special awards will be presented by Football Coach Robert Appelby to the outstanding Fenton football lineman and the outstanding back.

A cheer-leader's presentation will be made by the Fenton cheerleading sponsor Virginia Giacherio.

For the first time a new award created by the Fenton "F" Club will recognize outstanding Fenton athletes.

Arlington Nine Rocks LaGrange In Loop Action

Pounding out 12 hits, including three each by Gene Dahlquist and Bill McMillan, Arlington's varsity baseball team rolled to its tenth straight West Suburban victory of the season Monday afternoon with a crucial 12-6 conquest of LaGrange.

Bob Baker's Cards scored two runs in the first inning and were never headed as they blasted the host Lions. Arlington came back with five in the third, two in the fourth, and three in the seventh.

Southpaw Fritz Peterson worked for the Cardinals and registered his fifth mound triumph of the season. Peterson fanned eight but had difficulty with his control, walking six Lions.

A WALK, double, and single brought in a pair in the first for Arlington and a two-run triple by George Bork was the big blow in the five-run third. McMillan and John Lind contributed a double and triple respectively in the two run fourth, and two hits, an error, and walk figured in the seventh inning uprising.

Peterson experienced serious trouble in only one frame, the fourth, when he lost his control and walked three LaGrange hitters in succession. Two singles brought in the four runs.

Dahlquist's three safeties boosted his season mark to .349 and McMillan pushed his average to .326. Shortstop Lind continued his impressive hitting, collecting a triple and raising his season standard to .435 for 46 at bats. Lind also led the club in runs batted in prior to Tuesday's contest with the Lions with 20.

CHUCK PHELAN, Arlington high senior, registered a second place against a crack field in the Illinois Interscholastic 880 yard run last Saturday in the University of Illinois' Memorial Stadium. Phelan, who has been on the prep honor roll all season in his specialty, was a heat winner in the state finals and his time was good for second behind Jimmy Simmons of Chicago Phillips.

Rain Halts Loop Contest

Palatine and Dundee battled the elements for five innings before calling it quits Friday afternoon at Palatine. Neither team had scored, in the North Suburban encounter.

The Pirate nine has now been raised out of its last four games.

Youngsters Enter Company Contest

This Saturday, youngsters in the area will have the opportunity to win a pair of free box seat tickets to any Cubs or White Sox ball game at Benj. Allen & Co's Return-A-Ball contest.

The contest will be held at 10 a.m. on Saturday, May 28, at the Flagg's store, Village Green shopping center, 678 N. Northwest highway, Park Ridge, and at the Benj. Allen & Co. store, Arlington Market shopping center, Dryden and Foundry road, Arlington Heights.

"All boys up to 12 years of age, accompanied by an adult, will be eligible," announced D. K. Hale, manager of the stores. "There will be two contests, one for boys weighing 65 pounds and under and one for boys weighing 66 pounds and over."

"GIRLS ARE welcome to enter, too. We'd love to see the young ladies give the boys a bit of competition," Hale added.

AREA YOUNGSTERS will have the opportunity to win a pair of tickets to any Cub or white Sox baseball game this Saturday when Benj. Allen & co. sponsors its Return-A-Ball contest at the company store, Arlington Market shopping center, Arlington Heights. Here two boys practice their aim in advance.

First and second prizes will be awarded in each weight group. First prize will be two box seat tickets to any Cubs or White Sox home game this season. Second prize will be a little League-type batter's helmet.

Contestants will throw an official-size ball at the Return-A-Ball screen from a distance of 15 feet. Winners will be determined by the distance of the ball's rebound from the screen.

"We'd like to see every youngster in the area under 12 years old come out with his parents and try to win one of these terrific prizes," Hale said.

WEIGHING - IN ceremonies will begin promptly at 10 a.m.," Hale added, "and our two weight divisions should give every youngster a chance at the prizes.

"While the youngsters are trying their skill at the Return-A-Ball contest, the parents wil enjoy the displays and demonstrations which are part of the Outdoor Living Show now going on at all of our stores." (BB

Fairchild Introduces Eight Sound Camera

General Camera co., a 25-year-old Chicago firm, has been selected by the Fairchild Camera and Instrument corporation of New York City as the sole franchised sales agency through which the revolutionary new Fairchild Cinephonic Eight Sound home movie camera can be obtained in Chicago and a wide surrounding area.

The Cinephonic Eight, complete with its own microphone, sound monitoring head set and lip-synchronized films, is the world's first sound camera for the amateur movie - maker.

Headed by its creative president - founder Harry J. Graw, General Camera has three outlets in Chicago, and maintains technical salesmen covering northern Illinois, parts of Indiana, and several other areas in central Illinois.

SERVING THE amateur, semi - professional and industrial market, the firm has expanded from its first small store on West Devon to its present headquarters at 6422 N. Western ave., with two other outlets at 4020 N. Cicero ave., and on the main floor of the Merchandise Mart.

Graw attributes General Camera's success to the fact that all his salesmen, "qualified and technically trained," offer the necessary extra technical service to the consumer.

STATED GRAW: "In a somewhat technical field, the public requires extra technical attention. Cameras have actually become simpler to operate, but since the advent of such innovations as the electric eye movie camera and the automatic exposure meter, the need for initial instruction is greater."

Graw himself has often cooperated with camera manufacturers for the betterment of camera equipment, and was responsible for the addition of a telephoto and wide angle lens to the Argus C-3 camera. (BB

"TALKIES" HAVE become a reality for amateur movie-makers! The new Fairchild Cinephonic 8mm sound movie camera and its companion projector will be introduced soon. The Fairchild Cinephonic is the world's first and only 8mm home movie camera that can make sound movies just like Hollywood. The model is shown here wearing the microphone attachment which can pick up sounds up to nine feet away enabling an operator to monitor sound as it is recorded.

Stolzman's Suggestion Nets $100

Arthur Stolzman, 623 S. Albert, Mt. Prospect, an accountant with Walgreen drug stores' Chicago headquarters at 4300 Peterson, was recently honored by his firm with a $100 suggestion award.

He had submitted his successful suggestion idea to his company's Suggestion Award committee, which encourages employees to send in ideas for improving the firm's operations.

Stolzman, who is with his firm's Agency Drug Store division, has over 18 years service with his company. His current $100 idea marks the 14th time he has earned a suggestion award. (BB

Allstate Sets New Precedent

The Allstate Insurance companies' precedent - shattering automobile insurance plan, guaranteeing Illinois and Ohio motorists that their liability protection cannot be cancelled because of accidents, went into effect May 11.

Also becoming effective in Illinois on all new and renewal policies written on or after May 11 is Allstate's distinctively designed Good Driver Discount plan.

The Good Driver Dscount plan is the first in Illinois to reward accident-free policyholders with premium discounts. The discount plan and the non-cancellation and guaranteed renewable program will work in combination to guarantee liability insurance at the fairest cost for each insured, Allstate explained.

THE ALLSTATE non-cancellation and renewal guarantee, unique in the history of auto insurance, assures that the liability coverages in force 90 days or more under Allstate's Crusader auto policy will be continued in effect through - out the remaining term and for a further period of from one to five years, depending on the length of time with Allstate.

Present plans contemplate that after this period the renewal of such policies will be for an additional five years. New auto liability insurance policyholders will receive their policy guarantee after their insurance has been in force 90 days. (BB

E. F. Wagner Named Veep By Company

EVERETT F. WAGNER

Everett F. Wagner, Arlington Heights, has been named vice-president of an expanded international division of Bell & Howell company, it was announced today by Charles H. Percy, president.

Wagner has been vice-president of manufacturing for Bell & Howell's photo products division.

In his new post, Wagner will direct the international activities of Bell & Howell and its subsidiaries, including Consolidated Electrodynamics corporation of Pasadena, with these activities centralized in a single division in Chicago.

He will be responsible for exports as well as all foreign manufacturing and licensing arrangements. Bell & Howell, which now sells its products in 88 countries, plans to expand operations in world markets.

WAGNER CAME to Bell & Howell in 1944 as an electronic engineer. Subsequently he served as quality control manager, general superintendent of manufacturing and manager of the optical division. In 1957 he was elected assistant vice-president of manufacturing with responsibility for the company's optical and slide projector divisions.

He lives at 1516 Mayfair rd., Arlington Heights with his wife and two children.

Jordan At Bowling School

Albert J. Jordan, assistant manager of Rolling Meadows Bowl, 3245 Kirchoff rd., Rolling Meadows, is in Chicago attending the Brunswick Bowling Management school.

The school has been conducted for the last five years by Brunswick corporation to present the fundamentals of bowling management to owners and operators of bowling establishments.

Nearly 2,000 persons from all 50 states, Europe and Asia have graduated from the Brunswick school. Subjects ranging from accounting and insurance to maintenance of lanes and business promotion are covered at the nine-day session. (BB

A&P Sales, Profits Up For Year

For the second straight year, sales by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., Inc. exceeded the $5-billion mark during the fiscal period ended last February 27, according to the annual report being mailed to stockholders today.

Both sales and earnings were at an all-time high for any 52-week period, according to Ralph W. Burger, president and board chairman. (The fiscal 1959 figures were exceeded only by those of the previous annual report, which covered a 53-week period.)

Sales for 1959 were $5,048,574,241 as compared with the record mark of $5,094,741,391 established a year earlier, and net income was $51,996,369, compared with $53,905,170 in fiscal 1958. Earnings per share, based on 22,284,983 shares of common stock, were $2.33, compared with $2.42.

A & P'S STORE development program also was maintained at a rate comparable with that of the previous year the report disclosed. It embodied the opening of 237 new retail outlets, the modernization of another 413, and the closing of 213.

This phase of the company's orepartions, according to Burger, "was accelerated on a basis that was both steady and economically sound, consistent with population shifts, suburban expansion and the changing patterns of consumer demands."

The report showed that at the close of the fiscal year the nation's leading chain was operating 4,276 retail stores in 37 states, the District of Columbia and Canada. (BB

Elgin Micronics Breaks Ground

Elgin Micronics, a division of the Elgin National Watch company, broke ground for its new 15,000 square foot Research & Engineering Laboratory in Rolling Meadows, at noon on Friday, May 20.

Occupancy of this plant, which will have an initial staff of appromiately 45 research engineers, is plann e d for October 1, 1960.

The plant will be located in the Northwestern Industrial Park, 28 miles northwest of the Chicago loop, at Route 53 and Industrial Avenue. The laboratory has been designed so that it can be expanded. to 60,000 square feet to meet future requirements.

GEORGE W. T r a k e r, General Manager of the Micronics division, said that the laboratory is needed to meet research and engineering orders being received from the aircraft, missile and space industries. The present two plants of the Division, located at Elgin, Ill., and Chatsworth, Calif., will continue to operate at full capicity.

The Micronics division specializes in design, development, and custom production of high precision devices, chiefly involving guided missile, systems, and timing instruments for the aircraft and missile industry.

The new Research and Engineering laboratory was designed by Ralph Stoetzel, and the contractor is Joseph T. Carp, Inc., both of Chicago Ill. (BB

Bensenville Man Wins Promotion

Edward Bock, 56 North Greenlawn, Bensenville, has been appointed to the position of assistant superintendent of Chicago Chestnut St. postal station by Chicago's Postmaster Carl A. Schroeder.

Bock, who has been a member of Chicago's postal family for 23 years, started his career as a postman at the Austin postal station.

Since then he has remained in station operations and climbed steadily through the ranks to his present position. Over the years he has been assigned to five north side postal stations and for the past nine years has served in several supervisory capacities.

A NATIVE OF Chicago, Bock moved to Bensenville four years ago. He has been married for 21 years and attends St. Elixis church on W. Wood st. He and his wife, Eileen, have five children.

EDWARD BOCK

Being second - in - command of one of the busiest postal stations in Chicago is not an easy task. Because of the business district which the Chestnut Street station serves a tremendous amount of mail is received and delivered each day.

"It takes a man like Bock," Postmaster Schroeder said, "with a wide range of experience and knowledge to assist in directing postal workers so we can move today's mail today in a business like way." (BB

Trip to Nursery Can Be Education

A trip to a modern nursery or garden center can be a fascinating experience as well as an education for any family.

Here you will see all the better plants that are climate-proven for the Chicagoland area, including many plants in other parts of the world. Now is the time of the year that most plants are at their best. The evergreens have flushed a new bright green color, and the flowering shrubs are beginning to bud or bloom.

Every good nursery merchant or garden center can provide information on plant care, how to have a rose garden, how to spray and prune trees.

MOST THRILLING of all are the shrubs and trees. Practically all of those you see around homes in the suburbs, once were in a nursery. Here is a wonderful opportunity to compare the growth habits and foliage of all kinds of plants which may have a life expectancy of many hundreds or even thousands of years.

Man couldn't live on earth without trees and shrubs to produce the oxygen we breathe, although we usually think only of trees and shrubs for the shade or beauty they bring into our lives.

Poems have been written about the beauty of trees and flowers, but seeing them all together in your nursery or garden center is better than any poem. So why not treat your family this week end to a trip to your nursery? It will cost you nothing and you may even find a beautiful tree or shrub that strikes your family's fancy and will bring pleasure to all, day after day, for many years to come right on your own property. (BB

Green Stamp Book Breaks All Marks

Herbert R. Newman, vice president for the Sperry and Hutchinson company, this week announced distribution here of the S & H Green stamp catalog, reported to be the largest single edition in business history.

The initial printing order is for 30 million copies. The catalog will be distributed in this area to customers of National Tea company, Wieboldts Department stores and associate accounts issuing Green Stamps.

The catalog shows more than 1,000 items on 100 pages, a record number. Newman said almost half the merchandise shown in the catalog is new to the line.

ROOM SETTINGS from five American homes are featured. Noted designer Dorothy Draper comments on these rooms and also indicates her selections of home furnishings.

Newman pointed to the following graphic statistics regarding the record - breaking catalog: 15,000,000 pounds of paper were used; stacked one on top of the other the catalogs would stand more than 200 times higher than the Empire State building. (BB

Mt. Prospect Firm Gets Franchise

Novak & Parker, 133 W. Prospect ave., Mt. Prospect, has been awarded a dealer franchise by Evinrude Motors, Milwaukee, Wis.

The franchise, announced today by Bob Novak, assures outboard boating enthusiasts in this area of factory authorized service for their motors.

"With boating one of the most popular outdoor recreations in the country," Novak said, "we are especially happy to be chosen as the Evinrude dealer in this area. The quality and dependability of Evinrude motors are well known. Since 1909, when Ole Evinrude produced the first practical mass produced outboard motor, this company has been respected in the industry."

This year's line, according to Novak, incorporates a model for every type of power requirement and offers speed, power, versatility and dependability. There are Evinrude motors ranging from three to 75 horsepower.

Top features include thermostatic cooling system control and super super-silencing in all models. (BB

Harvester Promotes Oldaker

International Harvester company has announced the appointment of Daryl B. Oldaker, as Mt. Prospect senior tax attorney in the company's law department. The announcement was made by D. G. Moyer, vice president and general counsel.

Oldaker was born in Kalona Iowa, and attended elementary schools there. He was graduated from the University of Iowa with a bachelor of arts degree in 1931 and a law degree in 1933.

Following his graduation from that University, Oldaker practiced law in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for two years before joining the Harvester organization in 1935 as a collector in the company's credit and collection department.

IN 1939 he was transferred to Chicago where he became an attorney in the company's law department, specializing in sales and credit and collection matters. During the period of World War II he was assigned to specialized work having to do with termination of contracts between the United States Government and the Harvester company.

In 1944 Oldaker became engaged in labor law matters and, in 1950, was appointed senior labor attorney for the Harvester company.

He resides at 405 Can-Dota in Mount Prospect with his wife and two children, Jane and William. (B

New Muffler Shop Opens in Mt. Prospect

A new idea in automobile maintenance will make its appearance in Mt. Prospect this Friday, May 27, when the Midas Muffler Shop opens its doors.

"It's a new approach," said Sid Feldman, owner of the new shop in Mt. Prospect, "designed to concentrate on just one part of the car, the exhaust system, with necessary repairs made on the spot in a spic and span atmosphere so attractive to the ladies."

A driver can have his car inspected immediately at no cost, then have the repairs made if they are necessary in about 15 minutes with no charge for labor, according to owner Feldman.

MR. FELDMAN explains that mufflers are usually the first of new car equipment to fail. They are exposed to acids, salts, and corrosive elements from within and without. Mounted on the underside of cars, they are in a position of open exposure to all elements.

Moisture condenses in the muffler when the engine is operating, he continued, and that moisture remains to rust the muffler when the engine is turned off.

Said Mr. Feldman: "Fifteen million cars and trucks — one of every four in operation today — need muffler replacements." (BB

Perfection Coaxes Curl From Hair

"The hair spray that adds hair-care to control. . ."

Such is the double-header description of Walgreen's new Perfection Hair Styling Spray.

Perfection is incomparable as a hair spray because it has none of the usual spray problems. No spray flaking, never coats or films, never dries scalp or hair.

Perfection is incomparable for easier setting and styling because it coaxes the slightest natural wave or curl out of hiding, gentles the stubbornness that makes setting difficult.

Walgreen Agency drug store spokesmen say purse-size Perfection is coming into great demand, as are other purse-size glamor aids.

Roselle Man Is Appointed Buying Head

Michael L. Redmond, Roselle, has been appointed purchasing director of Louis A. Weiss Memorial hospital, 4646 N. Marine dr., Chicago. The announcement was made recently by Mortimer W. Zimmerman, executive director of Weiss hospital.

Hints To Home Owners

James Fizzell

Assistant Farm Advisor

It takes care and attention to keep trees and shrubs healthy and growing through the summer.

Water is probably more important than any single factor in keeping plants growing in hot weather. Large plants need lots of water. Trees or shrubs planted this year will particularly need watering throughout the season.

The soil should be soaked at least a foot deep. This can be done by laying a hose at the base of the plant and letting it run slowly for several hours. Root soakers can be used to place the water directly in the soil, soaking the plant without run-off. Watering once every 10 days should give the plants plenty of water.

ROOT SOAKERS can also be used to advantage on established trees and shrubs. These plants will not need watering as often, but a good soaking is advisable whenever a week of hot weather occurs without rain. If sufficient rain falls to soak the soil, watering may be advisable anyway.

Weeds often interfere with the natural development of trees and shrubs, by competing for moisture and nutrients. Weeds should be pulled out or chopped out with a hoe. Be careful not to dig too deeply into the soil around the plants as this may injure the small feeder roots which are quite near the surface even under large trees.

Insects will cause a lot of damage to ornamental plants this year. Red spider mites will be particularly damaging to evergreens. Washing down evergreens with a strong jet of water once a week, and spraying with a miticide, such as aramite, will help prevent this damage.

BAGWORMS damage deciduous as well as evergreen plants. Lead arsenate or malathion will control them.

Aphids are particularly destructive on deciduous plants and are quite annoying due to a sticky material, secreted while they feed, which seen, covers cars or anything else parked under trees for any length of time. Aphids can be controlled by spraying with lindane.

Good control of insects demands persistent treatment with the correct material.

Storyland: Dream Come To Life

A child's dream come to life is Storyland, the most complete and unusual operation of its kind to be found in the Chicagoland area.

Located on Higgins rd. (Route 72), just past O'Hare field, Storyland is the creation of George Mac Ilvane and two former ice skating stars, Shirley Taylor and Durrell Everding.

Completely animated and enchanting in colorful compactness, Storyland is open to children of all ages each and every day from 11 a.m. until darkness falls.

ONE LOW admission price for everyone, child or adult, is the only charge made. The price of admission includes riding at no additional cost on any and all of the more than a dozen rides within the confines of Storyland.

In addition there are animated displays, operated at the push of a button, which include a giant Moby Dick whale, a huge ICBM 'Rocket' which 'blasts off' at the touch of a button, replicas of Old Faithful and Mount Vesuvious, both of which erupt, as well as an enormous waterfall.

Dozens of rides and amimated devices delight the youngsters and adults alike. Airplanes which zoom through the air with real propellers, a sled ride on a frozen ice track, and a swan carriage ride are among the Storyland attractions guaranteed to charm.

Special Sailing Cruise

A special Great Lakes cruise sailing from Chicago over the long Decoration Day Week - end has been scheduled for the cruise ship S. S. North American, according to officials of the Georgian Bay Line.

This cruise, which will be of three days and four nights duration, has been planned for passengers to visit some of the most interesting parts of the Great Lakes area right at the time when the spring flowers and foliage are bursting into bloom.

Leaving Chicago Friday evening, May 27, the ship will cruise northbound on Lake Michigan. Saturday morning it will stop for two and one-half hours at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., where passengers will have shore leave for sightseeing in this area that is called "the heart of cherryland."

After an afternoon sail through Green Bay, the ship will drop anchor at Escanaba, Mich. Saturday evening where passengers will again have two hours ashore for sightseeing and shopping.

Sunday morning the ship will stop at Mackinac Island for a four and one-half hour visit to allow the passengers to visit the many scenic and historic points of interest at this world-famous island.

She was a member of Linguapolitan, the confraternity of Christian doctrine, Athletic association and the Elementary Education club.

Her class activities included the All-College hockey and volleyball teams, Orphan party and Living Rosary.

Now Is Time To Kill New Garden Pests

Week-end gardeners should become backyard sleuths during the next few weeks to track down young insect criminals before they become hardened.

The criminals in point are newly hatched scale insects in the crawling stage, almost invisible to the naked eye. Borrow a trick from the movie gumshoes and use a good hand lens to spot them in this soft, vulnerable stage. Soon they will acquire protective armoring that enables them to chortle at chemical efforts to destroy them.

Most of the hard-shelled kind, including the common oyster shell scale and the euonymus scale, hatch in late May or early June. Control measures should be taken as soon as the hatch is completed about the middle of June. Tree men expect bumper crops of scale insects in areas where late winter didoes, such as torrential rains, high winds and unseasonably cold weather, prevented application of dormant oil sprays to destroy overwintering stages.

There are a variety of good spray chemicals that kill on contact to curb the threat of nature's developing panzer divisions. Malathion, one of the most popular, will also control mites, aphids and other tree pests. Scale woes aren't all of the armored variety. Most unarmored kinds, including oak lecanium and European elm, hatch in late July and early June. Mid-July spraying is recommended.

Deciduous trees that are likely hosts include elm, apple, ash, lilac and forsythia. Evergreens include juniper, pine, spruce and arborvitae.

BRENDA RUDOLPH

Miss Brenda Rudolph, sophomore speech and drama major, was named "Miss Valparaiso" university last week in the annual local contest. She will compete in the "Miss Indiana" pageant at Michigan City, Ind., later this summer.

Brenda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rudolph, 421 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights.

At Iowa State

John Torrens, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Torrens, 703 IOka st., Mount Prospect, wll be among the Iowa State forestry students will move to northern Minnesota for a summer of outdoor study June 6. They will establish camp for eight weeks in some former CCC buildings in the forest near Wirt, Minn.

Approximately 43 undergraduates are scheduled to participate in the activities. One summer camp is required of all Iowa State Forestry students, and it usually is taken between the freshman and sophomore years. Instruction covers mapping, timber cruising and estimating, utilization of forest products and forest operations. Trips to paper mills, sawmills and similar manufacturing plants are on the schedule, as well as talks and demonstrations by men directing state, federal and commercial forest operations.

Honor Students At Indiana U.

Seven area students were honored recently at Indiana university's annual Founders' day ceremonies in Bloomington, marking the Hoosier state university's 140th birthday.

Some 2,255 students whose grades won them selection for the annual Deans' lists and membership in scholastic honorary societies, were cited by President Herman B. Wells. At a special convocation, attended by honor scholars and their parents, Wells announced that the University had received some $10.3 million in the past year in gifts, bequests and research grants to support the university's basic research.

THOSE FROM this area who were honored are the following: Judith Ann Clabaugh, 510 S. Beverly lane, and Judith Rae Schmoyer, 445 S. Local Violinist Selected As Soloist at Graduation

Alec Catherwood, son of Mrs. Olive Catherwood, 933 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, achieved one of the highest honors to be awarded at the American Conservatory of Music, Chicago, this season. He was selected to appear as soloist at the annual Commencement concert and excercises, June 14, to be held in Orchestra Hall, the home of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The program is given by artist-students supported by the American Conservatory Symphony orchestra. The soloists are chosen in contests presided over by prominent Chicago musicians, not connected with the Conservatory.

Catherwood will play the first movement of the Concerto in E minor for violin and orchestra by Mendelssohn at the commencement concert. He was heard earlier this year in the Saint-Saens Concerto in B minor, as a result of winning a contest sponsored by Sigma Alpha Iota, Mu Phi Epsilon, and Phi Beta sororities. During the month of May he participated in a series of four programs over television station WTTW, Channel 11, given by the Conservatory Chamber Music class under direction of Miss Stella Roberts. He has also appeared with the Town and Country chorus in Arlington Heights, under direction of Mrs. Marguerite Westfahl, and was the recipient of a scholarship awarded by the Arlington Heights Women's club.

Sidney Miller, a leading member of the Conservatory violin faculty and teacher of Alec, is quoted as follows: "Alec is a most talented and ambitious student and has developed into an excellent violinist. I predict a brilliant future for him in the field of music".

Catherwood enrolled at the Conservatory in September, 1957, after graduating from Arlington high school and is currently pursuing the course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Music.

Receives Cap At Marycrest

Thirty first-year students in the department of dental hygiene of The State University of Iowa college of dentistry received caps recently, signifying successful completion of their pre-clinical work. Among them was Norma Beisler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Beisler, 125 Waterman, Arlington Heights.

Students were capped by members of the second-year class following a dinner held in the River room of the University's Iowa Memorial Union. Helen M. Newell, coordinator of the department of dental hygiene, presided at the capping ceremony, before presenting the students to the guests representing the faculty of the college of dentistry.

GASSING AN R5D AIRCRAFT on the line at the Naval Air station at Glenview, is John J. Roth, AA, USNR-R, left, of 2309 Eastman st., Rolling Meadows. The other Navy man is J. E. Lucas of Chicago. Both are currently serving on two weeks of active duty with Fleet Tactical Support squadron 724.

Roth devotes one weekend each month to Naval Air Reserve training. Once each year his squadron operates for a 2-week period, usually at a location remote from its home base. This year, however, the unit is performing logistic support flights and conducting flight, ground and in-service training for its personnel at the Glenview air base.

Aboard USS Furse

Ronald E. Prill, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Prill of 15 W. Third ave., Bensenville departed Charleston, S. C., May 18, aboard the radar picket destroyer USS Furse for a tour of duty with the U. S. Sixth Fleet in the Western Pacific.

Besides participating in various operational exercises, the Furse and her crew will visit Spain, France, Italy and Greece.

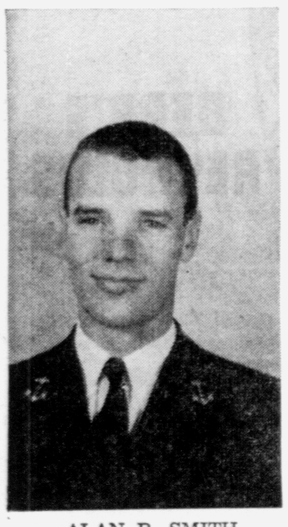
Promoted by Navy

Charles M. Meeker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted C. Meeker of 107 N. Parkway, Prospect Heights, was promoted to navy lieutenant (junior grade) May 1, while serving as petroleum cargo officer and damage control assistant aboard the Pacific Fleet Oiler USS Manatee.

Before entering the navy in 1958, he graduated from Kalamazoo college in Michigan.

Campus Capers

Wisconsin U. Honors Smith



ALAN B. SMITH

A Mt. Prospect youth was among those honored at the University of Wisconsin's annual President's Review May 13 in Madison.

Alan B. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Smith, 14 N. Elm St., and a midshipman in the Navy ROTC unit at the university, was awarded the Cook County chapter, Reserve Officer's Association Bronze Medal of Merit for exemplary service to the Navy ROTC unit. Midshipman Smith is currently the Regimental Commander of the Navy ROTC unit and holds the rank of Midshipman-Captain.

Midshipman Smith graduated from Green Bay, Wis., East high school in 1956. He will receive his bachelor degree in chemical engineering from the University of Wisconsin and be commissioned Ensign, United States Navy, in January, 1961.

At Denver

Judith A. Keppen of Arlington Heights was elected campus commission of next year's sophomore class at the University of Denver in Colorado in student elections held May 3.

Miss Keppen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon H. Keppen, 32 S. Mitchell, is currently a freshman majoring in education.

At Fort Leavenworth

Army Reserve Lt. Col. Richard H. Ber, whose wife, Jane, lives at 1339 N. Illinois ave., Arlington Heights, attended the recent logistical command refresher course at the Command and General Staff college, Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Colonel Ber, assigned as chief of the quartermaster section in the 5139th Logistical Command A, an Army Reserve unit in Chicago, is a 1935 graduate of Neenah Wis. high school and a 1940 graduate of the University of Wisconsin. He is employed by the Military Subsistence Supply Agency, Chicago. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Ber, live in Neenah, Wis.

At Camp Pendleton

Marine Pvt. David V. Englund, son of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Englund, 219 S. Hi Lusi st., Mt. Prospect, completed four weeks of individual combat training May 13 at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Cal.

The course included the latest infantry tactics, first aid, demolitions, field fortifications and advanced schooling on weapons. Trainees learn that all Marines are basically infantrymen, whether they serve as cooks, typists, truck drivers, or with aviation units.

In Hawaii

Richard N. Jones, engineman fireman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McLain of 347 S. Walnut st., Bensenville, returned to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, in late April, aboard the salvage ship USS Safeguard after a 4 month tour of duty with the U.S. Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific.

Besides performing their normal duties, the Safeguard and her crew visited Japan, Hong Kong and the Philippines.

Chairmen at Illinois

Three local students at the University of Illinois have been elected to committee posts for 1960-61, according to an announcement from Illini Union Student Activities.

Carol Feige, 211 S. Elmhurst, Mt. Prospect, will be chairman of exhibits at the International Fair; Linda Bullock, 209 S. Derbyshire, Arlington Heights, will be King-for-a-Day chairman of Dad's day; Paul Prentiss, 500 N. Windsor dr., Arlington Heights, will be chairman of the Homecoming Queen contest.

The Illini Union serves as a center for cultural and recreational affairs for the more than 20,000 University of Illinois students on the Urbana campus. About 800 students participate in IUSA committees. Programs range from record concerts and coffee hours to major campus events including Homecoming, Dad's day, Mother's day and International Fair which attract thousands of visitors. (CC

Honors Day Awards

Dennis Raveling, 821 E. Davis, Arlington Heights, recently was presented the Zoology Achievement award at Southern Illinois university at Carbondale. Special awards, prizes and scholarships went to 75 students at the annual Honor's day convocation held May 19 on the SIU campus.

The special prize-winners were among 253 students honored for outstanding scholastic achievement maintained throughout the entire school year. President Delyte W. Morris made the scholarship and prize awards in the 10 a.m. ceremonies at Shryock auditorium.

Aboard USS Canberra

James F. Lange, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Lange of 3n 570 Oakleaf dr., Bensenville, and N. N. Urbaniak, electrician's mate fireman USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Franco, 337 Harvard ave., Addison, completed a 6-day visit to Melbourne, Australia, May 14, while serving aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Canberra currently making an around the world good-will cruise.

The Canberra, named for the Australian ship of the same name which was sunk in action at Savo Island near Guadalcanal in 1942, also visited Sydney, May 2-7.

During the visit the Canberra and her crew participated in the Coral Sea Celebration, commemorating the World War II battle of the same name.

At Fort Benning

First Lt. Robert P. Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Johnston, 406 N. Fairview ave., Mt. Prospect, completed the 9-week ranger course May 11 at the Infantry school, Fort Benning, Ga.

The course is designed to develop leadership abilities and to provide strenuous physical training which will prepare the soldier for arduous duty under adverse combat conditions.

Lt. Johnston entered the army in October 1953, is a graduate of Lane Technical high school, Chicago, and a 1958 graduate of the University of Illinois. Before entering the Army, he was employed by Goodyear Aircraft in Akron, Ohio.

At Fort Bliss

First Lt. Richard R. Florey of the XXI U. S. Army Corps G-4, Supply and Logistics, has been reassigned to the 45th Artillery brigade, Air Defense, in Arlington Heights, where he will assume duties as a Nike battery officer. Prior to his duties he is scheduled to attend a 16-week Air Defense Missile Battery officers course at Fort Bliss, Texas, beginning May 28.

A native of Arlington Heights, Lt. Florey is the son of Mrs. Roy Florey, 148 W. Johnson st., Palatine. His wife and two daughters will reside in Pontiac, her hometown, until Lt. Florey completes his schooling.

At Fort Lee

America's logistical concepts underwent a thorough testing last week at Fort Lee, Va., where LOGEX 60, the United States Army's giant logistical command post exercise, took place.

Local residents, members of the 322d Logistical command, a Chicago area Army Reserve unit, played a key role in the exercise.

Area Reservists participating were: Captain Miller H. Anderson, 353 Pleasant Hill blvd, Palatine; Captain Arthur J. Creighton Jr., 1402 Anderson dr., Palatine; Captain Thomas G. Crowe, 40 E. Comfort lane, Palatine; Major Gordon R. Riefstahl, 1244 W. Race st., Arlington Hts.

Outdoor Church Services

An innovation in churchgoing is being sponsored this summer by Christ Evangelical Lutheran church, Palatine. The new twist is outdoor summer services to be held at the new "53" Drive-In Theater, Rand and Hicks rds. (rts. 53 and 12).

Everyone is welcome to attend the services to be held at 7:30 a.m., each Sunday, June 5 through September 4.

THE SERVICES will be held on top of the concession stand, while members of the congregation will sit in their cars. The same loudspeaker system used for the movies, will be used by the minister. The stand will hold an eight-foot white cross, flowers, lecturn, organ, soloist, and pastor. Rain or shine, the service will be held.

Rev. C. G. Shira, pastor of Christ Evangelical Lutheran, pioneered such services at a drive-in theater in Ft. Wayne, Ind., from 1954 through 1958.

"Christ preached to people wherever they gathered to listen," Rev. Shira said. "This kind of service has proved to be a blessing to invalids, the aged, transients, families with young children, and for persons who want to visit, golf, or just don't want to dress up for church on hot days."

He views the drive-in church as a community service. In Ft. Wayne, the service drew not only strangers and 'the unchurched," but active members of 32 Ft. Wayne churches of many denominations.

Film Shrieker Is 'Tried and True'

by JIM PHILLIPS

Despite all its tried-and-true adventure cliches, "Flame Over India" manages to be one of the best British-Indian shriekers since Alexander Korda made bit-players out of Fuzzy-Wuzzies.

A Rank-20th Century release "Flame" introduces a variety of characters, including a British Captain, (Kenneth More) who is every bit as staid and heroic as a British Captain should be; an American governess (Lauren Bacall), who is every bit as female as an American governess shouldn't be; an amusing, locomotive-happy individual, (I. S. Johar); a newsman (Herbert Lom); and a completely unreliable gun-runner, (Eugene Deckers); there is also a little boy — the most important person in the story. In fact, he is so important, a few thousand people want his head!

HERE'S THE rundown. The year is 1905. In northwest India, a British Garrison is right in the middle of a political mess, geographically and socially. The British have put a "Little Rajah" at the head of the local government; the Moslems see this juvenile puppet as a real fly-in-the-ointment, so, they decide they'd like nothing better than - do away with him. When the British High command realizes the situation, the panic-button is pushed — right in Kenneth More's face. He's ordered to get the "Little Rajah" and his entourage to Kalapur, which is about 300 Moslem-mobbed miles away. More takes the problem in hand and immediately begins conducting an Indian version of the underground railway — with a real locomotive yet!

As soon as the commuters get underway, you know that things are going to start popping. In fact, at this point, the entire picture becomes a series of skirmish-scattered cliff-hangers, with more scares thrown in than a whole bevy of "Perils of Pauline" chapters! And tossed in the middle of this "cloak-and-stagger" activity is the fact that someone in the captain's party is a spy. Will the Little Rajah make it safely to Kalapur? Will the old locomotive More is using to crash through Moslem barricades break down? Will More survive a few thousand Moslems? Will Lauren Becall survive More? Who cares! Everybody's having too much fun, including Robin Estridge, who wrote the script!

Actually, I can't recall seeing a really bad English movie that dealt with Indian-British war relations. J. Arthur Rank, and the Korda family seem to have a particular knack for doing these pictures well. "Gunga Din" was a classic example of "tongue-in-cheek" adventure, and "Four Feathers" was certainly a more serious lesson in how to produce a "sword-waver" without going overboard. One of the biggest reasons for the success of "Flame Over India" is the obvious fact that it was designed for strict "you chase us and we'll chase you" entertainment, and not high-flung drama. Near the finish of the picture, I not only got the idea that the entire cast was having a ball, but that the director was, too. "Flame" has everything that a good serial should have.

Beet States

Sugar beets are grown in 21 states, ranging from Ohio to California.

COMPARING NOTES on the leading role in "Arsenic and Old Lace" are two gentlemen who found much in common this week. The comedy to be presented on June 3, 4, 10, and 11 in Cutting hall of Palatine high school was the first production of the Palatine Players in 1947 — with Stuart Paddock Jr., 716 W. Busse ave., Mount Prospect, playing the role of Mortimer Brewster. The same role will be played — 13 years later — by Joe Rogers, 29, of Rand rd., Palatine, in his first appearance with the Players. Ironically, Paddock was 29 when he played Mortimer — adn it was also his first stage appearance! Paddock is the only member of the original cast still residing in the northwest suburbs. (Bill

Shady Lane Set to Open On June 7

Shady Lane Playhouse oldest professional summer theatre in the Chicago area, will open its nineteenth season Tuesday, June 7, with "The Third Best Sport," a sparkling comedy that pokes fun as "the third best sport," the first two being sex and baseball.

This amiable and well-meaning little satire by Eleanor and Leo Bayer, a vehicle for comedienne Celeste Holm on Broadway last season will inaugurate a 13-week schedule in the rustic barn adjoining Frank and Dorothy Bryan's roadside restaurant on Route 20, just west of Marengo, Illinois.

The theatre has been completely renovated over the winter, with new seating and added room. Louis Tanno, in his tenth year at Shady Lane, will direct an all-professional New York company.

SHADY LANE productions to follow in the season ending September 4 will be "The Desk Set," opening June 4; "A Mighty Man Was He," June 21; "The Reluctant Debutante," June 28; "Kempy," July 5; "The Gazebo," July 12; "Once More, With Feeling," July 19; "Yes My Darling Daughter," August 16; and for a rounding finale, an old fashioned melodrama, "More Sinned Against Than Usual" for two weeks August 23 through September 4.

There are two performances Saturday night, at 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. The theatre is shuttered Monday nights.

Leftover Baked Ham Utilized In Tasty Luncheon Casserole

by LOIS SEILER

A savory casserole is the favorite luncheon dish of Mrs. William F. Bleile of 33 S. Mitchell in Arlington Heights.

Called a Noodle and Ham Casserole, it is simple to prepare and an excellent recipe in which to utilize leftover baked ham.

In addition to the ham and noodles, this dish contains several other flavorful ingredients such as celery, onion, green pepper, pimiento and mushrooms. The mixture is topped with either butter wafer crumbs or crushed corn flakes (Mrs. Bleile prefers the corn flakes) and baked for 30 minutes.

BECAUSE THIS CASSEROLE is a complete meal-in-one containing meat, vegetables and noodles, it need only be accompanied by a molded jello salad and hot rolls. And there you have a tempting and satisfying luncheon, indeed.

The ham and noodle casserole is also one of Mrs. Bleile's favorite dishes to take to church luncheons and suppers at St. John's United Church of Christ.

This good cook has an elegant dessert recipe which is another of her specialties.

SIMILAR TO A Blitztorte, her recipe is called a Lightning Cake. It consists of two layers of cake topped by meringue and chopped nuts. The cake batter and meringue are baked at the same time. When the cake is cool, it is filled with a creamy custard. Sliced bananas may also be placed between the layers, if desired.

"Although the directions may look complicated, the cake is not at all difficult to make," comments Mrs. Bleile. It is a deluxe dessert, delicate and delicious, yet comparatively inexpensive. And the result is an optical as well as a gastronomic treat!

Ham and Noodle Casserole

1 cup celery, diced
4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons onion, minced
½ green pepper, chopped
2 pimientos, chopped
1 can mushrooms, diced
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
Liquid from mushrooms and celery plus milk to make two cups.
2 cups cubed ham
2 cups cooked noodles
½ cup butter wafer crumbs or cornflake crumbs

Cook celery in a little water until tender; drain and reserve liquid. Melt butter in a skillet. Add vegetables and brown. Stir in flour, then add liquid and stir until mixture thickens.

Add seasonings, celery, ham and noodles and pour all into a buttered casserole. Top with crumbs; bake for 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven, 350 degrees. Serves 6.

Lightning Cake

½ cup butter
½ cup granulated sugar
4 egg yolks
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup sifted cake flour
5 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Let shortening stand at room temperature until rather soft. Cream in a large bowl of mixmaster using 8 speed. Add sugar gradually with beater, still at that speed. Scrape bowl and beat one minute longer.

Add egg yolks and beat at same speed until well-blended. Scrape bowl; beat one minute. Turn dial to No. 1 speed and add sifted dry ingredients alternately with the milk, to which vanilla has been added.

Pour into two greased 8-inch layer cake tins. Cover with the following meringue:

4 egg whites
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking powder
8 tablespoons granulated sugar
½ cup chopped nutmeats

Beat egg whites in small bowl of mixmaster with salt and baking powder until almost stiff, using 7 or 8 speed. Add sugar gradually and beat at same speed until sugar is thoroughly combined with egg whites.

Spread on top of cake batter and sprinkle with chopped nuts. Bake in 325 degree oven for 40 minutes.

When the cake is cool, remove from tins and spread the following filling between the layers:

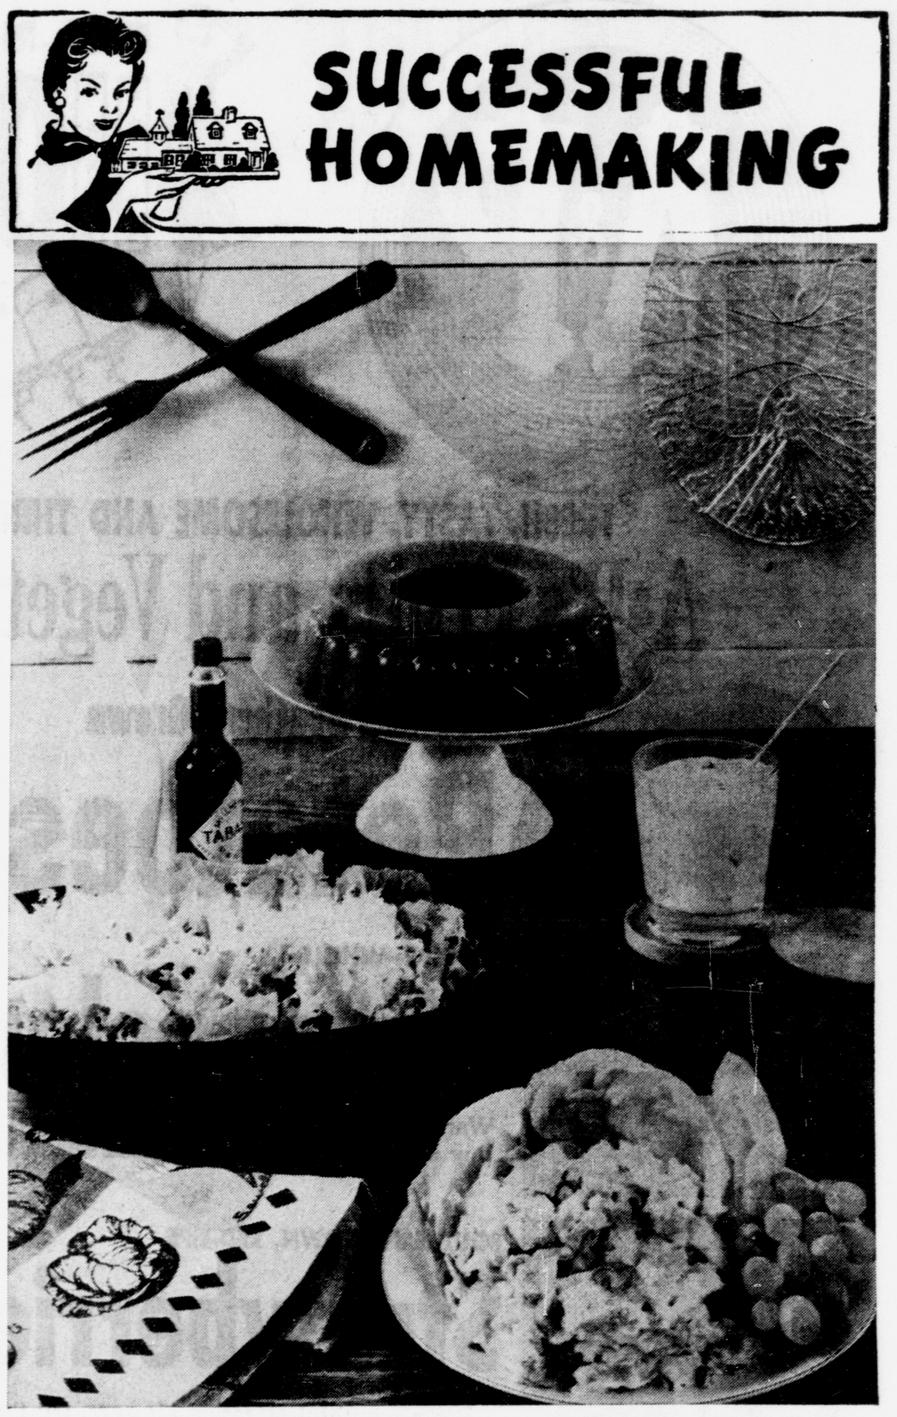
Custard Filling

2 tablespons flour
3 tablespoons granulated sugar
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 cup scalded milk
2 egg yolks, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine flour, sugar and salt in the top of a double boiler. Add milk gradually and beat at 3 speed. Continue beating at same speed until smooth and thick. Cook about 10 minutes.

Pour slowly over beaten egg yolks. Return to double boiler and cook for two minutes longer; cool and add flavoring.

Spread between layers of cake. Two bananas cut in slices may be placed on top of custard, if desired.



SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING

COMES SPRING and you want to splurge somehow; have a change of scenery, change of food, etc. Refurbishing the living room or a weekend in the country seems the answer to the former, but a change in diet pattern is more easily achieved.

We can change our menus without breaking the bank, which is a happy consideration in these days marked by rising living costs. What could be more sprightly on a springtime menu, for instance, than a molded tomato aspic served with a new sour cream cucumber dressing.

ENTERTAIN the ladies at luncheon and serve popular chicken salad with a zesty mayonnaise. Or brighten an ordinary dinner with a large tossed green salad. Make your own French dressing for fun and flavor.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Edward Rentz

To go on with the Alaska scene, here is a typical example of one of the difficulties. A town like Ketchikan is serviced by a weekly boat; supplies must be ordered in Seattle on Monday to be shipped on Thursday's boat. The boat, barring mishaps, arrives the next Monday but sometimes not until Wednesday. Of course, this causes many problems that the restauranteur in the United States proper does not have to contend with.

This lack of supply also creates the problem of trying to add variety to the menu that will attract and interest the customer who eats regularly at a specific restaurant.

Marinated Shrimp

Marinated shrimp provide perfect party food for a number of occasions. They're ideal as an addition to a smorgasbord or buffet menu, important enough to feature alone as an afternoon or evening snack accompaniment for a glass of beer or ale and they're a distinctive first course for a dinner menu when offered informally in the living room.

The recipe given here calls for cooking and marinating the shrimp in beer combined with dill seed, mustard and other seasonings. Whether served as a snack or part of a meal, the best beverage choice to enhance the flavor of the subtly-seasoned shellfish is more beer or ale.

3 pounds raw shrimp, fresh or frozen
2 12-ounce bottles or cans beer or ale
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon onion juice
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon basil or thyme
½ teaspoon dill seed
¼ teaspoon pepper

Remove shells and veins from shrimp. Rinse. In a saucepan, combine beer, salt, mustard, vinegar, onion juice, sugar and spices. Bring to a boil and simmer about 1 minute. Add only enough cleaned shrimp as will be covered by the liquid mixture; return to boiling, and then simmer 2 to 5 minutes, depending on size.

Remove shrimp from liquid, add remaining shrimp and repeat cooking procedure. Remove from liquid. Cool both shrimp and liquid and marinate for several hours. Drain; serve with wooden picks as hors d'oeuvres or appetizer. Yield: approximately 2 dozen servings.

Q. Is it considered proper to send a male patient in a hospital cut flowers?

A. Although not "improper" cut flowers are usually sent to women. A growing plant is the customary gift to a male patient.

Zesty Condiments Improve Salad Flavors, Dressings

Any season of the year, or whether meals are costly or thrifty, you'll find that your best ally is proper seasoning. Just a little of the pungent liquid red pepper seasoning, Tabasco, does a lot to prevent mediocrity. In cold dishes especially, such as salads, its lively presence is needed.

Tomato Aspic Tabasco

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
1¾ cups tomato juice, divided
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/8 teaspoon Tabasco
2 tablespoons lemon or lime juice

Sprinkle gelatine on ½ cup of tomato juice in saucepan to soften. Place over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatine is dissolved. Remove from heat; add remaining 1¼ cups tomato juice, salt, sugar, Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco and lemon juice. Pour into a 2-cup or individual molds. Chill until firm; unmold and serve with *Sour Cream Cucumber Dressing.

YIELD: 4 servings. If desired, recipe may be doubled and chilled in a 4-cup mold.

Sour Cream Cucumber Dressing

1 cup diced unpeeled cucumber
½ cup commercial sour cream
¼ teaspoon Tabasco

Combine all ingredients; mix well. Serve with tomato aspic. Yield: Approximately 1½ cups.

Chicken Salad

2 tablespoons lemon or lime juice
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
½ cup mayonnaise
2 cups diced cooked chicken
1 cup diced celery
½ cup seedless grapes, halved, optional

Add lemon juice, salt and Tabasco to mayonnaise; mix well. Put remaining ingredients into mixing bowl. Add mayonnaise mixture and toss lightly; chill one hour. Pile into lettuce cups. YIELD: 6 servings.

Tabasco French Dressing

½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon paprika
2/3 cup salad oil
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
1/3 cup vinegar

Mix dry ingredients thoroughly; add oil and Tabasco and stir until well blended. add vinegar and beat or shake well, shaking again just before serving. Use with favorite tossed green salad or substitute for mayonnaise in potato salad. YIELD: 1 cup.

A Graduation Party Supper

To make hamburgers a very special kind, the addition of a popular white seasoning brings out and retains the full robust flavor of fresh ground beef. Also for tenderness, take care to handle the hamburger meat as little as possible. Break it up with a fork in a mixing bowl, add seasonings and toss gently to distribute. Then shape lightly into patties; do not knead or press.

If planning for a crowd, it's convenient to make the patties ahead and stack them between squares of waxed paper; wrap in aluminum foil or waxed paper and store in the freezer.

For a party of 12, plan to serve as least 24 hanburgers, using about six pounds of meat. Broil, or brown in skillet, and serve with sliced onions (or catsup, mustard and relishes).

THE SECOND meat choice, barbecued frankfurters, gets its mustard accompaniment in the form of a spicy sauce. Blend equal parts of prepared mustard, unsulphured molasses, and vinegar with a bit of Worcestershire and pickle relish and heat the frankfurters in it.

Along with the meat, there can be crisp salad or relish kabobs. For the latter, slices of cucumber, tomato and whole olives are alternated on skewers or wooden picks. Then have plenty of toasted buns. For the napkin "diplomas," napkins are folded around cutlery, tied with school colors and given a golden seal.

Honor-Roll Hamburgers

6 pounds ground beef
2 tablespoons Ac'cent
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper

Break up meat with fork in large mixing bowl. Sprinkle Ac'cent, salt and pepper over meat; toss gently with fork to distribute seasoning. Shape into 24 patties. Separate patties with waxed paper or aluminum foil. (Freeze if desired.)

Brown quickly in preheated ungreased skillet; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Turn and brown other side of patties; sprinkle with additional salt and pepper. Continue cooking over low heat until meat is of desired doneness. Yield: 24 servings.

Barbecued Frankfurters

¼ cup unsulphured molasses
¼ cup prepared mustard
3 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup pickle relish
12—18 cooked frankfurters

Put molasses first, then mustard, into a 2-cup measure. Stir to blend. Add vinegar. Stir to blend. Add vinegar. Worcestershire sauce and relish; mix well. Put barbecue sauce in skillet. Add cooked frankfurters; simmer 10 minutes.

Yield: 12-18 servings.

MAIN DISH FOR GRADUATES. During graduation week festivities, it is the organized hostess who is prepared for an onrush of young appetities. Hamburgers and frankfurters are such universally liked foods that they can be featured at a senior party supper, as the snack after a dance, or the main course of a progressive party.

Fruit Cups Shower Bride's Sweetness

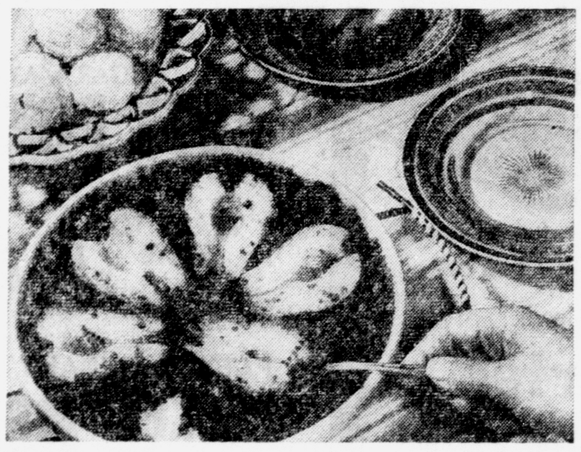
Happy is the bride-to-be when she is feted at a shower. Happy, too, is her hostess when her table is recognized as the prettiest and most tasteful seen in a long time! Elegant entertaining is made up of little things that catch the eye and please the palate, such as serving tangy Florida citrus sections in orange cups.

The first course is always important; it sets the tone and pace for the rest of the meal. Light and gay is the theme when the first course is a pleasant blending of tart and sweet-flavored citrus sections served in such a sprightly way.

YOU'LL find Florida Valencia oranges perfect for fruit cups because they're seedless, juicy, yet firm enough to slice or section. We know showers aren't a time to be thinking about practical matters like daily-needed vitamin C but nevertheless, young girls too are dependent upon it.

To prepare orange halves with picot edge, trace a line in the center around the orange. Insert small bladed pointed knife in center of orange at an angle to make one side of a point. Remove knife, insert to make opposite side of point. Continue around orange following line to keep halves equal size. Pull halves apart.

Gingersnap-Pear Crumble



Turn the spotlight on a dessert that can be made in a jiffy with the can of fruit you have on the shelf. Ginger Pear Crumble (or it may be peach, pineapple or fruit cocktail), served with or without its crown of ice cream, makes a fine finish for any meal.

Your choice of fruit perked with a bit of lemon juice blends perfectly with the spicy gingersnap crumb mixture. Serve it warm or cold to fit the rest of your menu.

Ginger Pear Crumble

1½ cups gingersnap cookie crumbs
¼ cup butter, or margarine
1 can (1 lb. 14 oz.) pears, or other fruit
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
vanilla ice cream (optional)

Mix crumbs and melted butter; spread half of mixture in a baking dish. Arrange pear halves on top of crumbs and sprinkle with lemon juice and ¼ cup of the syrup.

Combine sugar, salt and spices; sprinkle over pears. Top with rest of crumb mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (30 degrees) about 25 minutes. Serve warm or cold with or without ice cream. Six servings.

The Way We See It

Human Relations Is Suburban Challenge

A question was raised last week at the annual luncheon of the Illinois Commission on Human Relations that should concern all communities faced with human relations problems, and particularly our northwest suburbs.

The question:

Should a human relations council or social planning group work to bring representatives of minority groups into its community when their arrival appears inevitable, or should such a group merely observe trends and be prepared to offer advice if trouble arises in the community?

In our northwest suburbs the minority group would be Negroes, and the inevitableness of their arrival in our communities has been repeatedly pointed out by sociologists, planners, and government officials, who note the economic ascendency of Chicago's Negroes, and their desire to escape city slums and find middle income housing, the reasons that caused many of us to move to the suburbs.

Two schools of thought are prompted by the question: Why create a problem when none exists? To which the second school replies: We're attempting to anticipate and control, rather than create a problem.

Those who would actively work to open up their presently all-white communities to Negro families argue that such a move would immunize the communities against the bitterness, depreciation of property values, and violence that has often accompanied integration when it has been forced upon a community by an expanding ghetto or isolated Negro family searching for a better way of life.

They reason that to protect the way of life offered by their communities, decent places in which to live, shop, and raise children, various elements of the community—elected officials, realtors, businessmen, civic leaders, representatives of homeowner groups — should sit down and work out a plan to integrate the communities.

Advocates of such action note that integration does not mean transplanting truck loads of newly-arrived, unskilled Negroes from Chicago's "black belt" into the northwest suburbs. They argue that an open residency policy would attract Negroes of comparable economic and educational backgrounds with the rest of the community.

Aside from benefitting the local community, the point is made that such action would help halt the decay of our central city—Chicago—where so many of us work and whose proximity and prosperity make our suburbs a desirable place in which to live.

This is an unorthodox approach to a serious problem; it may not be the wisest answer. But no one else has offered an alternative proposal other than to adopt a wait-and-see attitude and "hope for the best." Can we afford, however, to risk an ugly and irrevocable community crisis when the inevitable question faces us a month, a year, or ten years from now?

The suburban human relations question is grave enough to command study and discussion by village official and civic leader alike.

Nonconformist Mayor Is Refreshing Phenomenon

Reading about Paul Egan and meeting the man results in receiving two different impressions: he doesn't appear to be tottering on the brink of a psychotic breakdown as one might assume from the many reports that have been printed about him.

He doesn't even seem to be prompted by neurotic compulsions, although we didn't seek a psychological evaluation on Aurora's controversial mayor. Egan does appear rather eccentric or at least erratic, and sometimes gets a little confused in his contradictory likes and dislikes.

He reminds one of the honest fighter who refuses to take a dive; he may be getting a little punchy, but he can still scrap, with some amount of logic as well as vitriol.

And what's really wrong with being eccentric? In America's formative years, the eccentrics sometimes emerged as genuine creative forces.

We're not implying that Paul is a mental marvel. But in this age of manufactured executives and the look-alike, be-alike, think-alike pressures of conformity, Egan becomes a refreshing phenomenon.

This standardizing trend, which Author Arthur Koestler calls the "Pre-Fab Age," is also decried by Psychologist Erich Fromm as an automated march to tyranny in which man's freedoms are being subtly nicked away by the psychic pressures to conform.

Needed are more men to speak their mind rather than bow to collective wills.

Paul Egan often speaks his mind with irrational intensity. At a press conference held here recently, however, he demonstrated that he is not entirely divorced from some of the real needs of our day. And Egan, at least, is not easily catalogued, indexed and filed away under a convenient label as are an increasing number of his contemporaries.

Shopping Center in North DuPage County Inevitable

DuPage county board last week approved most of the zoning variations sought for a new regional shopping center proposed for route 53 and Lake st. Approval was made despite opposition of Itasca and Addison officials as well as businessmen in north DuPage county.

Whether or not this development will benefit established merchants in the area will depend upon the merchants themselves.

The era of the shopping center is here to stay, and north DuPage county — with its vast potential for future growth and the current lack of any regional shopping center facilities—is regarded as ripe territory for such development.

Actually, such a center could benefit local business—if merchants unite in a cooperative effort to redevelop aging business districts.

Modernization of old stores, expansion of parking facilities, development of up-to-date merchandising techniques, greater variety in selection of merchandise, vigorous community promotion programs—these are the tools which enable local merchants to effectively compete with shopping centers.

The advent of the shopping center is inevitable. Hometown merchants should unite to improve their own competitive positions rather than needlessly exhaust their resources on fighting the regional center.

As an initial step, area merchants could pool their efforts in a cooperative program to streamline and modernize unattractive business districts. This admittedly would cost money. But as Howard T. Fisher, shopping center specialist, recently pointed out: "Perhaps such a program sounds too expensive, but perhaps failure to adopt such a program can be afforded even less."

'No Thanks, I'll Drive Myself!'

For Human Relations

Present Award To Newspapers

Paddock Publications received one of Illinois' "Governor's Awards" last week for "distinguished service in promoting better human relations."

The award noted the work of Paddock newspapers in revealing to readers the problems of Mexican-Americans living in the northwest suburbs.

Paddock Publications and the four metropolitan dailies were the only Chicago area papers to receive such awards at the annual luncheon of the Illinois Commission on Human Relations.

Leaders of human relations councils in Alton, Carbondale, Joliet, Peoria, Springfield, and Chicago's suburbs gave reports on the progress of human relations in their areas.

SPEAKING for the suburbs was Dr. Martin H. Bickham, a resident of Wilmette and former commissioner of the ICHR.

Dr. Bickham spoke of the changing "racial frontier" in metropolitan Chicago. He urgently called for:

"The early organization of a Metropolitan Human Relations Council that will unite governmental and voluntary human relations groups within the Chicago municipal zone and the many communities within the wider metropolitan area to work for the advancement of better human relations, and the achievement of a metropolitan community that will present to the world a true expression of the essential basis of our democratic ideals of Democracy in America."

DR. BICKHAM noted that there are 204 organized communities in the metropolitan area. Over 100 of these communities, he said, are without nonwhite residents.

"Under the increase of nonwhite population (over 30,000 a year), the movement into suburban communities is under way and is bound to continue. These movements of population within the "zone" of our "racial frontier" constitute a persistent challenge to all citizens and especially the human relations organizations, suburban councils, local committees, and governmental agencies, to sharpen their thinking and to move fully, and clearly define their objectives and goals in order to deal constructively with the emerging human relations issues in this Chicago "racial frontier."

Typical of the reports given by down state human relations council representatives was that of Jesse Cannon, chairman of the Alton Commission.

Since 1943 Alton, a town of over 35,000 north of St. Louis, has integrated its elementary and junior high schools and employed 11 Negro teachers in these integrated schools.

MAJOR industries in the area now hire Negroes for other than custodial positions.

Two dime stores began serving Negroes at their lunch counters, and several places of entertainment have opened their doors to Negroes. The community's leading hotel now accepts Negroes.

Negro members of the police department are now in cars and on motorcycles.

A representative of the Joliet Commission on Human Relations noted: "The brightest spot in public accommodation in the Joliet area has been a fairminded state's attorney, who has never hesitated to use the powers of his office to eliminate malpractices brought to him."

Migrant Farm Worker Plight Still Plagues Suburb Areas

by CHARLES HAYES

The plight of the migratory farm worker is again in the public spotlight.

The Libertyville Independent-Register last week revealed that Lake county's infant health department has launched a vigorous campaign to correct "squalid, unhealthy, and even inhuman living conditions which apparently prevail in camps of migratory farm workers living temporarily in Lake county."

The health department is tackling the problem for the first time this year (it was only in 1959 that the department came into existence).

Actually, Lake county experiences the problem in mild form. Other areas, including northwest Cook and DuPage counties, have a much heavier influx of farm laborers each year.

THE Independent-Register quoted Ward Duel of the health department in revealing details of the worst migrant camp they have found thus far:

"The farm where this camp is located lies in Ela township. Health officials found 12 families living in a single, ramshackle building; they had stayed on over the winter months and will work the fields this summer. Several weeks ago an epidemic of diarrhea swept through the group. Earlier, during the winter, a pre-school child, ill fed and clothed, died of pneumonia in the camp. Two or three weeks ago, health officials visited the camp and found filthy, squalid living conditions, then asked that they be corrected rapidly. What did they discover? Soil near the 'house' of the migrants was saturated with filth and thoroughly polluted. A marsh was located nearby; it was being used as a dump for human waste, as was a stream near the farm. Open privies lay abandoned, neglected, a source of stench and potential disease. Windows in the sleeping quarters were broken, and the building offered poor lighting and ventilation."

The newspaper reported the best camp that health officials have checked so far was essentially no worse than low-cost housing in the large cities of America. Conditions in Cook county were exposed in 1958 by Paddock Publications.

Most of Lake county's migrants reside in Ela and Vernon townships, areas directly north of Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, and Palatine in Cook county.

Chicago's north and northwest suburbs are not alone with this problem, however; they share the migratory worker dilemma with the entire nation. The need for national action is critical; the situation is shocking.

SOME TWO million workers are involved in this problem. The immensity of their social and economic plight is reflected in some brief statistics:

--their average annual wage for 1958 was $961;

--they are excluded from practically all state and federal social welfare laws--from the protection of most workmen's compensation, unemployment insurance, minimum wage, and laws giving the right to organize;

--their children receive only intermittent schooling, often work long hours in the fields to supplement the family's meagre earnings, and are excluded from federal child labor laws covering children working outside school hours;

--illness and accidents plague these workers more than most because of their low standard of living and nomadic existence. Often local residence laws bar migrant farm workers from public welfare benefits and hospital care.

AN IMPORTANT legislative battle may soon take place in the Congress on bills which will seriously affect the future of migratory agricultural labor.

On June 30, 1961, the law which authorizes the Mexican Farm Labor program (Public Law 78) will expire unless it is extended. This law, originally passed as a temporary expedient during the war to supplement the shortage of farm workers at that time, has been extended periodically and the number of workers imported from Mexico has increased enormously. This has intensified the plight of our domestic migratory workers.

(Both Sen. Paul H. Douglas and U. S. Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church have repeatedly expressed opposition to the indefinite extension of this importation program.)

TWO BILLS coming up in Congress will be important.

H. R. 9875 is supported by users of Mexican farm labor and spokesmen for some farm organizations. It would extend Public Law 78 and also amend it to prohibit the Secretary of Labor from issuing regulations to protect the wages and conditions of employment for U. S. farm workers. If this bill is passed, the already abysmal conditions of migrant farm workers can be expected to get worse rather than improve.

H. R. 11211 is supported by church, civic, labor and family-farm organizations as well as the Opportunity Council, Inc., of Arlington Heights. This bill would also extend Public Law 78 but with several important amendments. It would reduce the number of imported Mexican farm workers by 20 per cent each year until it would be terminated in 1966. It would also reduce the adverse effects of this program on U. S. farm workers by clarifying the authority of the Secretary of Labor to regulate the importation and wage scale of foreign workers where necessary to protect domestic farm laborers.

Anything suburbanites can do to mobilize opposition to H. R. 9875 and support for H. R. 11211 will be a significant contribution to help improve the conditions of farm workers in Lake, Cook, and DuPage counties as well as the rest of the nation.

'Shades of Col. McCormick'

Tangle of Newspaper Traps Suburban Dad

by PHILIP NELSON

A lump comes up in my throat when I think of it. All these fine, worthy village projects: Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Brownies, Elves, Pixies, Two-Headed Trolls and those.

Take the newspaper drive. For months, my generous spouse has been yanking the Sunday paper out of my hands just as I settle down with a tired sigh, and before I can even murmur "shades of Col. McCormick," whisk — there it goes into a bundle, a knot that even a Scout has difficulty in unscrambling—and 3-year-old David and I are left looking blankly at each other.

"Daddy," whimpers the brat, "daddy, cut me out the jokes."

COMES THE Big Day. Scouts are scurrying about the streets like ants. One would think it was mobilization; Khrushchev had sneezed or something. The frau has a "look" in her eye. Quickly, I try to sneak out the back door.

"Mo--mmy, mo--mmy," squeals the brat. "Looka daddy," sounding for all the world like Harry Belafonte trying to sound like my brat. The rat. David, not Harry, I mean. Ratting on his own dad. I'm caught flat-footed.

"Oh, no, you don't--Philip," from the wife, strained through clenched teeth. Now, she's being formal. It's usually "Phil, there's a dear, move the frig to this corner."

Before I could order my troops to the rear, I was loaded down with several hundredweight of subversive literature like the Trib and the Wall Street Journal, and had staggered out into the street, my sight obscured, my knees wavery.

NEXT THING I knew, I had struck an enemy mine and my world exploded. Like a flock of scared, unwashed pigeons, the papers flew in assorted directions. My big toe had tangled with a section of my small, white picket fence, and there it lay, crumpled and insultingly across my wife's favorite roses. My right shoe, like a V-2 in enemy territory peeked out from a patch of carefully cultivated strawberries my scrupulously polite neighbor was painfully raising.

There I lay, on my back, convinced my spine was a corkscrew. I groaned, tediously wiggled my fibulous tibia and waited for the Resurrection. Even the sky was a pale blue.

Out of the fog emerged a shape, which took on the form of a hideously ugly bulldog. Now, I am a foundling member of the Society for the Preservation and Pasteurization of Helpless Curs and Mangy Cats, and am past Imperial Master of the Wormwatchers society, as any honest brainwashed suburbanite honorably should be. But there is something about a bulldog that raises hackles down the unscrubbed scruff of my neck.

HIS PENDULOUS lip quivered. Towering over me, he sized me up and snarled, half-closing one eye speculatively, a red tongue slashing out over one corner of his mouth. Vague growls, and a supercilious lifting of a loose bit of lip a preview of terrors to come.

I am no coward, but I shook. Forgotten my pain and the shock of my traumatic experience (there was no time now for psychiatrists), I longed only for a helicopter. Puggy licked his chops.

Just then, the brat sidled out of my front door. I groaned, tried to shout "David, go back," but the tonsils backtracked. "Da-a-vid," I screamed, but there was only breath, no sound.

I saw the gleam come into his impish eyes. "Doggie," he dribbled, spilling mouthfuls of Brixie, Braxie and other noxious cereals.

"Nice doggie," he chanted, eyes alight, "look, daddy, nice doggie," and before I could stir, he blurred before my eyes as he moved towards the dog.

"He--e-lp," I screamed inwardly, "run for your life." Frozen, I watched him climb on the back of the dog, his pudgy, smeared fingers reaching for the brute's jaws. I and waited for the inevitable, sending up prayer signals to the God of Dogdom.

ONE EYE flickered open as no sound disturbed the ominous stillness. The brat had reached over the monster's head and had yanked his flabby lips open, revealing the fierce cutting blades of his teeth.

"Are you really a doggie?" the brat was saying to him confidentially. "real one, I mean. Tell me the trut'."

And I swear that the brute winked one eye, and smiled back as though to say: "Blimey, wot did ye think, gov'nor — I was a bloomin' 'orse chestnut?"

Our Suburbanites Use Fence Post as Forum for Views

All Yearn For Truth

I thought William Dulaney's article was excellent in the May 19 issue questioning our government's wisdom in the spy plane incident.

Of course, the frenzy created by this event, coupled with the Summit blow-up, are two more interesting studies created by the persistence of nations in relying upon the war system as a means of dealing with their problems.

The righteous indignation of both sides is to be expected.

THE FEVERISH attempts of all to reap propaganda harvests is standard procedure in the ignoble game of war preparation and threatened force.

The Great Debate over who is right and which nation wronged is a feeble attempt to justify the immoral reliance of nations on the antiquated military system.

I believe that human beings basically yearn for truth. It is sometimes difficult to find it amid the emotion of fear, hatred and distrust which the military approach creates.

I feel that truth is the realization that incidents such as the spy plane and Summit failure will continue to occur and put America and all men in desperate peril until more people recognize the utter futility of force and its threat.

I AM AFRAID that mankind will remain rooted at the brink of extermination until far more people recognize the negativeness of force and its threat and insist that governments find another approach to international problems. I am convinced that it is only in this way that the United States can help halt the thrust toward World War III and the possible termination of the human experience as we know it.

However, we must become vocal. We must know the danger of fear, because fear is apt to make us do things far more fearful than the original source of our fear. We must inform ourselves. We must develop a deep concern. We must replace the clutter of our lives with thoughts and activities of depth. We must develop our capacity for understanding and the ability to be kind.

Bomb Shelter Is Constructed

AN OPEN LETTER TO PARENTS

Did you sleep well last night? The eve of May 16, 1960, and also the eve of the first day of the summit conferences? I didn't!!!!

My sleeplessness was a result of a gnawing fear which came from the realization that I, a loving mother, and a supposedly responsible citizen, have left a great and important job undone.... THE JOB OF BEING PREPARED TO PROTECT MY INNOCENT CHILDREN IN THE EVENT OF AN ATOMIC WAR!!!!

What have they done to deserve the suffering they would have if we became involved in nuclear warfare? Nothing, of course, they would simply become the innocent victims of war, just as the poor children of Hiroshima were in 1945. Do you want your children to suffer as they did, even if there is a possible way to prevent it? I am sure you don't, nor do I.

YOUR ATTITUDE may be the same as many... it can't possibly happen here, our wise and wonderful leaders won't let it ever reach our shores, or just plain, SO WHAT COULD WE DO ABOUT IT? If one of these attitudes belongs to you or any other lackadaisical characters you know... wake up!! I am sorry to say, it can happen here, and our wise and wonderful leaders may not be able to prevent it, and there IS much you can do about it, in that YOU will be the determining factor in the survival of your family. Even if there is a working Civil Defense unit in your community, the job of survival will be strictly up to YOU. They can only advise and direct, they cannot shelter, feed, and care for you and your family till all is well!

Many times, my neighbors and I have discussed home protection measures, and had long ago decided to make a basement shelter and stock it with all of the food, and supplies which were necessary for survival. Of course, the doing of this project never materialized ... our plans grew more efficient, but it was still easier and a few dollars cheaper to just talk about our neighborhood shelter rather than to get busy and turn these plans into a reality. We all suddenly realized last evening that we just may have let it go too long. We will not make that mistake again.

This afternoon we will start the actual preparation of our shelter, and begin the accumulation of all the needed supplies and instructions which will be necessary for the survival of eight adults and twelve children. There are four families who will be using this shelter, as most of the homes in our area do not have basements, and we will all be congregating in this one available basement in case of disaster. I know that all the while we work and study to be survivors, we will also be praying constantly that all of our efforts will be wasted, and that a way to a permanent and lasting peace may be found before it's too late. But IF it is to be that we experience another war, well will know that we have done all that is in our power to protect our loved ones. HAVE YOU?

BOOKLETS on home protection exercises are available for a very nominal fee from the government printing office or probably from any Civil Defense headquarters. Why not look into this matter soon, for the sake of your loved ones. Our type of basement shelter may not be workable for you, but then, there will be other things that you may do, I am sure.

If my letter makes me sound like a war monger or a Tokyo Rose, I am truly sorry, as I am neither. I am simply a worried mother among many worried mothers, I am sure. Perhaps by reading this letter, you, too, will swing into action and do something about defending your home and family if, God forbid, it ever becomes necessary.

Show Respect For Our Flag

This is the season of the parade. The marching units and floats will pass in review, but each season I am made uneasy by the number of people in our community who fail to show respect to the flag of the United States. These are fine people, friends and neighbors, so I do not believe that they deliberately are disrespectful. It must be laxity. They must have forgotten what they learned as school children: that one should stand at attention and place the right hand over the heart as the flag passes. In our free land no one will be arrested for failure to salute the flag. It is more a matter of national pride.

There are federal and state laws protecting the flag from abuse and desecration. The rules of flag etiquette (as it is called) were set down in the Flag Code adopted in 1923 and endorsed in 1924 as a result of the National Flag conference, convened by the American Legion at Washington.

PERHAPS, Mr. Editor you would publish the complete flag code for your readers. May I suggest printing it in the issue of June 9, which precedes Flag day, June 14. Some reference to the flag code can be found in scouting handbooks and encyclopedias.

The flag will be proudly flown from many homes in our area, but let that flag be handled with care and some respect and lowered at sunset. Little children will march about with small flags on sticks - and they do so with pride — but parents should teach and caution them to hold it high and never let the flag touch the ground.

As the parade approaches, please, neighbors, rise to the occasion. Get up off the curb and out of that comfortable lawn chair. Stand firm — a small gesture of patriotism should not embarrass us. Ask your companions to join in the salute.

Remember the lines by H. H. Bennett?

"Hats off!
Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums,
A flash of color beneath the sky:
Hats off!
The flag is passing by."

Offers Prayer For Real Peace

After listening with great concern of the failure of the Summit Conference, I said a prayer to myself and found that I was repeating the same thoughts that came to me 18 or 19 years ago this month.

I was a senior in high school at the time and we were asked to write a composition on "Memorial Day" and what it meant to us. At the time what did it mean - a memorial of those who died in World War I? Not necessarily so, as I was not old enough to realize the woes of such a great disastor. All I could think of were the boys in the class before me who were already fighting, yes, and even dying in World War II. It meant to me, not a commemoration of what had been but a realization of the present. To me it was a time for Prayer.

As a result my composition was a follows:

A Prayer For Memorial Day

Our Father in Heaven
Protect our land
By lending Your Great Helping Hand.
Guard and keep us thru
the long night.
With a ray of Heaven's gleaming light.
I ask this not for myself alone,
But for those who have heard their loved ones groan,
For soldiers, who, at our feet
Are lying in Eternal
Sleep.
O God, I pray that you will be
Our Hope, our Light
Thru Eternity.

Granted there were corrections for punctuation but I was very pleased when I was asked to read it at the Student Assembly to a background of softly played Taps.

Again on May 17, 1960, I found myself thinking what Memorial Day meant to me. Now it had a different meaning. Now it meant that my sons, growing quickly into young man-hood were slowly becoming ripened for the crop of boys to fight the next "Great War" which according to statistics happens every 20 years. Again, as a Christian, in a Free country, I chose to think that God alone, not Khrushchev, statistics or any other force governed our destiny.

I REALIZE that a "local" paper is primarily concerned with "local affairs" and not "world affairs," but at this strained point in history, I believe prayer, on local, national, and world-wide levels, is necessary for the strength and guidance that the men in our government need at this time.

It pleases me that this has not become a political issue, that could destroy the faith many countries have put in us. Therefore, I request the publication of this prayer in your paper, not because I have written it, but because in reading it, people might stop and think and most important, pray on this Memorial Day, that we shall have lasting peace.

She Laments Low Morality

It would be impossible for anyone to appreciate the revulsion and disgust that a fairly moral person feels at the solution arranged by the Family Service counseling agency in the case of the young Arlington Heights couple who overstepped the bounds of personal relations.

No wonder there are so many prostitutes and immoral young men who feel that it is quite all right to seduce any youi darn gngl seduce any young girl and go on to another and do the same thing over again and again and then if they do marry have no understanding of a sacred relationship.

IF A BOY and girl are old enough to become involved, they are old enough to assume the responsibility of parenthood. I am talking of the fine young people one sees on the streets and in the schools. What kind of parents can either this boy or girl have that they would permit flesh of their flesh to be bartered because of an honest mistake?

The type of counseling here, that someone else should assume the responsibility that belongs directly on the shoulders of these young people, is unbelievable.

I would suggest that the counselor read the Bible, both old and new testaments, where in it states that when Isaac took Rebekah into his mother's tent and knew her she was his wife, also in the new testament where it says that if a man cannot contain himself and becomes intimate with his virgin, they should marry, and no harm has been done altho it would have been better to marry first.

Who can either the girl or boy marry with a clear conscience? They are already married to one another under God's law. After all, even the courts grant annulments where there has been no sexual relationship, signifying that sexual relationship is the basis of marriage between decent people.

IF FOUR-FIFTHS of the young people of our local high schools become involved in sexual relations (and a great many of them will because what have they got to lose?) on the strength of this article, the responsibility rests directly on the shoulders of the counseling service because, after all, who needs to worry, you don't have to take care of the kid, you don't have to marry the girl or fellow and you get to know what it's all about.

When people do wrong they should take the responsibility for their actions for only by so doing can they and others benefit by their misfortune.

Even an animal takes care of its young. There are instances when a married degenerate is involved that the solution would perhaps be advisable, and even then it is not desirable.

"The Nations are destroyed because of the immorality in them" and we spend good money to foster more and more of it.

Johanna Metzler
Palatine

Editor's Note: Readers should remember that Family Service receives cases of this sort after the fact: when the deed — an irreversible one—has been committed. There are many forced marriages which do not come to its attention, some of which later become statistics in the divorce court. For the agency to take a rigid moral posture on such situations (even though the counselor may hold strong moral convictions) would solve nothing. Which is better for the child? To force a marriage which may later culminate in a broken home, or to provide it with loving parents who can care for it? If we are to seek Biblical instruction, in cases of this sort the admonition, "Let he among you who has not sinned cast the first stone," should serve as the guiding principle. These problems have their origins in home and society, not in the agencies erected to alleviate them. And in fact, Family Service itself is dedicated to strengthening and preserving marriage and family life.

Why Change In Policy?

I am one of the majority who are in favor of retaining May Melvin in our school system. She certainly has more than proven her ability as an excellent teacher in the four years she has taught in our school. When she was hired, at the age of 67, she was told they wanted older teachers. Why, now, the change in policy? Do they have so many new teachers waiting for openings in our schools? May Melvin has proven herself.

Why was this ruling "that teachers would not be hired after the age of 65" put into effect? The tenure law does not apply after the age of 65, therefore, if a teacher over 65 proves unsatisfactory during the school year, a contract for the following year need not be offered to her. Certainly, May Melvin has not been unsatisfactory or nearly 100% of the parents of the children she has taught would not have signed the petition to retain her.

IN CLOSING I would like to quote from an excerpt in The Chicago Sunday Tribune, magazine section, May 1, 1960,

"It is in old men that reason and judgement are found," Cicero said long ago. From his day to the present, the soundness of this opinion has been apparent. Hastings College of Law of the University of California recruits retired professors from other institutions. Its faculty has been described as the strongest in the country."

Solicitors: Not All Bad

The editorial hands, that hide their deeds from each other, somehow got together on the editorial page of the May 19 Paddock Publications.

Mr. Hayes protests that people aren't just interested in buying gadgets as his neighbor publication has come to believe. Personally Hayes, Dulaney and Marty are the reason that I subscribed — not who eats dinner with Aunt Suzy or where I can lose my money on the worst liquor or supper club saloon.

However, the lead editorial (unsigned) sneers at the thousands of teachers and school administrators who try to fill the summer gap in employment and pay by educating parents in the value of resource materials in the home where they are available to children as need and interest arise in the areas of school requirements or personal curiosity. Just because some unscrupulous pitchmen unload adult materials on children and youth still acquiring vocabulary and experience backgrounds needed for intelligent reading, and because parents fail to check the youngster's ability to read and comprehend the proposed material, is that any reasen that honest men should have to be tagged like a pet dog on the street?

GRANTED THAT many salesmen are persistent enough to be pests, many purchasers have been thankful for the persistent salesman who finally convinced them that $150-$300 worth of materials that could contribute through the years to mental growth and answer questions newspapers occasionally stimulate in the mass of tripe (and often filth) which they press on their captive audiences (where also can you get news to be an intelligent citizen?) is really what worth the cost. Surely, much of what we buy contributes more to our ill health than to our wealth — alcohol, tobacco, cosmetic trivia, cluttering gadgets, etc.

As for the ladies, God bless 'em, papers never tire of telling how they control the family purse. Only in the field of their greatest concern and skill, their children's mental development, must they wait for the lordly male to return from shop or tavern to say a $100 bike or the pursuit of balls (base-foot-, golf, or what not) is more important to Jr. than getting true answers to life's deep questions and challenges. No wonder the Russians beat us into orbits. Or is may be he wants the money for his outboard motor or the gun with which to murder deer or pheasants as he imagines himself another Dan Boone in the American wilderness.

FINALLY (time for this, isn't it?), I have seen an illustration of the intelligence levels of animals with the chimpanezee at the top. I recently read in your "comic" section that the whale and the porpoise are more intelligent. However that may be, I have seen monkeys ride a bicycle, throw a ball, and even eat at table, but neither they nor whales nor porpoises have yet been caught reading a book.

The moral is: spend your money making your children good animals. Don't waste it on making them human, the only kind of animals for whom books and real education are possible and who rule the earth by their minds — not their muscles.

Mayor Has 'Last Word'

The office of mayor of a city is a most powerful position. The man who holds such an office wields a great amount of authority especially when his ability is no less credulous than his companions in charge. And regardless of his particular situation there are a multitude of situations where the powers of this good office are almost omnipotent in scope.

Particularly is all this true as it involves the instructions and orders of directions or rules or regulations which a mayor sets forth for those in his employ if we are now willing to cease being naive. Possibly is this most evident as it involves the police department. The police department and the police chief can be no more effective in the execution of the logical duties of their office than a mayor will allow or command.

BY CONTRAST, however, when a police force is generally ineffective then unquestionably the responsibility goes directly to those of authority who have been negligent in their command. Most of us like our jobs. It's a slick way of getting to eat when we are hungry. So you can bet that no policeman or chief of police would dare betray the command nor show disrespect for the wish and desire of his superior which in this case is the mayor. Even this writer likes his job — so does the chief of police undoubtedly — and likely do all of the policemen. They will do just about anything that they are told to do in the line of the duties of their office short of course of doing a malicious wrong knowingly. Sometimes even a martyr might weaken in face of such adversity.

So in short you must know surely that the bidding is that of the mayor. Those executing his authority are the police. The chief of police is just a manager of some superior or advanced police knowledge and command. None of his attributes however can ever be hoped to be put to use without the proper background.

The lessons of example which we can study about us give us a little more insight into what good authority means in types of cases which we have not been caused to study locally. Take Decatur and the issues of gambling. Where there is a nest of such sorts within the confines of a city limits, as exemplified by Decatur of late, we can see at once how effective can be the word of proper authority and command.

WITHOUT BEING especially mindful of any such allusion that there might be any such infestation of our congested area, it still comes to the attention that power and authority can be used most effectively if that proves to be the desire. Even in the application against parking violations is the essence of this word manifest.

And either we have such purpose of authority or we do not. Actions surely still speak louder than words.

A. R. McIntyre
Mayor, Wheeling, Ill.

Do Eggheads Have Values?

These remarks are directed to columnist Martin E. Marty.

What is your definition of an egghead? I know several people of intelligence who are not eggheads. I know others who have acquired a so-called education who are not intelligent and only associate with those of like education, and because of their knowledge, use their "poorer brothers" to promote their self interests and ambitions, leaving their lesser brothers in ignorance. This is done in churches, service clubs and in other citizen groups. Seems those of education have forgotten their moral values. Instead of helping, they hinder and use.

WHEN THE matter of communism in the churches was brought up, why didn't those of education seek truth, instead of running away from it? They still have the opportunity. Are they going to allow it to remain and grow?

One infiltrated church is active locally in an internal subversion manner, and by 1962 hopes to "convert" several smaller denominatons.

Itasca: Although Itasca is flourishing we must admit that in automobiling it will have to wake up. . .Annie Glanz and Annie Wolf attended the party at Otto Hahn's Sunday eve. The girls had a pleasure ride there in Wm. Blume's new auto. Bill says he is not afraid of rain or anything of that sort because he knows his car will always go, if enough grub is in the nailers. . . .People are thankful to Mr. Baruth for the opportunity to enjoy a nice dish of ice cream on hot nights.

Roselle: The three new autos were out Sunday making their initial trips. The Stanley Steamers are dandy machines. . .John C. Hattendorf and family attended the big Kehe-Reese wedding at Arlington Heights, Thursday, going over in their big touring car. . .Judge Shering's Court was grinding out the usual number of cases Saturday afternoon. The law business keeps him so busy that he hasn't time to water his automobile.

Arlington Heights: Miss Martha Kehe, eldest daughter of Fred Kehe, and Mr. Wm. F. Reese were married at St. Peter's church, Thursday, May 26th. Over 100 families were invited and a grand celebration of the event is in progress at the home of the bride's parents, Thursday afternoon and evening, as we go to press.

Editorial Musings: The Board of Local Improvements now constitute the entire village board who are men of good average ability, competent to do their duty and if given a fair show will bring about the best results. No good can come of horrowing up old animosities. Why not be sensible and seek harmony otherwise you retard the natural growth of our town and keep it a backwoods village instead of a thriving city which it ought to be. Let's lay aside all personal strife and seek the best interest of all and thus mutually prosper. No individual nor faction can dictate to the board so let them alone and don't stir up any more quarrels. Every member has plenty private business to look after and no time to waste on bickerings. Public affairs will receive due attention if all pull together and dispatch business.

Burkitt's Garage is a first-class up-to-date garage, and a great advantage to the community. Arlington Heights: Miss Isabelle Cuny has the honor of being the first scholar chosen from a student class to play the piano at the Commencement Excercises of the American Conservatory of Music to be held June 22 at the Auditorium. Heretofore only post graduates have been permitted to play, but on account of unusual talent displayed Miss Cuny was chosen to play on this occasion. Saturday May 15, she played in a public concert at Kimball Hall, at which Mr. Joseph Thevinne, the great Russian pianist, officiated as judge. His decision as to prize winner was in her favor so she will play the Greig, A Minor concerto, assisted by members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Miss Cuny at her young age is a student of Heniot Levy of the Conservatory, from which she is graduating, also on Thursday evening, June 22.

Mrs. Fred Meier died Thursday evening May 20th. Funeral was held in St. Peter's Lutheran Church Sunday, May 3, Rev. Noack officiating. Miss August Gieseke was born in Schaumburg, August 15, 1866, confirmed in 1880, and on April 5, 1885, joined in wedlock with Fred Meier. After their marriage in Elk Grove they moved to Arlington Heights, on the farm now owned by their son Fred A. Meier, where they lived until about six years ago when they moved to their home in town. They were blessed with seven children, one died in infancy. Mourning her demise are her husband, two sons, and four daughters: Wm. E. Meier, Mrs. John Kreft, Mrs. Louis Kirchhoff, F. A. Meier, Mrs. Fred Oldenburg, and her youngest daughter, Ella at home, 14 grandchildren, a brother and a sister.

Observer's Notes: Wasn't that a nice piece, the Palatine Enterprise man put in his column about "Observer" last week? My! but it listened good. Many thanks - a bit of appreciation is good, even to a hard headed old writer, long schooled in the ways of Journalism, even before the Enterprise was born. Let me assure this bright, promising young man, of whom we hope excellent things, that I have been young and now I am, well not so darned old. Yet I have never seen a writer forsaken, nor his columns begging to be read, who has frankly, fearlessly and with right intent, told the truth. Now mark you, "with right intent," always to build, and to better, never to hurt or destroy.

Palatine: Between the high price of gasoline and the high bumps in Palatine roads there is little pleasure in sight for the Palatine owners of autos. But C. E. Comfort says the number of lumps in the pathway of his auto as he joy-rides about the town, does not worry him so much as does the lack of lumps of coal in his bins, for next winter's consumption. We can't worry about that now - what we are troubled about now is keeping the milk sweet without ice.

Memorial Day Observances: Palatine to honor her dead heroes Sunday and Monday., Hon. Edw. Shurtleff, speaker. After excercises, the marchers will proceed to Cady cemetery to decorate the graves. . .Arlington Hts. will observe Monday, May 31, as Decoration Day. Program will be held at the school house after the usual parade of Police, Village, Council, Color Bearer, G. A. R. in automobiles, World War Veterans marching, auto for visiting delegations, band, Fire Department, and School Children. After the exercises, parade will reform and proceed to the cemetery to decorate the graves. . .

30 years ago - May 23, 1930

Mount Prospect: Decoration Day observances will consist of the usual parade, formed at the Village ball park, consisting of the band, the Boy Scouts of America, The Veterans of Foreign Wars, their Auxiliary, the Camp Fire Girls, and the school children of the public and parochial schools. Flag raising ceremony will be held at the parochial school. At the public school grounds Hon. Wm. Busse, Sr. will speak, the school children will sing and present flag drills, Mayor Herman F. Meyn will then speak; the band will play, and Dr. Judson F. Lee will give an address. Following completion of this program, an automobile parade will go to Elk Grove cementery on State Road, for formal ceremony of decorating the graves there.

Schaumberg - Roselle: Mrs. Louisa Pauling passed away at the home of her sister, Mrs. Sophia Griffin in Roselle, on May 16. Mrs. Pauling was born at Schaumburg, March 16, 1860, and since the death of her husband Feb. 15, 1926, she has made her home with her sister. She leaves her children, Edward Pauling and family, Gerta, wife of Chas. Bartelt, and Alvina, wife of Albert Petersohn; a sister, Mrs. Sophie Griffin, and brother, August Bentrott; 4 grandchildren, Wilbert Pauling, Earl Petersohn, and LaVerne and Marian Bartelt. The deceased was united in marriage to William Pauling at Arlington Heights March 12, 1886. Since her confirmation at the age of 16, Mrs. Pauling had been an active worker in the St. Paul Evangelical Ladies Aid at Bloomingdale. She was a member for forty years. Funeral was held Tuesday May 20th, with interment in St. Paul Evangelical cemetery.

Palatine: Sixty-four years after the close of the Civil War the time has arrived when Palatine is without a Civil War veteran to participate in the Memorial Day exercises. Mr. August Kimmet was the last of the local veterans to pass on. Services will be held at Hillside and Cady cemeteries, and the Rev. W. E. Briggs of Aurora, will be the speaker of the day.

Arlington Heights: Mr. Fred Kehe, Sr., retired farmer, 3 N. Belmont Avenue, passed away this morning, aged 72. He leaves three sons and four daughters.

20 years ago - May 31, 1940

Arlington Heights: One of the largest graduation classes in the history of the Arlington Heights High School, 107, will receive diplomas June 6th, from the hands of C. I. Davis, president of the high school Board of Education. On June 5th, 56 graduates of the A. H. elementary schools will receive their diplomas from N. A. Carlson, president of the Board of Education.

Memorial Day exercises here will bring together one of the largest groups that ever participated in a memorial Day program here. Over a 1000 school children will assemble with representatives from most of the organizations in the community and parade to Memorial Park where ceremonies will be held. Rudolph J. Rizzi, Commander of VFW post 981 will read General Order 11 for the Day, and Elmer W. Crane, Commander, Merle Guild Post 208, will present the Roll Call. The Memorial Day address will be delivered by G. Rex Volz. The High School Band will give two selections - "America" and "God Bless America."

"Arlington P.T.A. has the distinction of having had the best program in the state for this year," said Mrs. Holland Flagler, State program Chairman of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers. She further stated it was so judged because of the development of the theme, method of presentation, member participation, demonstration of school work by children, and community service. It met fully the objectives as outlined by the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers.

10 years ago - May 26, 1950

Arlington Heights: 196 will graduate from Arlington High June 8. 40 years ago, 1910, saw the first class receive its diplomas. The graduates were George Klehm and Esther Stanger (Mrs. August Rennak, Glenview).

Bill Utterback and Chuck Bracke will exhibit their work created during the past year at the annual Student Exhibition of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. June 1 thru 4th, when the galleries of the school will be open to the public.

Wheeling: Construction on the new addition to Wheeling Consolidated District 21, will begin this week. Andy Anderson, local builder, was awarded the contract, Henry Stopa, architect. The present yellow brick building was erected in 1925 when Frank Forke was school board president, Charles Utpadel, clerk, and Charles Balling, member. The Chamber of Commerce built the gymnasium for use by the school and as a community center in 1937. The bond issue for $125,000 was passed in a special election January 28. Members of the Board of Education who worked on the project are Owen Fordham, president, Roy Allison, secretary, Herbert Grandt, Ernest Stavros, Harold Weidner, Albert Nickol and Irv Koelper.

Palatine: Police Chief Herbert H. Moehling asked the Palatine Village board Monday evening for additional police help and possible increased salaries. He drew the board's attention to the fact that in 1946, with a population of 3000, Palatine had four police officers, and while there are today 1200 more residents depending on police protection there are still only four officers. An additional police car is needed, but the department is willing to aid in its purchase from funds of its next money-making event. The department, at its own expense, is remodeling the former court room for police offices and will purchase from town funds needed equipment.

Bensenville area: Voters of Community High School District 100 will get another chance to approve a bond issue for the purchase of a new site and the erection of a new senior high school building on June 10th. This district serves the communities of Wood Dale, Churchville, Lincoln School district, and Bensenville. The program proposed is the same as submitted to voters April 29 at which time the propositions lost by a narrow margin. It is believed that building a new school at a new site would be the more economical plan in the long run, rather than try to build additions to the present school. The rapidly increasing school enrollments and many new homes being erected in the area, makes the school expansion program necessary.

Roselle: A Business Men's association has been organized here to improve Roselle as a convenient shopping center for surrounding areas and to promote needed civic projects. Executive group is composed of Henry Botterman, Henry Rodewald, Rayman Scamehorn, Edwin Gieseke, and Herbert Gieseke.

Arlington Heights: The public elementary school graduating class numbers 99; St. Peter Lutheran will graduate 27 eighth graders, and St. James Catholic School has 39 graduates.

Arlington Heights Woman's Club has been awarded second place in a state-wide "Build a Better Community" contest, which was sponsored by the Kroeger company. Due to the size of its membership Arlington's entry was placed in Class A, comprising the larger clubs of the state, of which there were 32 entries. First place went to Dixon.

Obituaries: Funeral services will be held Saturday for Miss Lydia M. Decker of Cary, Ill., Rev. W. F. Kamphenkel officiating, interment Arlington Heights cemetery. Miss Decker was born Nov. 6, 1864 in Palatine. Survivors include two nephews, John W. and Ralph E. Burkitt, and one niece, Mrs. Hazel A. Schmitz.

Funeral services were held last Sunday for Fred Henry Gusewelle of 111 So. Bothwell, Palatine, Rev. Glenn Gumm officiating Interment Hillside cemetery. Mr. Gusewelle was born Dec. 28, 1875, in Palatine township. He lived on the farm at Quintens Road and West Chicago Ave. for 41 years, and in 1946 retired from farming and sold his property coming to Palatine to live. He died May 19, age 74. Survivors include his wife, Leila, son Fred G., a granddaughter Shirley, one brother William of Palatine, one niece and two nephews.

Hiring of Summer Help Urged by State Service

This is commencement time and soon many high school and college students will be looking for full-time and summer employment.

Illinois State employment service, located at 5306 W. Lawrence ave., has urged employers in this area to re-evaluate their hiring policy and review their job openings with a view of using youth in suitable vacancies.

The employment service has found that many employers are reluctant to use young people because they are unaware of the requirements contained in the Illinois Child Labor law and the Federal Wage and Hour law.

Some of the principal provisions are as follows:

CHILDREN WHO are 14 years of age and have not reached their 16th birthday must secure an employment certificate in order to work legally.

In the suburbs many high school principals have been designated as issuing officer for employment and age certificate.

There are many legal occupations for children over 14.

These occupations include clerical workers, stenographers, typists, office workers, file clerks, page boys, switchboard operators in hotel or retail stores, receptionists, cashiers, mailing, car hops, fountain clerks, tray girls, bus boys, waiters, waitresses, caddies and nurses aides.

Nightwork is prohibited between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. During school vacation, the working day cannot be more than eight hours in any day nor more than 48 hours in any week.

CHILDREN WHO have reached their 16th birthday may work at any occupation insofar as the Illinois Child Labor law is concerned.

However any firm engaged in interstate commerce must also comply with the Federal Fair Labor Standards act.

This act prohibits children who are 16 but still under 18 years of age from working in 13 hazardous occupations.

The 13 hazardous occupation orders issued under this act are:

1. Manufacturing or storage occupations involving explosives.
2. Motor-vehicle occupations.
3. Coal-mine occupations.
4. Logging and sawmilling occupations.
5. Power-driven woodworking machine occupations.
6. Occupations involving exposure to radio-active substances and to ionizing radiations.
7. Power-driven hoisting apparatus occupations.
8. Power driven metal forming, punching, and shearing machine occupations.
9. Occupations in connection with mining, other than coal.
10. Slaughtering meat packing, and rendering plant occupations.
11. Power-driven bakery machine occupations.
12. Power-driven paper products machine occupations
13. Occupations involved in the manufacture of brick, tile, and kindred products.

AGE CERTIFICATES are not mandatory under the Federal Labor Standards act. However, employers are advised in all cases to require an age certificate as verification of the child's age, thus protecting him against inadvertently violating the child labor laws.

For further information or advice about specific problems, employers are encouraged to call the women's and children's division of the Illinois Department of Labor, FInancial 6-2000.

For a selection from hundreds of college, high school graduates, students, and teachers, one should call Illinois State employment service, AVenue 3-2544.

Scientific Prayer Provides Answers

Divine authority which leads to freedom from fear, sickness, sin, and want, is within reach of all, John D. Pickett of Chicago told an audience here recently.

A member of the Christian Science board of lectureship, Pickett spoke in Prospect high school theatre, under the auspices of First Chruch of Christ, Scientist, Arlington Heights.

The fast-changing events of today's world point to the great need of all mankind for an authority, a lawful or rightful power, under which they can live, work, and rejoice in true security, Pickett stated.

Speaking on the subject, "Christian Science: the Joy of Living by Divine Authority," he said that the "inevitable appeal of Christian Science is that it reveals such an authority to be right at hand and within the reach of all."

It was with divine authority that Christ Jesus spoke, healed, and overcame adverse conditions of every kind, he observed.

JESUS TAUGHT his followers," he declared, "that the same Christ-power which he exercised is universally available for all mankind to use through spiritually enlightened consciousness, and he showed his followers how to exercise this healing authority."

Scientific prayer provides the answer to mankind's search for freedom from war, racial prejudice, incurable disease, and mental illness, he maintained.

Prayer or treatment in Christian Science, he noted, involves the affirmation of the presence and power of God — and the denial of any seeming power of evil to oppose the allness of good.

"But, even more," he declared, "it is the spiritual conviction of God's presence that manifests the divine authority of spiritural law."

for those bills — heavy installment payments — and other items. Then see.
CONSOLIDATED
for the cash to consolidate your bills — lower your monthly payments — and make it easier to enjoy life. CONSOLIDATED will provide you with $1200—$1800—$2500 or more.

(Loans range from $820 to $3000 and available to individuals on signature, household goods, auto.)

Sample Payment Schedule:

Amount Borrowed	24 Month	36 Months
$1200	$ 61.99	$ 45.35
1800	93.19	68.15
2500	129.18	94.50

*These payments include an insurance policy with Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., which pays your contract in full in the event of death from any cause.

Proper Attitude Key to Happiness

LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

We are accustomed to believing that we are entitled to happiness; that if we do not have it, it is not our own fault, and we are being abused. Sometimes we think of happiness as something that happens to some people, while others, less lucky, are passed by.

The big question is, where can happiness be found, if we do not have it. Is it something that comes with wealth? or health? or success in a certain field? Does it come with marriage, so that from the instant the words "I pronounce you man and wife" are spoken, bride and groom will live happily ever afterward? Do children bring us happiness?

THE ANSWER, of course, is yes, all these things can bring lasting, wonderful happiness, and can add to happiness we already have. But, as a farmer has to prepare his ground to receive the seeds he plants, so we must prepare our hearts, that the seeds of happiness — the wealth, children, marriage, whatever they may be — will germinate and flourish there. They can not grow on barren ground.

If we have selfish hearts, filled with self pity, fear, hatred, or anger; if we have no sense of gratitude or good judgement or our own worthiness or importance; if we can not see our own faults and correct them, but magnify those of others; if we expect good things with little or no effort on our part to attain them, we will never have lasting happiness.

If, on the other hand, we are unselfish, humble, do not expect to have the whole world for our particular apple; fi we learn to love beauty, people, children; if little things, little kindnesses that others do for us fills our hearts with gratitude and love that we are not afraid to express; if we love our work and do not consider it as a punishment; if we can see ourselves as we really are in our relationship to God and to our fellowmen, we have the ingredients of happiness.

Anything we do to improve ourselves, even more, the world we live in and our own community, brings happiness. We need also, faith in God, a clean conscience, and to accept Christ as our Savior. Happiness, like everything worth having, must be earned.

WORD STUDY

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

VINDICATION; justification; defense. "Her apology is no vindication of her recent conduct."

SPASMODIC; lacking continuity; intermittent; as, "spasmodic zeal."

INTREPID; void of fright or trembling. "The position calls for intrepid leadership."

DISPARAGE; to speak slightingly of; to depreciate; to undervalue. "Politicians are always disparaging the records of their opponents."

DOUGHTY; valiant; able. (Pronounce dou-ti, accent first syllable). "The doughty soldier was decorated for his achievements."

Safety Engineers Cite People as Major Problem

Superhighways have virtually eliminated many types of traffic hazards, Harry Porter, Jr., manager of the National Safety Council's traffic department, pointed out recently.

"But new problems have replaced old ones on the high-speed roads," he said.

"Before the era of the expressway, major boobytraps for drivers were dangerous intersections and head-on collisions.

"But engineers couldn't eliminate people — and people are persistent in finding ways to kill themselves in autos."

ONE EASY way to have an accident, said Porter, is to drive too fast for conditions.

Porter said excessive speed does two things:

1. It gives a driver less time to think and react in an emergency.

2. It increases the severity of an accident if one occurs.

BUT SLOW drivers cause trouble, too, Porter pointed out. Accidents often result from "conflict of movement," he said — one car traveling a lot slower than the others, for example.

"Such differences in speed," he said, "cause one of the most common superhighway accidents — the rear-end collision. Fast drivers can close the gap on a slower vehicle ahead quicker than they expect, and may swing out too late to avoid ramming the slower car.

"Multiple chain-reaction crashes occur because of following other cars too closely on high-speed roads. Leaving one car length between you and the car ahead for every 10 m.p.h. of your speed is outmoded on superhighways.

"Remember that at 40 m.p.h. your car will go at least 44 feet between the time you see danger and the time your foot hits the brake. It takes an additional 105 feet to stop, if your brakes are good.

"But at 70 m.p.h., it takes 77 feet just to hit the brakes — and 455 more feet to stop."

PORTER CITED five rules for superhighway driving:

1. Don't follow other cars too close.

2. Don't stop on the superhighway — speeding cars can't avoid danger in time.

3. Don't take your eyes off the road.

4. Don't believe that because you're on a superhighway you're immune to the hazards of bad weather. There's no superhighway designed to make ice less slippery or fog less dense.

5. Form the one-lane habit. Don't straddle lanes, and change only one lane at a time.

The girls, who will take an active part in the entertainment planned for the three-day event, are Linda Mittag, Lynda Wilds, Niki Abrams who is queen of the show, Linda Clark, Diane Thorsen and Lynn Smith. Do not say, "May I have a hot cup of coffee?" Say, "May I have a cup of HOT COFFEE," placing the adjective "hot" next to the noun "coffee," which it modifies.

SANITARY conditions may be either good or bad, while SANATORY conditions are always good. Thus: The sanitary conditions of the town should be improved," and, "The climate is sanatory."

The "of" following "inside" is correct in the adverbial meaning "in less than," as in the expression, "Inside of five minutes." However, in other meanings, "of" is unnecessary, as in the expression, "I'll be inside the bank."

Do not say, "She typewrote the letter to me." Say, "She TYPED the letter."

Physical Therapy Both New and Old

Physical therapy has been defined as the art and science of dealing with the prevention, correction and alleviation of disease and injury by employing manual and other physical means and devices according to the prescription of a physician.

It is administered by a physical therapist who is a professional person with special skills and judgment acquired through an extended period of general and specialized study and experience which enables him to devote himself to the practice of physical therapy. He serves with other members of the rehabilitation team to aid the ill and handicapped to achieve maximum restoration of physical function.

PHYSICAL THERAPY is both a new and an old branch of the healing arts. Early Greek and Roman writings referred to the beneficial effect of sun and water. Both exercise and massage were used by the ancient Chinese, Persians, Egyptians and Greeks for their therapeutic effects. The newness of physical therapy is related to the recognition of its contribution to the practice of modern medicine.

Although the profession was established in England in the late 1800's, by 1941 there were still only 1,200 qualified therapists in the United States. The excellent results of physical therapy in the treatment of war-injured and industrial and civilian injuries during World War II did a great deal toward developing the extensive use of physical therapy we have today. There are only 8,000 registered therapists practicing today compared to a need for 15,000.

MOST GENERAL hospitals today have a physical therapy department for the treatment of many illnesses. Some of the conditions for which physical therapy is prescribed are amputations, arthritis, burns, bursitis, cerebral palsy, cerebral vascular lesions, chest and heart conditions, circulatory diseases, congenital deformities, fractures, lacerations, multiple sclerosis, muscular dystrophy, obstetrical and gynecological conditions, poliomyelitis, posture, skin diseases, spinal cord injuries, sprains and strains.

The most common procedures and treatment applications used by physical therapists are hydrotherapy, diathermy and infra red heat, ultraviolet light, ultrasonic therapy, massage, hot and cold baths and packs, parafin bath and special exercises for conditions such as weak muscles, stiff joints, incoordination and posture. Parallel bars, posture mirrors, pulley weights, shoulder wheel, stationary bicycle, walker, steps and curb are additional equipment used.

FOUR YEARS of college study are necessary to earn a bacheor's degree in physical therapy. A certificate is awarded to college graduates who take 12 to 16 months of concentrated physical therapy courses.

Recipients of a degree or certificate have equal professional recognition and status.

GOP Women Attend Meet, Endorse Ike

Mrs. Walter Brown president of the Wheeling township Women's Republican club and Mrs. Marty Keller attended the annual meeting of the Illinois Federation of Republican Women held May 16 and 17 in Springfield, and returned with the club's state charter.

Both ladies attended the Governor's tea on May 17 at the executive mansion.

During this two-day meeting, vital national issues were discussed, and the following resolutions were unanimously approved by the voting body:

"WHEREAS, the Soviet system employs more than 250,000 spies to steal the industrial, political and military secrets of the free world, and 2,589 Comunist spies have confessed operating in in West Germany alone; and

WHEREAS the Communists believe in sneak, surprise attacks, and they launched attacks without warning on Finland, Poland and South Korea, and Khrushchev has boasted to the United States; "We will bury you';

RESOLVED, that the Illinois Federation of Republican Women commend President Eisenhower for using the best intelligent means, including photographic planes, to prevent another disaster like Pearl Harbor — which the Democrats then in power could have prevented had they used only normal intelligence.

WHEREAS, certain political demagogues are promoting the Forand Bill as a something-for-nothing measure to buy votes durin an election year; and

WHEREAS, the Democrats who are promoting the Forand Bill have consistently promoted inflation-producing deficit spending, which is the cruelest burden on our senior citizens; and

WHEREAS, the Forand Bill is estimated to cost $2 billion the first year and to increase to $7 billion by 1980 in a constantly-increasing burden on our taxpayers;

RESOLVEED, that the Illinois Federation of Republican Women request our Senators and Representatives to oppose the Forand Bill which is an election-year raid on the Treasury for the purpose of buying votes with the taxpayers' money."

Members of the Wheeling township Womens' Republican club will be entertaining neighbors and friends during June, July and August in an effort to raise funds for forthcoming activities.

Area women interested in having a fund-raising party or workig to get out the Republican vote may contact Mrs. John Davis, CL 3-3985.

Israel-Bingel Nuptials Unite Families

Two Palatine families were united in the marriage of Marilyn Joyce Israel and Willard A. Bingel Jr., which took place the afternoon of May 7 in Immanuel Lutheran church of Palatine. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Koskela, 878 N. Franklin, was given in marriage by her brother, Allen P. Israel. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bingel Sr., 44 E. Hellen rd.

The bridal pair both were graduated from Palatine high school and both are employed in Palatine. Since their week's honeymoon at the Wagon Wheel at Rockton, Ill., they are residing at 429 W. Main st., Barrington.

Pastor R. C. Sauer united the couple before an altar banked with vases of white gladioli and white mums. The bride's uncle, E. Unrath, was organist, and her cousin, Marjorie Unrath, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Wedding Prayer."

FOR THE double ring ceremony the bride chose an embroidered net over taffeta wedding gown with scalloped neckline and short sleeves, complemented by white embroidered net gloves and a fingertip veil held by a pearl and rhinestone crown. Her bridal bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by carnations, stephanotis, gladioli and ivy.

Joanne Haemker of Palatine was maid of honor in a white embroidered silk organza over turquoise taffeta dress and turquoise picture hat. Her bouquet was a cascade of yellow carnations, gladioli and ivy. Gowned identically to the maid of honor were bridesmaids Nancy Bingel, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Arliss Zoellick of Woodstock. Serving as flower girls were the bride's 4-year-old nieces, Dorothy Erdmann of Chicago and Beverly Bach of Palatine. They wore dresses identical to the adult attendants and carried yellow bouquets. Their dresses were made by a friend of the bride's family, Gail Totman.

THE bridegroom's brother, Ronald Bingel was best man, and ushers were Raymond Israel, brother of the bride, and Edward Gunder of Palatine. Serving as ring bearer was the bride's nephew, 5-year-old Gary Wohl of Chicago.

Receiving 250 guests at a gathering in the Amvet hall in Wheeling following the ceremony were the bride's mother in beige lace over taffeta with light green accessories and the bridegroom's mother in mauve pink net and lace over taffeta with matching accessories. Each had an orchid corsage.

The new Mrs. Bingel is employed by the Illinois Bell Telephone company in the accounting department, and her bridegroom is associated with Prudential Insurance company. (S

Mrs. Irl Marshall Named State Committeewoman

Mark H. Beaubien, Republican state central committeeman for the 13th congressional district, today announced the appointment of Mrs. Irl Marshall of Deerfield as state central comitteewoman for Lake county.

Mrs. Marshall, who has long been active in political activities, has been actively connected with the 13th district Women's Republican club since its beginning 10 years ago. She served as the first chairman of membership for Lake county and later as program chairman and township director. In 1955-56, Mrs. Marshall was president of the Illinois Federation of Republican Women.

BESIDES her political activity, she has long given time and energy to philanthropic work, serving actively with the Girl Scouts and recently as chairman of the Lake County Red Cross fund drive.

Wm. Reeses Mark Golden Anniversary

An afternoon open house for friends and neighbors and an evening get-together for the immediate family and bridal party members will mark the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Reese, 309 W. Mueller, Arlington Heights. The couple, married May 26, 1910, will observe their anniversary Sunday, May 29.

Mrs. Reese, the former Martha Kehe, daughter of Fred Kehe, an Arlington Heights farmer, was born in the village and has been a resident of the area her entire life. Mr. Reese, son of Henry Reese, also a farmer, was born in Palatine. The couple were married in St. Peter Lutheran church, Arlington Heights, and lived in Palatine for eight years before moving to Arlington Heights in 1917.

MR. REESE has owned and operated his own store, now known as Ace Hardware in Arlington Heights, since 1925. Previous to that, he was with Otto Landmeier hardware store in Arlington Heights. Also active in his business are his two daughters, Mrs. Edwin Kolzez and Mrs. Henry Finke.

Hairdressers To Meet June 1

Members of Northwest Suburban Hairdressers and Cosmetologists will hold their monthly meeting Wednesday, June 1, at 9 p.m. in the Lake Zurich hotel. Guest artist for the meeting will be John Ippolito, a member of the Chicago unit style body.

Nat'l Magazine Features Inverness Home's Kitchen

Visitors at the Inverness garden tour last week were thrilled to inspect an all white country kitchen featured in the June issue of American Home magazine. The kitchen was in the home of Mrs. Charles S. Johnston, 231 Dewey, and was one of several featured in the American Home.

Each kitchen featured emphasizes the charm of yesterday yet with the ease of 1960 and proves that "decorating style and kitchen planning can join hands with remarkably successful results."

MRS. JOHNSTON'S workable kitchen features a pass-through with louvred doors done in creamy white to take colorful accessories. Pine cabinets were treated with three coats of white paint, each wiped off while wet to obtain a mellow effect. A final coat of burnt umber was wiped off to create an antique finish. A white brick "cooking wall" houses major appliances and cooking surface and barbecue unit are surrounded with a white marble counter top.

Antique accessories and dramatic light fixture offer a striking contrast to the white color scheme.

Mrs. Johnston's home was one of several on the club's tour and displayed flower arrangements in both the living and dining rooms. The dining room arrangement was for a 50th wedding anniversary dinner and earned a red ribbon from the club.

"CARMEN MIRANDA," alias Mrs. Joseph Christenbury, entertained the "boys" in service, left to right, Mrs. Pat Stanat, Mrs. Ron Ragnetti and Mrs. Helen Buxton, and guests at the Junior Woman's club of Palatine for its recent last meeting of the club year. The entertainment committee, under direction of Mrs. Jerry Lindberg, presented a "Hysterical Historical," outlining events of the last four decades. Other members of the committee were Ginnie Hammerl, Hazel Lammey, Anita Carney, Dorothy Dougherty, Elayne Bramwell, Marilyn Bradshaw, Dolores McDaniel and Bobbette Gullett.

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

A Lesson for All

Dear Peg:

I'm going to tell you about this incident, just as it was told to us by our friends Ken and Ellie who came over for dinner the other night. At first, we thought the story very amusing—only on second thought did the terrifying aspects of the thing become apparent.

It happened last week at the time Khrushchev shocked the world by his destruction of the summit conference. Ellie had just finished dressing her little boys to go out and play and was about to have a second cup of coffee, before starting in on the same old morning routine, when the phone rang. She picked it up and listened, as Ken on the other end of the line said in a voice that was hardly audible:

"Bill's wife just called the office and said that she heard on the TV—that Khrushchev torpedoed the Nautilus! Now don't get excited—just get the kids in and turn on the radio—maybe you can get some news."

Feeling as if she might faint, all Ellie could say was "Oh, no!" And then, "Wait a minute, I'll turn on right now—there must be something about it—hold on."

She turned on the radio and flipping from station to station held her breath as she listened for the terrible words that could mean the destruction of the world. There was no unusual news.

"Surely they'd be breaking into programs with this news, if it has really happened," Ellie said to Ken, leaving the radio on while she returned to the phone. At that moment the news came on and some commentator started talking about the breakup of the conference. Still no news of any submarine being torpedoed.

"I can't understand it. I'll let you know if I hear anything else." And with that Ken hung up, leaving a shattered wife.

That evening the headlines in the newspaper read "Khrushchev Torpedoes Summit." Obviously, some TV newscaster had used these very words earlier in the day and through a mistake in her hearing a listener threw sheer panic into several people. It could take no more than just such a slight mistake to suddenly hurl two jittery nations into war. We must be so careful these days to listen to and interpret correctly all that we hear.

My love,

Patty.

Dinner Dance Set for June 5

St. John the Baptist Greek Orthodox church of Des Plaines, will hold its annual dinner dance Sunday, June 5, at the Villa Venice Supper Club, Northbrook, beginning with a cocktail hour at 5 p.m. Dinner will be served at 6:30.

This affair is being sponsored by the church's women's club for the benefit of the church building fund.

Chairman of the dance is Mrs. Christian Bazos of Elgin.

Quite Contrary by Mary

Golf Is Maddening

MANY IS THE TIME I have been all shook up while playing that maddening game, golf. In fact, I go around the entire course in a highly nervous state. I have always thought it was because I play so badly.

For instance, I hit the ball and right away I am in trouble. If there is a trap, I'm in it. If there is water, I'm in it. The same applies to bushes, gopher holes, highways, trees and cornfields. You name it and I'm in it.

But, I'm feeling a little better about the whole thing. I have a friend who plays a pretty snazzy game of golf. I mean she knows what a fairway is and manages to stay in its immediate vicinity. Except the other day when she came completely apart at the seams.

She stepped blithely up to a tee on a water hole and gaily pointed out to us duffers that trick number one was to get the ball over the water. With that she took a cut at the ball and it rolled off the tee for the mighty distance of two inches. "Ha ha," she said. She then laughingly told us that trick number 2 was to hit the ball.

With that she whammed one right into the water thereby doing trick number one. "Ha ha," she said. With that she whammed another one right into the water. "Ha ha ha," she said, but hollowly with just a trace of a quaver in her cheery voice. With that she whanged on right through the trees out onto one of the busiest highways in this part of the country.

We, who had started out by sort of laughing at her, started to commiserate. There welled up in our minds occasions when we too had wished the ground would quietly open and let us in. My personal feeling for her in her plight was one of kindredship. I felt really close to her in her time of travail.

I don't think she felt the same. She looked as though she hated everyone. And, I don't blame her.

Wheeling Jrs. End Eventful Year with Annual Banquet

Wearing their most glamorous cocktail dresses, members of Wheeling Junior Woman's club attended the annual banquet at the Union hotel May 18. The banquet marks the end of the old club year, and initiates the new club year.

The past year has been very eventful indeed ending with the Wheeling Juniors winning first place in the state of Illinois and being named one of the 10 finalists in the nation in the GFWC and Sears Roebuck Foundation $70,000 Community Achievement contest Members are all hopeful that the new club year will begin with the winning of the top national award at the GFWC convention in Washington D. C. June 16.

AN unexpected but welcome guest appeared during dinner. Gust Stavros, representing the business men of Wheeling township, surprised members by announcing that the business men in the area are sponsoring a $10 a plate benefit dinner at the Union hotel Wed., June 1, at 7:30 p.m.

Proceeds from the dinner will go to the Wheeling Juniors to pay members' expenses to the GFWC national convention. Mr. Stavros further stated that since Wheeling Juniors "have brought such great honor and pride to Wheeling, it is only fitting and proper that as many as possible be represented at Washington D.C. to receive the award for the club."

Tickets for the dinner can be obtained by calling LE 7-2105 or by making reservations at the Union hotel.

IT was also announced that arrangements had been made for members of the community achievement contest committee to be interviewed on the Vince Garrity radio program and on the Marty Faye show.

Following dinner, the annual meeting was held and final reports were given by outgoing officers and committee chairmen, including Mrs. William Farr, Mrs. Myron Johnson, Mrs. John Priesler, Mrs. Neil Martin, Mrs. Joseph Stiller, Mrs. Donald Swanson, Mrs. Gordon Hein, Mrs. Kenneth Bjertnes, Mrs. Gerald Kiffel, Mrs. Martin Chindblom, Mrs. William Wells, Mrs. Kenneth Gill Mrs. Mrs. Richard Holland, Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mrs. Godfrey Duke, Mrs. John Woods, Mrs. Edwin Wahlquist and Mrs. George Bobalko.

MRS. KENNETT Biertnes, outgoing publicity chairman, presented Mrs. William Farr with the year's press book, and expressed the hope that the press clippings and pictures contained therein would bring back many happy and rewarding memories of her term of office as 1959-60 club president..

NEW officers were then installed by Mrs. Myron Hartley, 7th district junior woman's club director of the IFWC in a solemn candlelight ceremony. Officers for 1960-61 are: President, Mrs. Donald Swanson; 1st vice president, Mrs. John Priesler; second vice president, Mrs. Joseph Stiller; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Donald Koelling; recording secretary Mrs. William Hayden; and treasurer, Mrs. Gerald Moore.

Mrs. Farr then presented Mrs. Swanson with the president's gavel, and Mrs. Swanson took over the remainder of the meeting. The new committee chairmen were announced. They are:

Ways and means, Mrs. John Woods; social, Mrs. Frank Cajka; publicity, Mrs. Edwin Matus; philanthropy, Mrs. Robert Steinman; program, Mrs. Gerald Kiffel; and membership Mrs. Kenneth Bjertnes.

Officers, committee chairmen and the immediate past president comprise the club's board of directors.

POOLSIDE PATIO of the Joseph Graffeo home in Mt. Prospect will be one of the homes on the annual garden walk to be presented June 15 by Mt. Prospect Garden club. Mrs. William Powell, seated, is co-ordinator of the show and Mrs. James Insolia, standing is chairman of the judges. With the ladies are Barbara Weber, showing her entry in "Zoo Parade," Barbara's brother, Craig, with his blue and gold Cub Scout entry and Linda Webb with her table arrangement. Linda's mother is chairman of the junior exhibit open to 6-14-year-olds. Tickets for the garden walk may be purchased at Lions park. Donation is $1.

Mary Ann Page Has Groom's 3 Sisters as Bridesmaids

A wedding in which the bridegroom's three sisters served as bridesmaids took place April 23 in St. Mary church, Des Plaines, when Miss Mary Ann Page, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James N. Page, 13 Edward Culdesac, Prospect Heights, and James F. Curry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Curry of Des Plaines, repeated their vows before Rev. William Buhrfiend. The double ring service was a 10 a.m. nuptial mass with a background of white lilies.

The bride's four attendants, Miss Marion Moore of Des Plaines as maid of honor and Grace, Bernida and Lorena Curry, were attired in a rainbow of organza dresses with bouquets of carnations tinted to match their gowns. Miss Moore's gown was in blue and the Curry sisters' gowns were in pink, yellow and aqua, respectively.

THE BRIDE chose a gown of bridal taffeta embroidered with white sequins and tiny pearls and with chapel-length train. Her veil was shoulder-length and was held by a crown of seed pearls. A white orchid covered the prayer-book she carried.

Mrs. Page chose a beige lace dress over pale green taffeta with which she wore a corsage of pink and white carnations. Mrs. Curry chose a blue silk dress and pink carnation corsage.

Ronald Gassner of Des Plaines was the bridegroom's best man and ushers were Frank Hall of Madison, the bride's brother, James Page Jr., and Jimmy John Klocke of Glen Ellyn.

ONE HUNDRED thirty guests attended the reception in the Moose lodge, Des Plaines.

(Jenart Photo

The newlyweds are at home at 1622 Henry ave., Des Plaines, where both are employed by the Pillsbury Co. The bride was graduated from Maine township high school and Northern Illinois university. The bridegroom was graduated from Maryville academy and Loyola.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

by DOLORES HAUGH

Cherry Blossom Party

Maytime Birthday children are lucky - maypoles, flowers and all the lovliness of Spring can be used for them when they celebrate their birthdays. But here is an idea with a little different twist for the May-Birthday Miss. Have a Japanese Cherryblossom party. The theme may be used for a luncheon, mothers and daughter's banquet, or a costume party any time of year.

Invitations

The invitations are pieces of bright colored paper 7 inches by 3 inches long, made into fans. Pleat the paper for the fan but open it up and on the creases, write or print in letters with an oriental slant:

Child's name - Oriental Cheeryblossom Birthday
Time: 5 p.m. dinner
Place: address
Costumes Optional

Staple ribbons to the paper and thus make the fan invitation.

We made the costumes optional so that no one would stay away just because they did not have time, or their mothers did not take t h e time, to make costumes. If the girl has an oriental pair of pajamas, a colorful robe, or just black slacks and a mandrin type blouse, it is costume enough.

IT IS AN excellent way to get a new pair of pajamas, or a costume which could be used the following Halloween so actually this party costume to remember when you give any costume party is to try and keep it to ordinary garb people usually already possess or which can be used after the party is over.

Decorations

The table will be the focal point as it will be a low table made from planks and four cement building blocks or bricks. Cover the boards with plain green cloth or if you have reed beach mats they make excellent coverings.

Tiny erasers with bead head resembling Japanese children have tiny paper parasols taped to them and announce where each girl is to sit. Or you may use the paper fan idea, stapling them to the card so that they are in an open upright position. Plain white dishes or of an oriental design may be used.

THE centerpiece can be bridal wreath in true oriental arrangement or perhaps a doll in native dress. Inexpensive ones may be purchased and used as the main prize of the evening.

Fans and parosols make water plants, figurines, tiny teacups and packets of various types of tea. Fan folded napkins add the final touch.

Menu

Chop Suey, Fluffy rice, menu. Chop sticks and a jello salad, tea, fortune cookies and of course a birthday cake decorated with parosols or a tiny doll make up the lesson on how to use them adds a note of authenticity and it is fun; however, when preparing the chop suey, cut the pieces of meat very small and chop the bean sprouts, and eliminate the jello and substitute tossed salad cut fine.

Of course, if this is a meal for adults you can go into all kinds of exotic Cantonese food easily obtained at local restaurants, an easy way for the hostess to enjoy her party.

Entertainment

For a little girl party, games using rice and old favorites re-named like Coolie Capers or Rice Rise add to the party theme and the old games take on new flavor, an oriental flavor.

All gifts and prizes are bedecked with cherryblossoms or fans. Pictures in c o l o r are so much fun to look back on. After all the eating and fortunes are read, have the birthday child open her gifts.

ANOTHER oriental custom, beside removing the sh o e s when they arrive, is the presentation of the gift which is preceeded by a low bow and followed by a low bow. Sitting cross legged on the floor doesn't bother children but adults moan after the first course of the meal so better plan on chairs for o l d e r guests

An added attraction to the entertainment is the art of Japanese paper f o l d i n g. Books are available at the library and the girls get a lot of fun out of creating v a rious objects from an 8 inch square of paper.

Hope you will use t h i s idea, because your Cherryblossom Japanese party will have more than a Chinaman's chance of being a success. So be a cool-ie hostess and we do mean "occidentally."

P.S. If you have used any of Haugh to Plain a Par t y Ideas write and tell me. It's fun to know ideas grow. 7 S. Edward St. Mt. Prospect, Illinois. S

Dream of Lamp Shades Inspired Design Kit

There is new hope for those who are bored with all their present lamp shades but think they can't afford new ones.

Even fumble-fingers are supposed to whip up a lamp shade in a mere three or four hours—with the aid of a new kit designed by interior decorator Louise Pickens Lindahl.

All the necessary tools and materials come in the kit. Five motifs are available.

Butterfly motif: Glittering butterflies flutter among tiny red flowers and dried grass. The pattern may be applied to a chimney shaped shade to complete a traditional or early American room.

Clown pattern: Whimsical clowns are fashioned out of cloth. Buttons, sequins and safety pins trim their patched clothes. Brilliant red yarn serves as the hair.

Doll design: A boy in blue jeans and girl in a petite dress with lace pantaloons barely showing meet a dog and cotton-tailed bunny while on a walk. Daisies and tulips serve as accent pieces.

Duck motif: For the man of the house or the den, the shade highlights red and brown cloth decoys sitting among dried grass, sand and weeds.

A fifth kit contains materials of a variation of designs.

Each motif may be applied either to a rectangular or oval shade.

Special shade paper, cement, ring set, background crystals, needle, lacing or binding, punch for lacing edges, clothes pins to hold the shade to the rings, brush, metal clips for the seam while drying and complete instructions are included in the kit in addition to the material needed for the motif chosen.

Louise Lindahl will show shoppers just how easy it is to use these kits in a two-day special demonstration at Wille Lumber and Fuel, Mt. Prospect, Saturday and Sunday, May 28 and 29.

AAUW to Hear State Chairman May 26th

The May 26 meeting of the American Association of University Women will feature Mrs. Frank Stuart speaking on her work as an AAUW representative at the President's White House conference on children.

A homemaker, Mrs. Stuart has long been active in AAUW and is presently the state division chairman of social and economic issues. She holds BS and MA degrees from Northwestern university and is a member of Pi Lambda Theta, national honorary education society.

MRS. STUART was appointed by Gov. Stratton to the Illinois conference on children and is vice president of the Illinois committee on child welfare.

Her talk will follow a business meeting and get-acquainted coffee hour, to which all women holding college degrees are invited. Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Donald Narquis, Mrs. Raymond Kreckel and Mrs. John Wollschlaeger.

The meeting will start at 8:15 p.m. in Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan building. Anyone interested in learning more about AAUW may contact Mrs. S. W. Cullison, CLearbrook 5-5410. (S

Dedicate McHenry Lock on Sunday

A caravan of boats led by Gov. William G. Stratton will sail up the Fox river from Algonquin to McHenry for the dedication of the McHenry lock Sunday, May 29.

The dedication program will open at 3:30 p.m. at Algonquin with a brief talk by the governor. The boat caravan is scheduled to leave at 4 p.m. and arrive 45 minutes later at the McHenry lock.

After the ceremony at the lock, the governor will make a trip into the Chain O'Lakes. He will return to McHenry for a dinner in his honor at the McHenry Country Club.

Opening of the lock will free 17 additional miles of river for boat travel into the Chain O'Lakes. The lock is the first of a series of projects in a long range plan that will eventually make the Fox river available for small boats from the Illinois border at Ottawa into the Chain O'Lakes on the Wisconsin border.

Stratton was requested by the Commission for the Development of the Fox river to pilot the first boat up the river, through the lock and into the Chain O'Lakes.

A Puzzle Solution

Puzzling over what to have for dinner tonight? Try a crunchy corn bread ring filled with tasty mushroom-ham sauce! A package of your favorite corn muffin mix stirs together in a minute for the tender ring; the sauce can be prepared while it bakes. With such a "quickie" on the menu, you can spend less time in the kitchen and more time doing that favorite outdoor project.

HAM IN CORN BREAD RING

Makes 6 servings

Corn Bread Ring:

One 12-oz. pkg. (1¾ cups) Flako Corn Muffin Mix
1 egg
2/3 cup milk

Filling:

¼ cup butter or margarine
3 tablespoons chopped onion
1 cup drained canned sliced mushrooms
¼ cup sifted enriched flour
1¾ cups milk
2 cups chopped cooked ham

Heat oven to hot (400 degree F). For the ring, empty contents of package into bowl; add egg and milk. Blend only until dry ingredients are thoroughly moistened. (Batter should be slightly lumpy.) Pour batter into greased 5-cup ring mold. Bake in pre-heated oven 20 to 25 minutes.

While the ring is baking, melt butter in saucepan; add onion and muchrooms. Cook until onion is tender, about 5 minutes. Blend in flour; add milk all at once; stir constantly. Cook over low heat until mixture thickens; add ham. Continue cooking over low heat, stirring frequently, about 10 minutes.

Outlook for Illinois Corn Crop Favorable

By L. H. SIMERL

Prices of the 1959 corn crop have moved about as was expected. The rise from harvest to April was 10 to 15 cents a bushel. From October through March, prices averaged about 2 cents a bushel lower than the year before. But where the March to April rise was around 9 cents last year, it was only 5 cents this year.

Prices rose only slightly after April last year, the average Illinois farm price reaching $1.19 in June.

Last year prices during the summer were about 10 cents above the levels of the previous winter. A similar difference may prevail this year.

THE SUPPLY of corn on farms April 1 of this year was estimated at 2,088 million bushels, 15 per cent more than the year before. But farmers are rapidly using and selling their corn. Disappearance during the quarter ended April 1 was 1,006 million bushels, nearly 15 per cent more than in the previous year.

Farmers had 26 per cent of their corn under price support on April 1 this year compared with only 25 per cent a year before. The general support level is $1.12 this year compared with $1.06 last year. The support rate for the 1960 crop will be not less than $1.06.

Exports of corn from October 1 to May 6 totaled about 127 million bushels, about 4 per cent more than a year before. Export shipments are being made with subsidies of only 1 to 2 cents a bushel. This means that our corn prices now are virtually on an international value basis.

THE COMMODITY Credit Corporation has reported sales of 51 million bushels from October 1 to May 6. This amount is 46 per cent less than was sold by the CCC in the same period a year before.

In March the government survey of farmers reported that they intended to plant 86 million acres, or about the same as in 1959. Some seed companies reported larger sales than in 1959, but some of the increase may reflect a stepping-up of purchase dates and intentions to plant more kernels per acre.

The late spring cut the seeding of spring grains in some areas, and some land farmers intended for spring grains may be planted to corn. On the other hand, farmers may plow up less hay and pasture than they would have if conditions had been favorable.

Oats were seeded about two weeks later than usual, and cooler than average weather has retarded growth. Yields may be low.

Barley seeding in the heavy producing northern states (North Dakota, Minnesota and Montana) was also late.

CONDITIONS seem to be favorable in the big sorghum grain areas of Texas, Kansas and Nebraska.

Our state seems to be in a favorable position in the corn market. In April our average price was $1.09 bushel. This was 17 cents over Iowa, 25 cents over Minnesota and 12 cents over Nebraska. Part of these differences reflect lower quality corn this year in the other states. The Illinois average price was equal to that of Indiana and only 1 cent below Ohio.

In the southern and eastern states, to which we ship large amounts of corn, prices were about 20 cents a bushel over Illinois levels.

Test All Bulls Fertility

The farmer's best insurance against barren cows is a complete physical and fertility check of herd bulls before the breeding season, according to Dr. H. J. Hardenbrook, University of Illinois veterinarian.

Both yearling bulls and older bulls with several years of service should be checked. While the yearling bull's general breeding ability is less certain, one good season's production from a mature bull is no guarantee that production will be high the following season.

Farmers should also keep the bull active and in good condition during the entire breeding season.

A yearling bull should gain from 150 to 200 pounds during the breeding season while other animals should maintain their weight. However, Prof. A. L. Neumann, University of Illinois animal scientist, noted that it is not unusual for some highly conditioned yearling bulls to lose up to 300 pounds during the season.

BULLS OF this type sometimes lack sex drive if put on pasture before they take off some weight. An animal that is fed a high concentrate ration and conditioned to show is seldom conditioned to do field service as a herd bull.

According to Dr. Hardenbrook the rumen bacteria of a yearling bull fed a high concentrate ration is unable to handle a full grass ration. If the animal is suddenly taken off a concentrate ration and put on pasture, a period of adjustment is necessary. As a result the the animal may be infertile one, two or even eight months.

Once the breeding season is under way, feeding yearling bulls a limited grain ration when they are on pasture may help them retain both their condition and potency. Neuman says any bulky concentrate, such as ground ear corn, oats or bran, fed at the rate of five or six pounds is valuable, especially during July and August when pastures are short.

Only One-Third of Farm Youth To Attend College

Farm youth fall behind their city cousins in plans to attend college, according to a recent report from the bureau of the census and the Agricultural Marketing service.

Among farm youth graduating from high school this year, fewer than one-third plan to attend college. About 41 per cent do not plan to attend and 27 per cent were undecided. In contrast slightly more than 50 per cent of urban and 47 per cent of rural nonfarm youth plan to attend college.

In the light of these figures, University of Illinois rural sociologist C. L. Folse calls upon school officials and parents to encourage more farm young people to acquire college educations. In our highly complex, automated society, educational attainment is becoming more essential for success, he pointed out.

The need for continued efficiency in farming and demands from related agricultural industries will require the best leadership that can be produced, Folse said. Yet this same report shows that only 10.2 per cent of farm youth now enrolled in college are studying agriculture. The report shows that 15.8 per cent are in business, 23.3 per cent in education, 10.7 per cent in engineering and 14.4 per cent in biological sciences.

Numerous reports show that the demand for agricultural college graduates far exceeds the supply. Just as in any other business, the complex nature of farming requires high management ability. Numerous industries serving farmers are also increasing rapidly and offer good opportunities for college-trained farm youth. (FM

Note 4-H Success; 66 Chicago Clubs

4-H Club work, long an important youth activity in rural Illinois, has now invaded Chicago. Reports indicate that the big city is greeting the newcomer with high approval.

More than 1,400 youth have worked in the Chicago 4-H program since it started three years ago. At present the program enrolls nearly 1,000 boys and girls, Chicago 4-H leader Lawrence Biever explained in a recent progress report.

To meet this strong demand 30 new clubs were formed for 1960, bringing the city's total to 66 active clubs.

Foods and clothing are the high-interest projects among Chicago girls. Although most interest lies in areas related economics, other projects also meet with high approval. These include photography, leathercraft, junior leadership metal enameling and woodworking.

Electronics is the most popular project among the boys. Other ranking boys' projects include art, outdoor gardening, metalcraft, plastics, science and electricity.

Biever said teen-agers play an active role in the Chicago program. More than 52 per cent of Chicago's 4-H'ers are 13 years and older. This is 10 per cent above the national average and 5 per-cent higher than the average for Illinois.

Up and Doing 4-H Holds Banquet May 6

May 6 was the date of the Up and Doing 4-H club's annual banquet, held in St. John Lutheran church, Mt. Prospect. The Ladies Aid of the church served the group.

Recent meetings were held in the homes of Carol Muehling and Margaret Sidor. A queen candidate was selected and a tour to How's Perennial Gardens, to be followed by a picnic, was planned. Carolyn Haseman gave a talk on flowers and one on health by Bette Kolpin. A talk on pictures for pleasure was given by Dolores Thow and demonstrations on party-a-month and drop cookies were given by Virginia Witt and Melanie Smital. (Fm 4-H

Test Corn Oil Effect on Lamb

Lamb producers wanting to take advantage of the new high-oil corn may soon find out whether it has any effect on lamb carcasses.

Tests are currently under way at the University of Illinois according to U. S. Garrigus, head of the department of animal science sheep division.

Garrigus explained that earlier tests showed high-oil corn could increase the rate and efficiency of lamb gains up to 10 per cent. "We have never been sure, however, whether high-oil corn affects the carcass," he said.

This spring he and his colleagues are feeding several groups of similar lambs. All lambs are getting creep rations that vary only in the type of corn. Half of the lambs are eating high-oil corn; the remainder are getting standard hybrid corn.

Later this summer meats research workers will evaluate the carcasses of lambs that received high-oil corn and regular corn. They'll try to measure any differences, good or bad, that can be traced to either corn.

Garrigus admitted that high-oil corn could logically produce soft fat. Several years ago he compared carcasses from lambs fed high-oil corn with carcasses of lambs fed standard hybrid corn. The carcasses did not reveal any significant differences in unsaturated or soft fat.

These trials, however, were limited. That's why more extensive studies are under way this year. (FM

Safety Talks Highlight May 4-H Meeting

Talks on photography and planting vining plants were given by Mike Duda and Paul Brookhouzen at the May 11 meeting of Prospector's 4-H club, when members met in Mt. Prospect State bank building.

Members are hoping to win an award in safety and several aspects of safety were included in the meeting. Larry Oehlerking spoke on "Safety at Home and Play," William Schwartz demonstrated "Life Saving in Water," Tom Niemet and Ray Wells teamed up to talk and demonstrate first aid, including artificial respiration and various bandages.

RAY WELLS gave an illustrated talk on "Testing the Fuse Box" for his electricity project. Schwartz also showed the proper way to make an evergreen cutting and John Ryan gave an impromptu talk on "What Comes from the Soil."

The following day the club held dress rehearsal for their Share the Fun skit, which was held May 19 in Arlington high school. (Fm 4-H

Modern Etiquette

Q. If a man has a date with a girl who drives her own car, does she drive him home at the end of the evening and then drive herself home alone, or should he see her home and then take public transportation to his home?

A. The proper thing for the man to do is to go home with her, and then take public transportation to his own home.

Release New Farm Tenancy Law Book

The University of Illinois college of agriculture has just published a new 16 page circular, "Farm Tenancy Laws in Illinois."

The new publication is written by N. G. P. Krausz, professor of agriculture law at the university. He points out that Illinois law does not require a written farm lease, but it is a vaulable document to have when a dispute arises.

If a farm is rented under an oral lease, common law and custom normally control the operation of the farm. But these may not be suitable for a specific farm. Special oral agreements are often quite difficult to prove.

Krausz list five legal requirements for a written lease:

1. Both parties must sign it. If the farm is owned jointly, all owners should sign. To cover possible death of one of the parties it is advisable for all persons who have any interest in the land to sign the lease. But it is not legally necessary for the spouse of an owner or tenant to sign a lease to make it effective.

2. A definite period during which the farm is to be leased must be stated.

3. The property to be leased must be accurately described.

4. A landlord and tenant must be named.

5. The payment of rent must be provided for.

A good lease will also contain rights and duties of owner and tenant.

Copies of the new circular may be obtained from the farm adviser's office 201 N. Dunton avenue, Arlington Heights.

Vegetable growth has been retarded and plantings have been delayed by the recent cool, moist weather. Sweet corn and asparagus have been almost at a standstill.

If you have not planted your beans, beets, corn, tomatoes, cucumbers and melons, you should do so immediately.

This is the season of the year when many weeds are making their appearance in the lawns. Broadleaf plants can be killed by applying 2, 4-D and related weed killers. However, weed killers are dangerous to use around the vegetable garden or near your flowers and shrubs. If you apply 2, 4-D use the amine type and apply it on a windstill day. If you would like a publication entitled "Prevent 2, 4-D Injury" I would be happy to send you a copy. The Farm Bureau address is 201 N. Dunton ave., Arlington Heights.

THE CONSERVATION Reserve will idle approximately 28 million acres this year or six per cent of the nation's cropland. The original purpose of the soil bank program was to reduce surplus commodities by temporarily retiring farmland from production. Conservation is an incidental aspect of the program. In practice, a large proportion of the land idled by the program has had low productivity.

New Mexico has 35 per cent of its cropland in the Conservation Reserve. Utah, Colorado, Georgia, South Carolina, Maine, Kansas and Nebraska all have more than 9 per cent. In Illinois only 1.9 per cent of the cropland is in the Conservation Reserve program. Iowa has 2.5 per cent; Indiana, 3.27; Wisconsin 6 per cent; Michigan, 6.6 per cent.

It may be questionable if enough of the productive land in the U. S. has been placed in the program to accomplish the program's prime purpose: to reduce surplus.

May 22, was Rural Life Sunday, which began Soil Stewardship week, May 22-29. The purpose of Soil Stewardship was to call one's attention to the soil and its importance to mankind. In the National association of Soil Conservation districts' booklet, "The Spirit of the People," one section is "Consider." I repeat it here as food for thought.

"Consider this soil.

"It lies as far as the eye can see. It covers millions on millions of acres around the globe, yet it is a rare thing and cannot be replaced.

"This soil is a living thing. Yet it can be destroyed.

"The soil is a fruitful thing. Yet it can become sterile.

"This soil is God's gift to mankind, given unto our stewardship. Yet it can be despoiled and wasted.

"This soil produces crops and verdant grass and trees. It cannot be duplicated by chemistry or physics.

"This soil is an intricate house of myriad elements. Yet it is so commonplace as to be known as dirt.

"It fills the flower pot in Manhattan, serves as a garden in Minnesota, and produces an orchard in California — this thing called soil.

"It is the spectacle of the Grand Canyon, the flatness of the Plains, and the rolling convolutions of the Shenandoah Valley — this thing called soil.

"It is the source of our nourishment; it provides the means of our protection.

'God has willed we can live with it; we cannot live without it.

"Consider this soil. Consider it well."

Arlington Girl Attends National 4-H Conference

Miss Audrey Gronert, 2012 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights, has recently returned from Washington, D. C. as one of the four Illinois 4-H delegates representing the state's more than 71,000 4 Her's at the 30th national 4-H conference, April 21, 29.

The conference highlighted a week of citizenship and leadership activities at the new National 4-H Club center and other places in Washington. Miss Gronert had the special honor, appointed by the national committee, to preside at the opening session of the conference.

OTHER EVENTS of the week included a special address by President Eisenhower in the rose garden at the White House to the 20 delegates, representing the 2¼ million 4-Her's in the country. There was also a ceremony on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial, educational tours to historic places in Washington, a trip to Mt. Vernon with the special privilege of placing a wreath on Washington's tomb and the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery.

Delegates heard top government speakers, visited with their congressmen, and participated in a full schedule of discussion meetings.

It was the privilege of Miss Gronert to be the special guest of Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church at the joint session of Congress, addressed by the King of Nepal.

THIS NATIONAL 4-H conference is the top award to be won by a 4-Her in any state and for Miss Gronert culminates a 10-year record of 4-H club work during which time she has received almost every significant county and state award, as well as several national honors, including State Junior leadership conference, National Club congress, First national alternate for "Report to the Nation," state citizenship winner, and Illinois 4-H representative on the Illinois Committee for the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth.

Miss Gronert is a junior in home economics education at the University of Illionis and is a member of Shi-Ai, Torch, and Phi Upsilon Omicron honoraries and Alpha Gamma Delta social sorority.

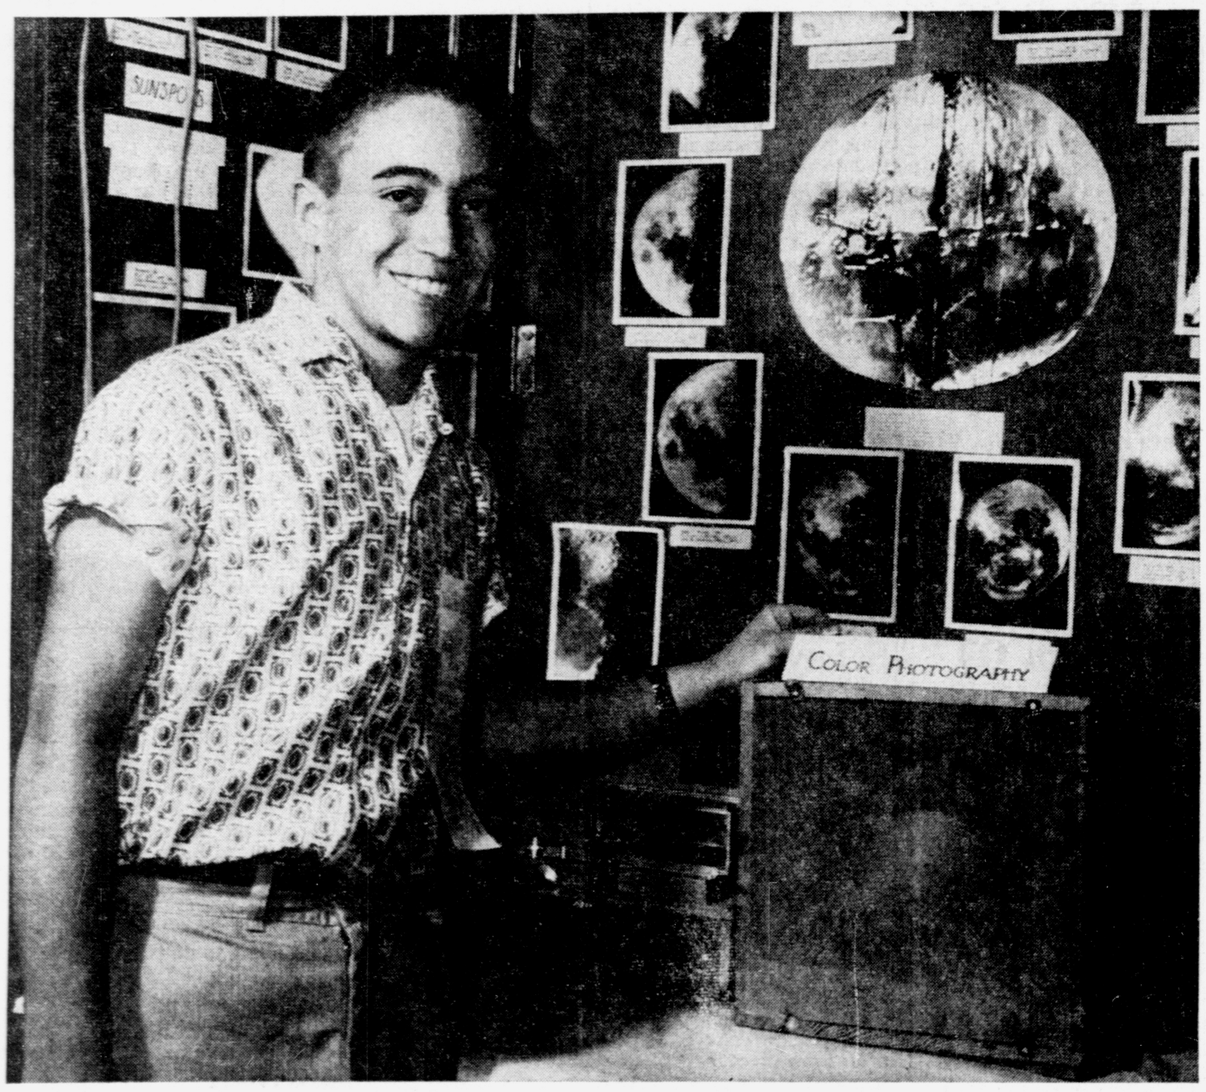
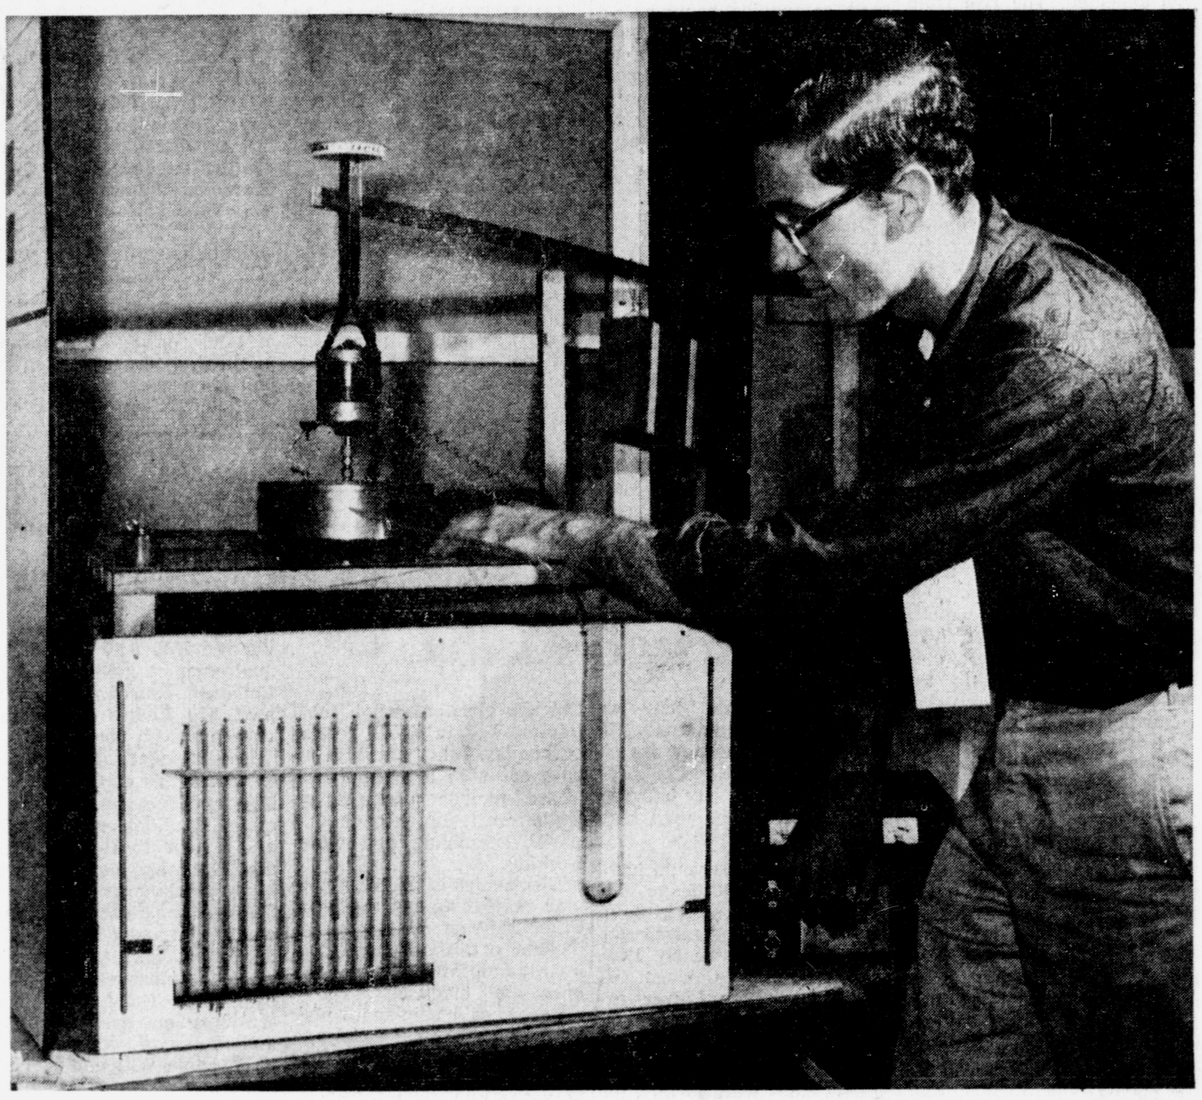
Suburban Scientists Display Projects

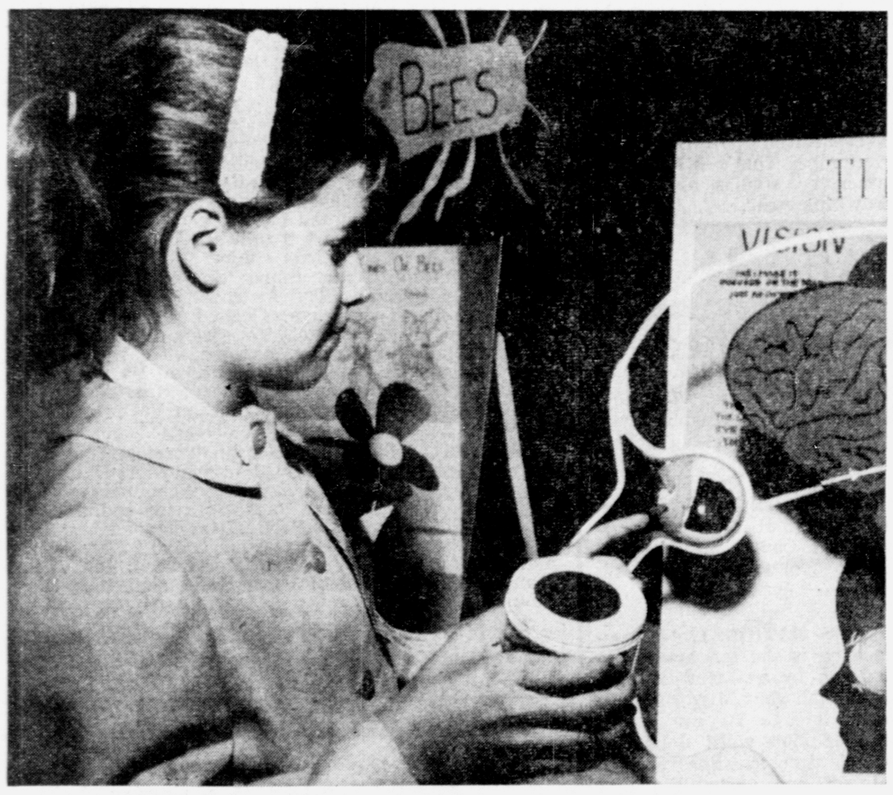


ASTROPHOTOGRAPHY EXHIBIT by Pete Schultz, Arlington high sophomore, was judged outstanding. The project illustrates the limits of a four inch reflector telescope and a 35 mm camera. It took a year of recorded research for Pete to obtain the proper settings.



A "WHEELESS" CAR that would ride on air is the subject of experiment by Tom Wade of Rolling Meadows, an Arlington high school senior. Attempt is made to determine stability and efficiency of an "air car." The project was awarded an outstanding.

Students Capture Top State Award



STARING AT ONE another are Becky Krantz and her exhibit, "The Eye." Becky, a seventh grader at Palatine's Paddock school, won a first place award for the project. She not only built the model, but can discuss in detail the eye's physiology.

Northwest suburban area students walked off with the honors this month at the Illinois Junior Academy of Science state meeting held at the University of Illinois in Urbana.

Student scientists from Arlington and Prospect high schools and junior high students from Palatine and Rolling Meadows won 14 awards—six outstanding and eight first place.

The Illinois Junior Academy, the oldest and largest in the United States, was founded in 1927. It is sponsored and supported by the Illinois State Academy of Science, a group of leading scientists.

The Junior Academy is composed of high school and junior high school students interested in science.

This year area students participated in the District Science Exposition held last month at Evanston township high school. First place awards were eligible for entry in the state contest.

Of the 10 projects entered by Arlington and Prospect high schools, six were judged outstanding and four won a first place. Palatine junior high students accounted for three first place awards and a Rolling Meadows student won a first place.

The students representing high school district 214 tied LaGrange high school district for the most outstanding awards given any high school district in the state.

JUDGES AWARD a first place to "Enzymes" project exhibited by Nancy Bohac of Rolling Meadows, an Arlington high freshman. Enzymes are present in all living organisms. Project showed their action upon the human body. Judges are R. T. Zeigler, Canton, Ill., and Mrs. Virginia Bartow of University of Illinois.

A MODEL AND EXPLANATION of the human ear's function won a first place award for Deborah Trimble of Palatine's Stuart Paddock school. She is a seventh grade student.

A STUDY of the causes of arthrosclerosis was entitled "Synthesis of Phospholipids." The outstanding project was exhibited by Nancy Slonek, a Prospect high school junior from Prospect Heights.

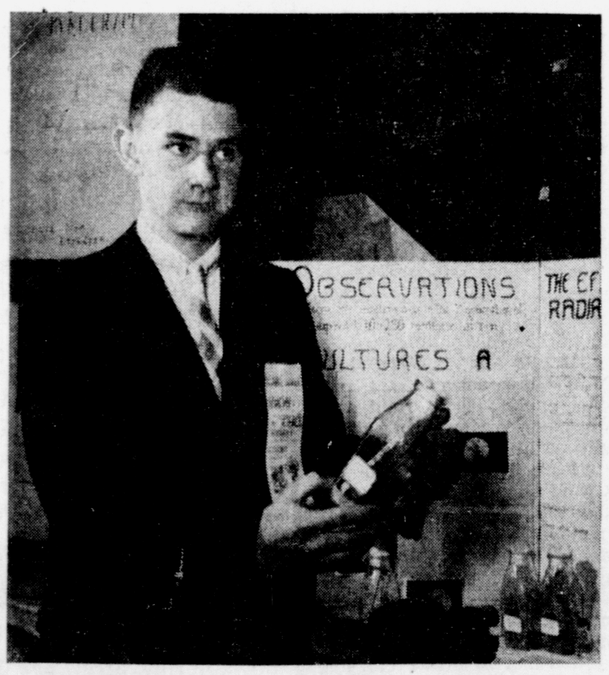
WE CALL THEM butterflies, but this exhibit was labeled "Collecting Lepidoptera" by its owner, Susan Peters. Project was awarded a first place. Susan is an eighth grader at Oak st. school in Palatine.



"THE EFFECT of Excessive Radiation on Fruit Flies" is shown by John Seidel, a Prospect high freshman from Mt. Prospect. Awarded an outstanding, the project exposed flies to radiation and observed mutations in their first generation offspring.

IN DISTINGUISHED company, Ted Milliken of Arlington Heights demonstrates the effect of environmental temperatures on the metabolic rate of mice for Dr. C. J. Hartman, formerly head of University of Illinois' department of zoology; Dr. Lyell Thomas, founder of Junior Academy of Science; and H. L. Sharma of India, visiting zoologist. Ted is a freshman at Arlington high school.
